6 LIFE IS A DISCOVERY

26 INVOLVED . . . in a special way

52 FACULTY

66 THE FORCE WITHIN US ALL

78 THE YEAR IN RETROSPECT

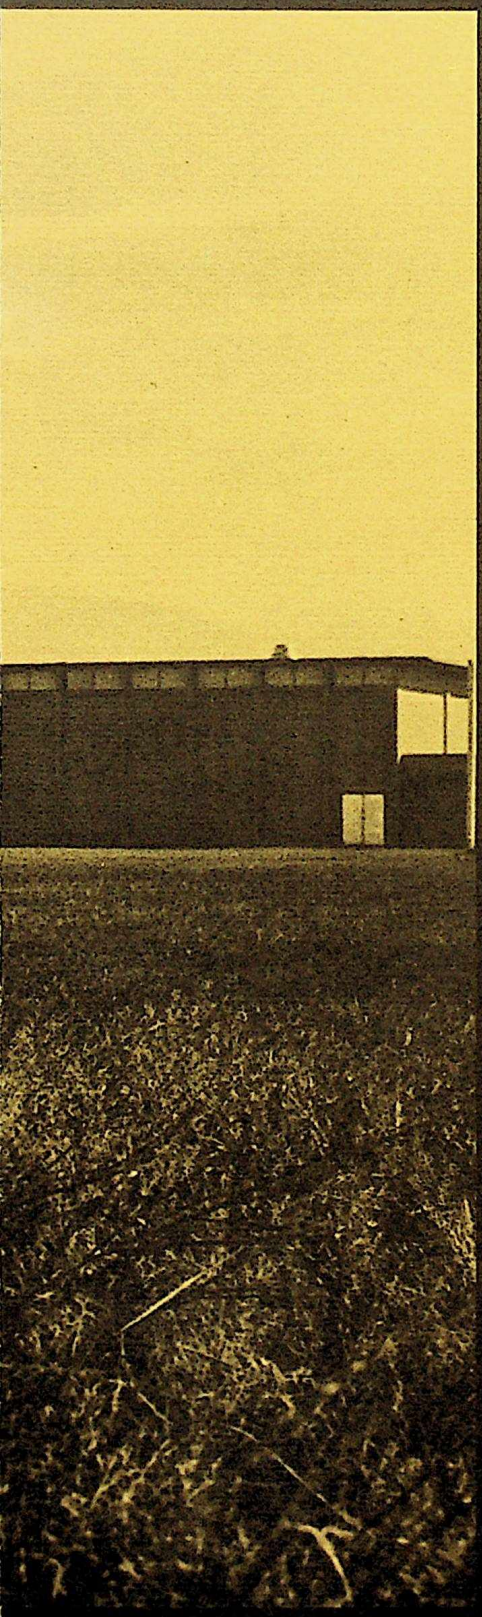
122 THE SENIOR CLASS

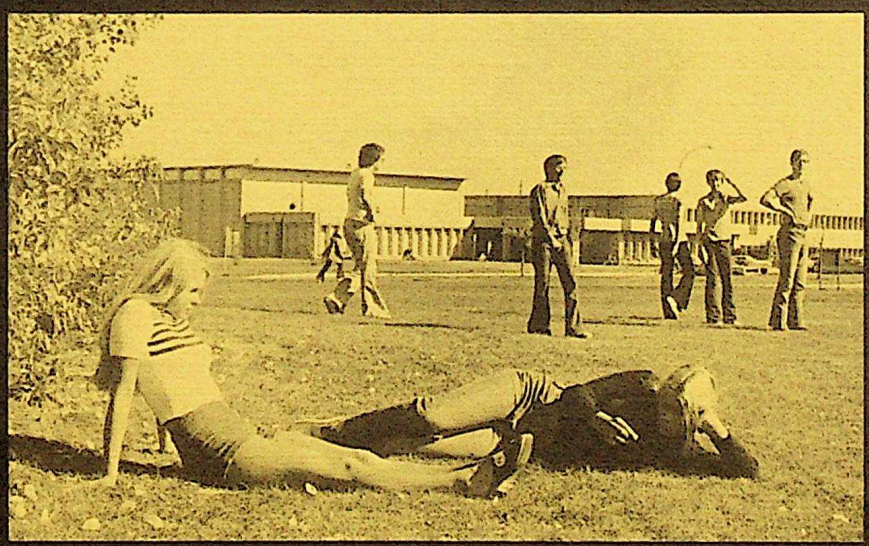
150 THE ELEVENS AND TENS

166 ASSORTMENTS

Time alone knows the searching eyes of introspection, of looking for a meaning to the unanswerable question . . .

By asking the question you become lost in the endless attempt of finding an answer . . .





You become lost in a unique voyage where you alone are the captain . . . The very undertaking of this voyage brings you closer to the infinite . . .
the passport to which is . . .

DISCOVERY

Discovery . . .
of loneness of striving and achieving . . .
of feeling of roughness of texture
and form . . .
of bending concrete
and abstract
of mind and substance
of the soul
and destiny

Discovery
is a life-long pursuit . . .
the pursuit of life itself.

Discovery belongs to more than one
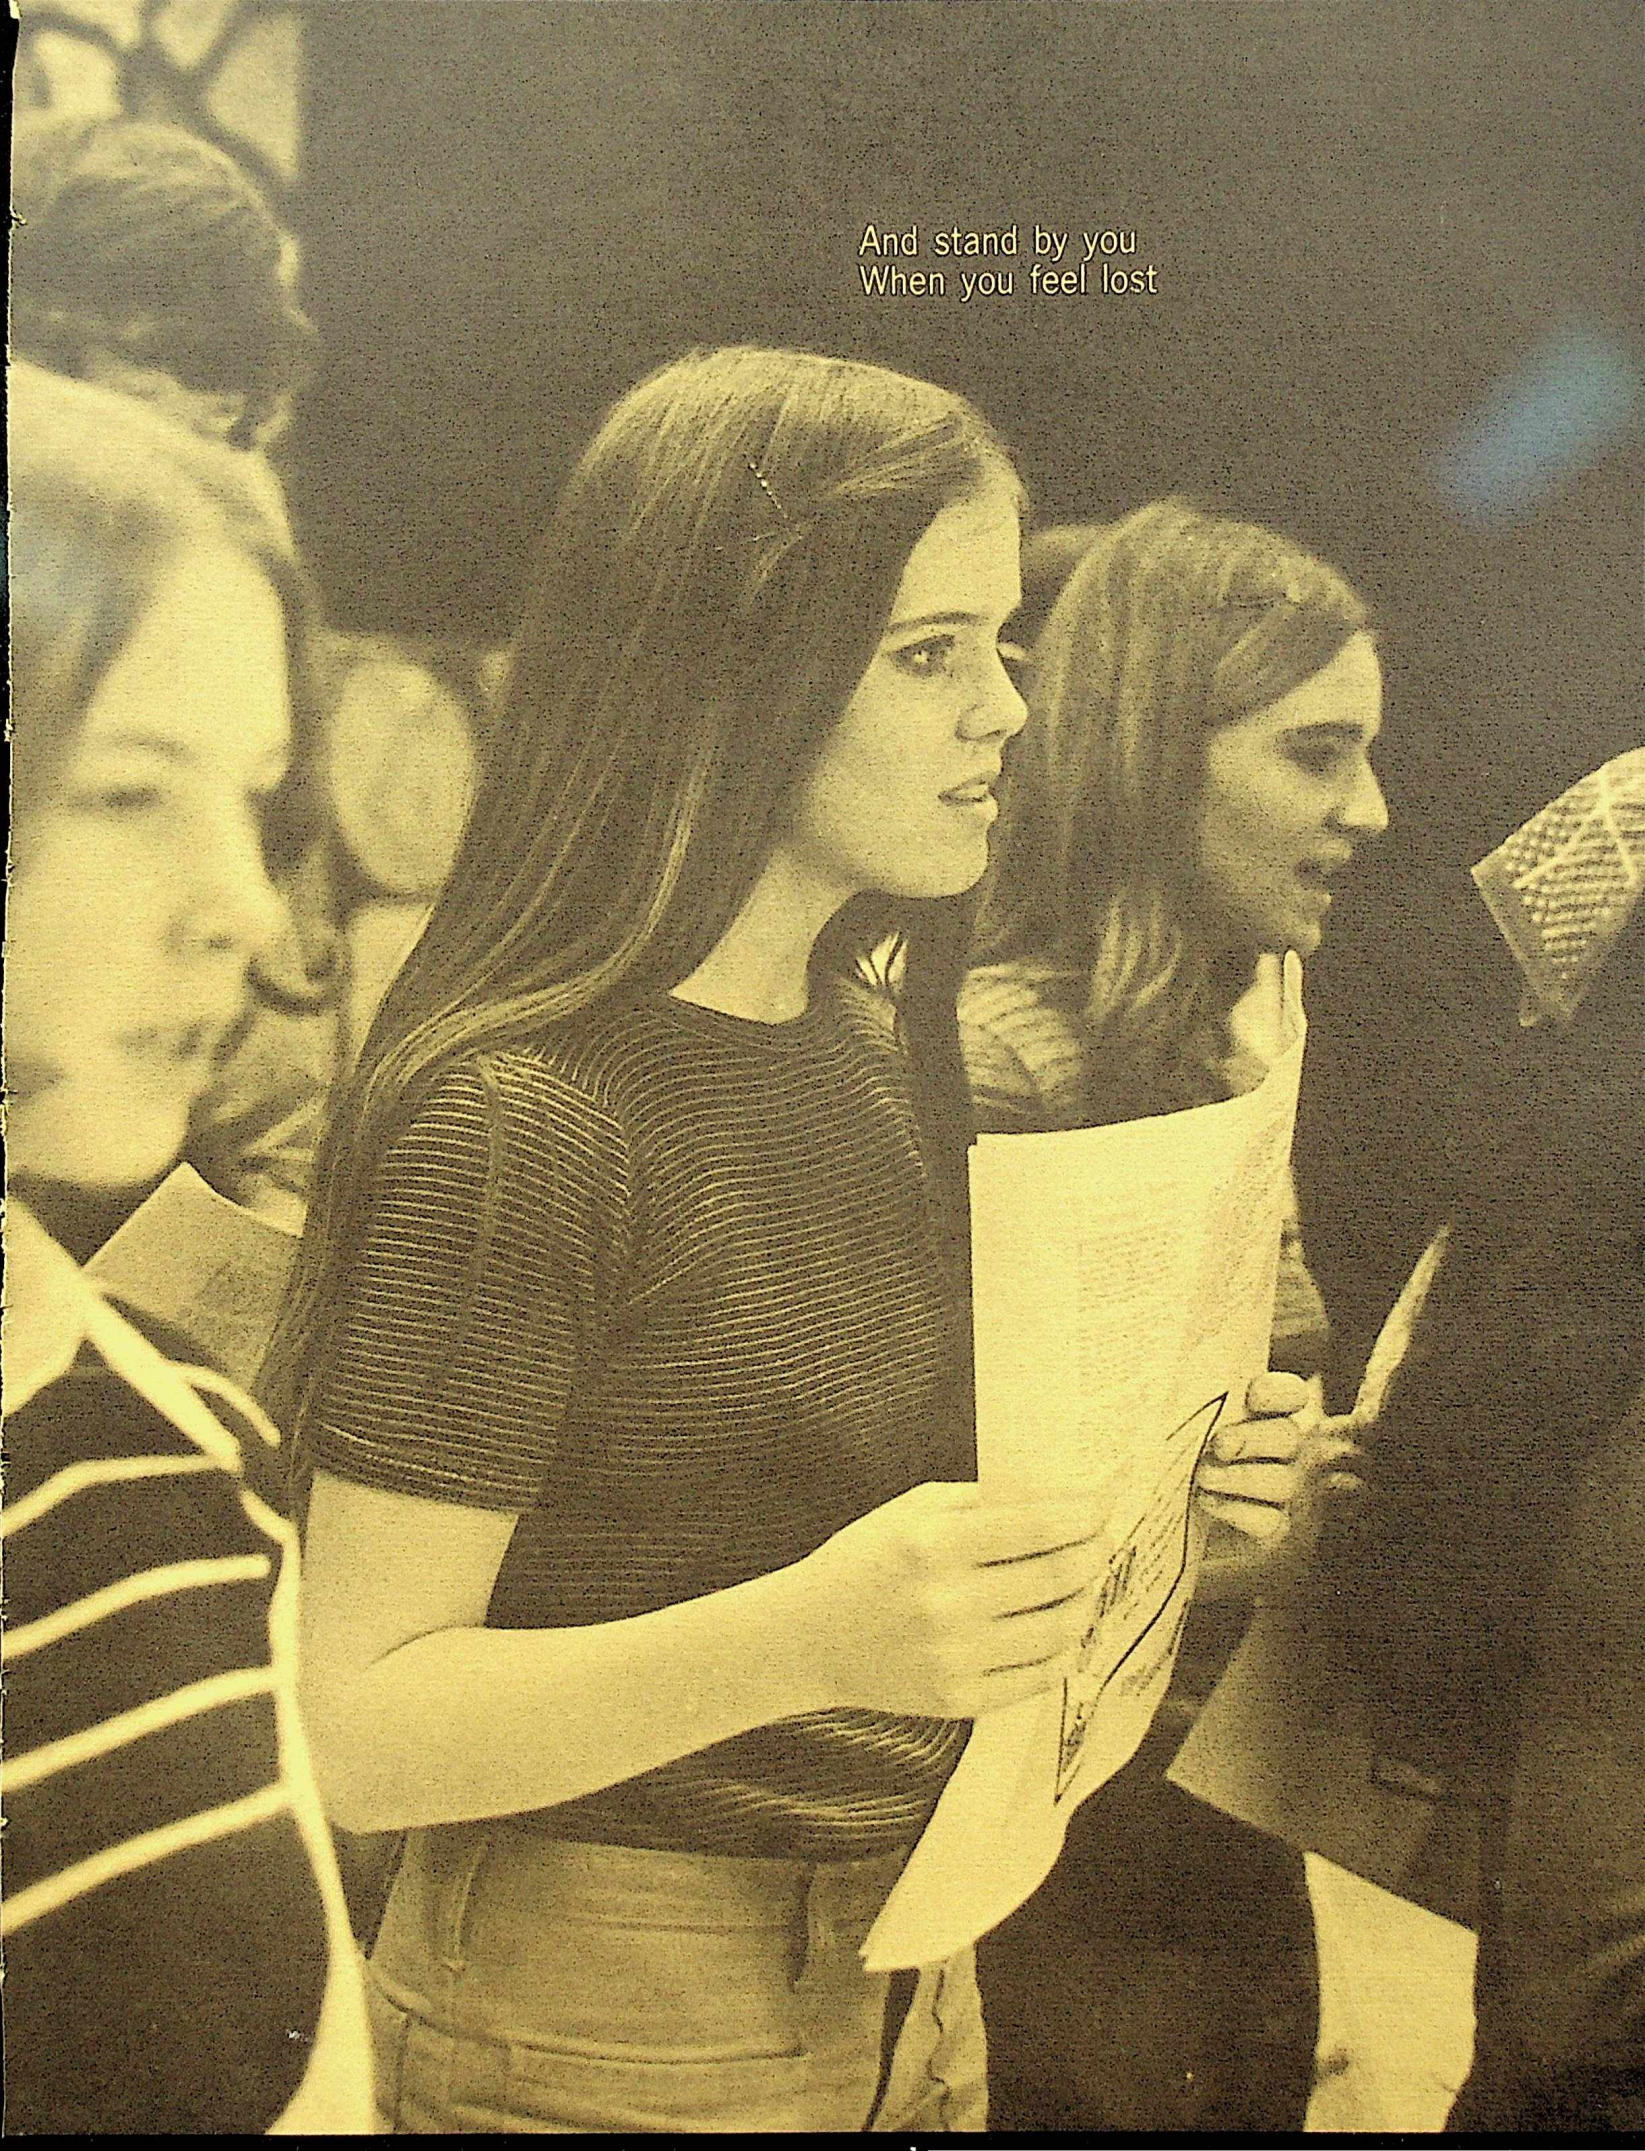
. . . of working and
Sharing Together

Sharing is the joy of friends who care,
Who give you
Part of Themselves . . .
Happy birthday!



And stand by you
When you feel lost

Discovery is finding knowledge in places where BOOKS are non-existent The secrets of colour and texture are yours for the finding, but the why's of growing may only be contemplated. For here nature stands alone and we are the outsiders who may only look with wonder. We can feel, we can explore, we can reach out and attempt to unravel her mysteries.

Discovery gains its OMNIPOTENCE from new experiences
Creativity is the essence of these experiences . . .
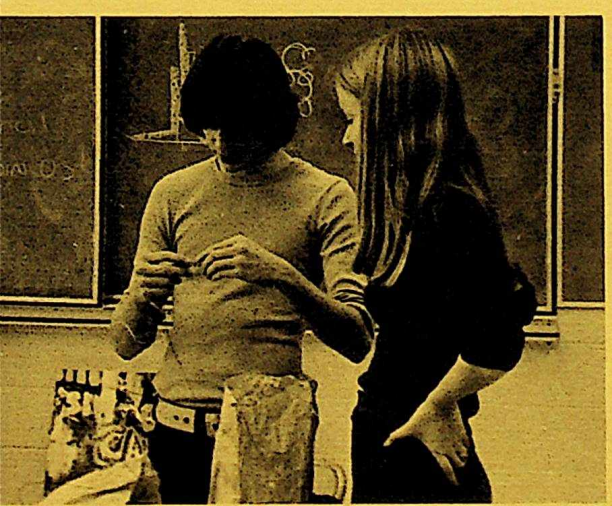
It takes many forms . . .



Customs, handicrafts
musical endeavor
All express the part of You that's hard to put into words.

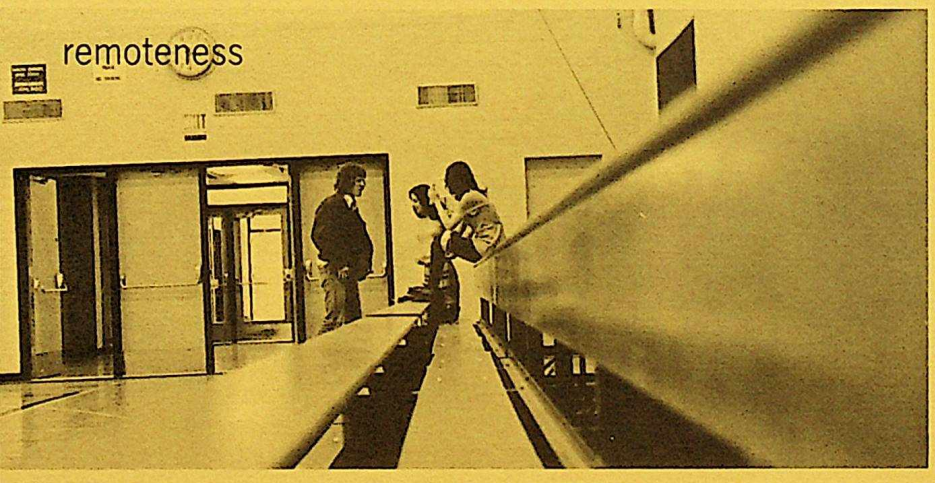
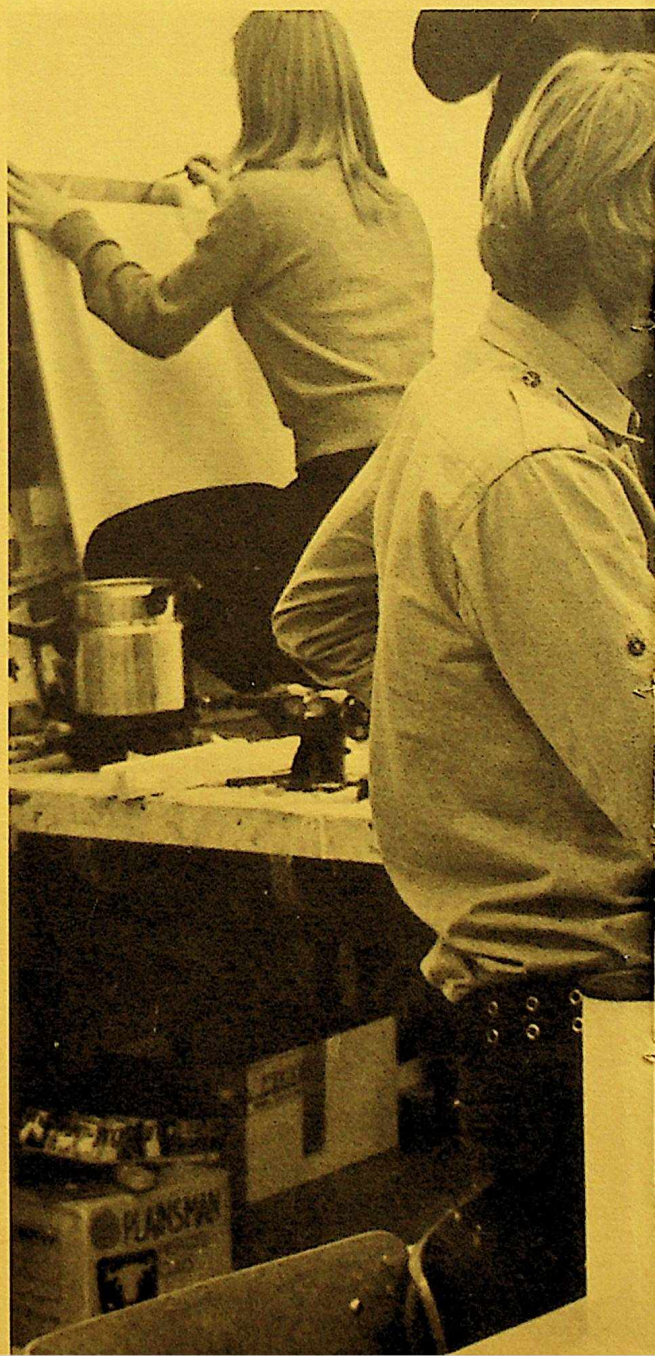
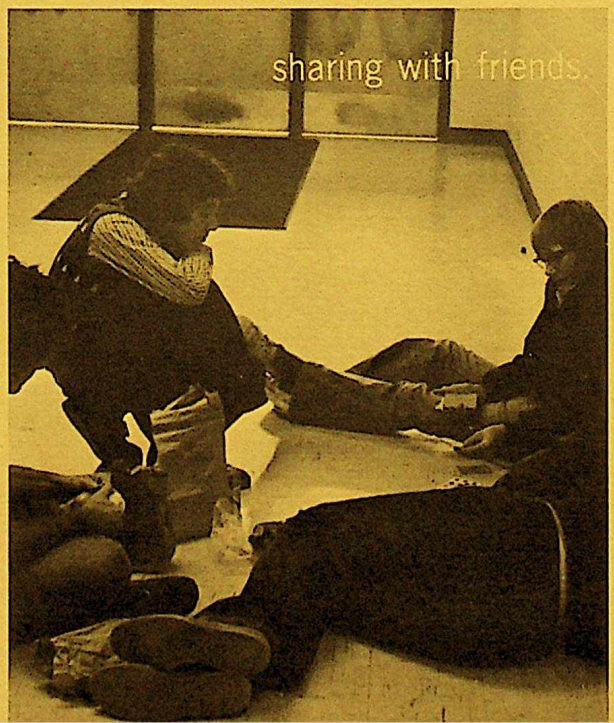
To inner thoughts

School is a panorama of activities for those who have the will to discover.
It lends itself to all aspects of discovery . . .

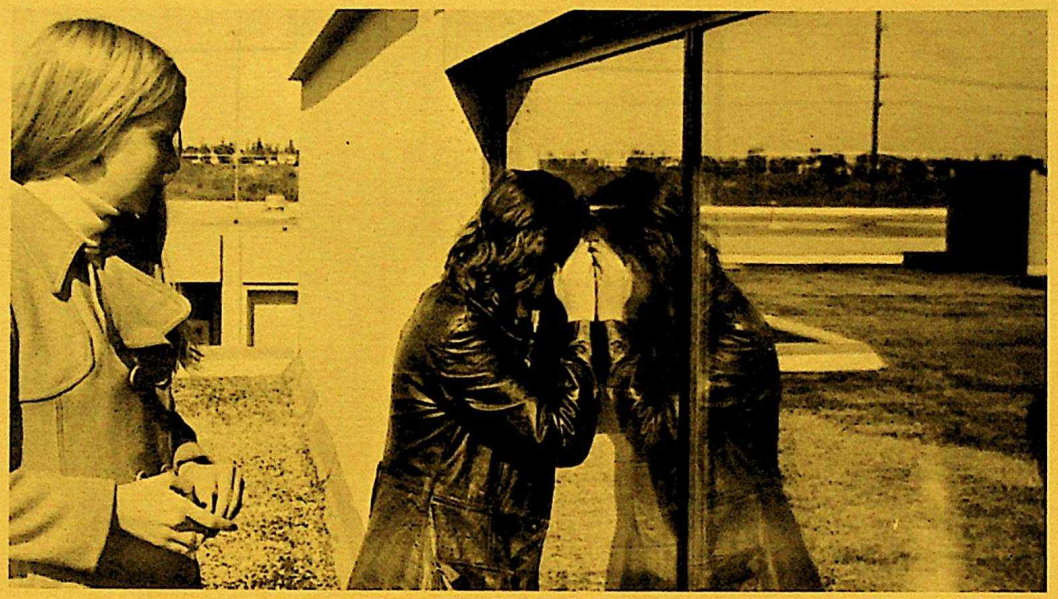


remoteness





sharing with friends.



School is continually Alive
A tumult of activity of struggling of achievement

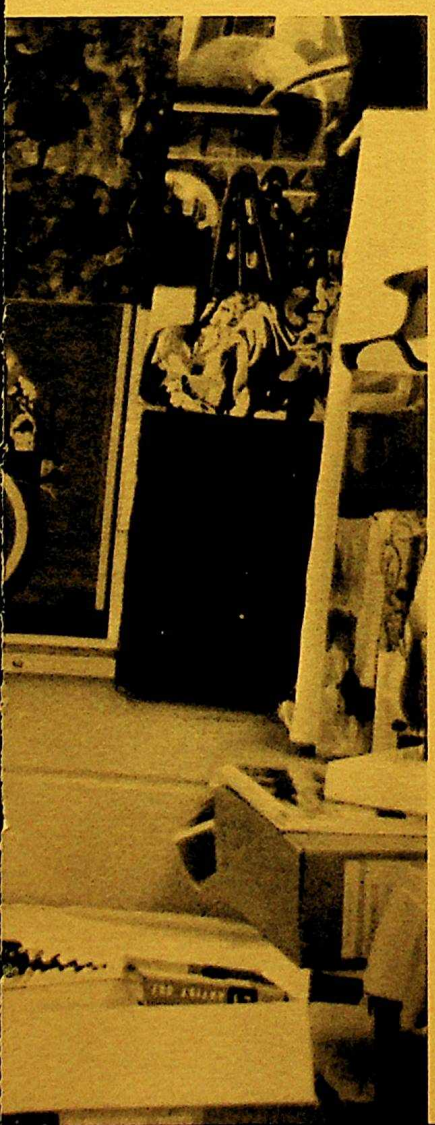
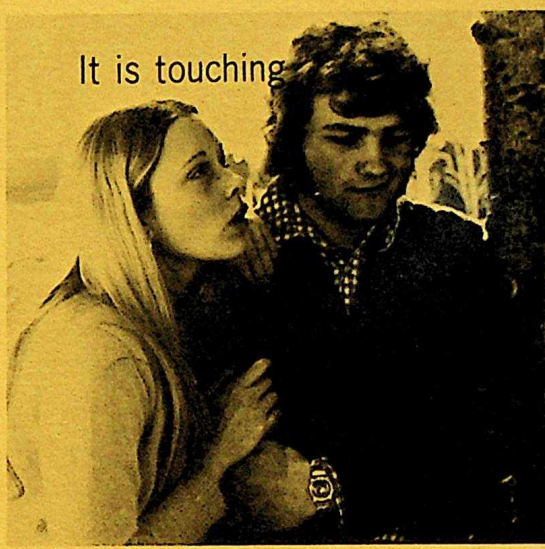
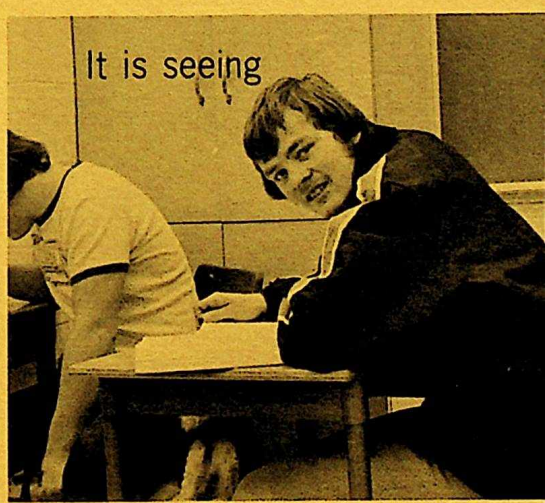
School is also physical



It is touching



It is seeing



It is feeling

School is perseverance, when the weather is gorgeous and the bikes are waiting
It is striving for a goal even when the goal is momentarily forgotten

And sometimes you just have to let go . . .
To drop someone else's dream
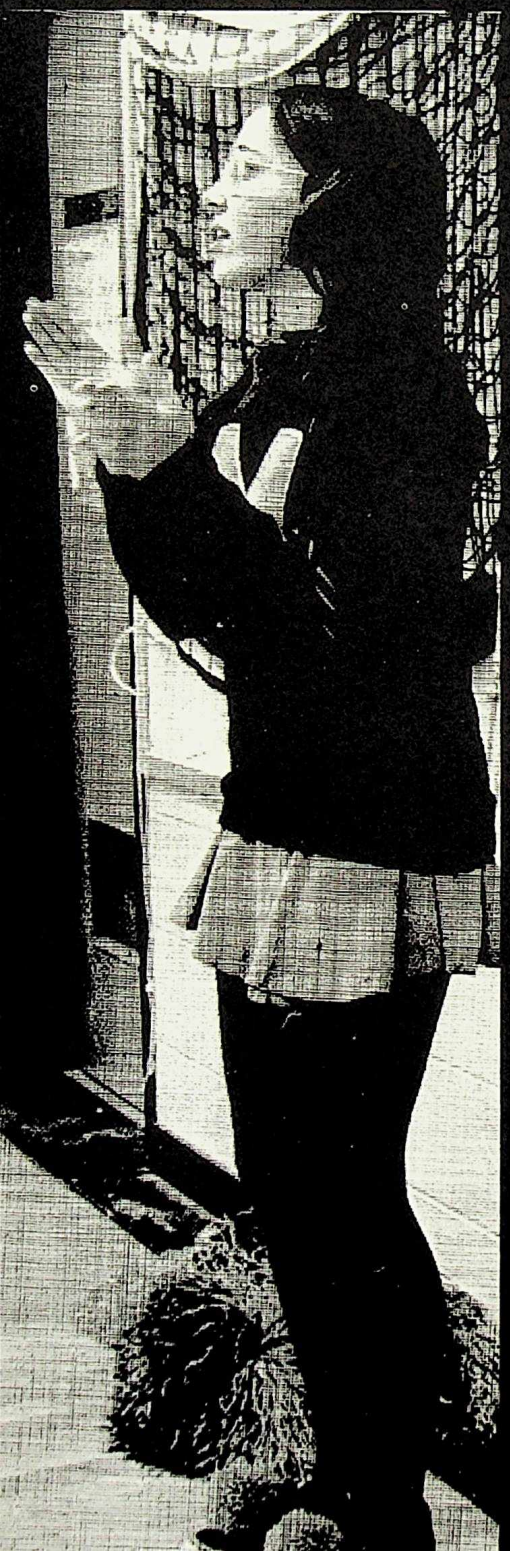
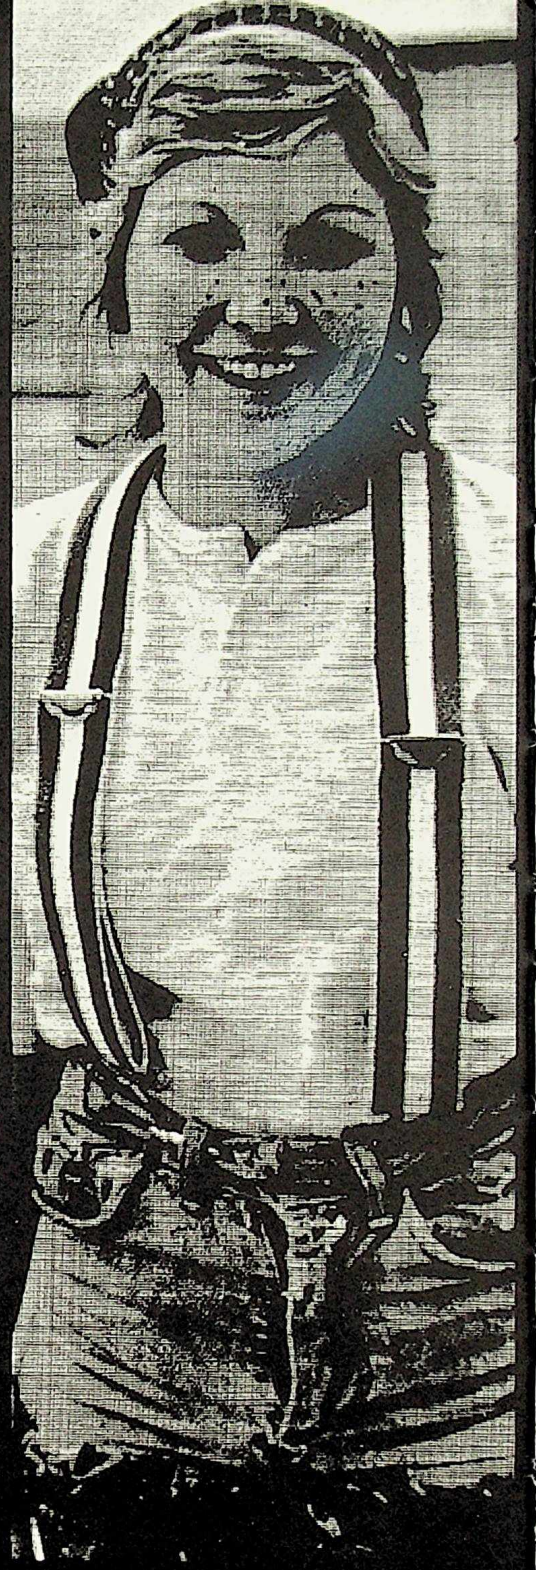
and get on with your own.

THIS is
discovery?

INVOLVEMENT





Involvement ? What form of man is this ?
It is going beyond the ordinary . . .
doing, for doing's sake . . .
going out of your way for an idea . . .
being only a small part of the whole . . .

Yes, but what does that mean to me ?

I don't understand.

It is being a room rep, or Students' Council Member or a cheerleader, or athlete.
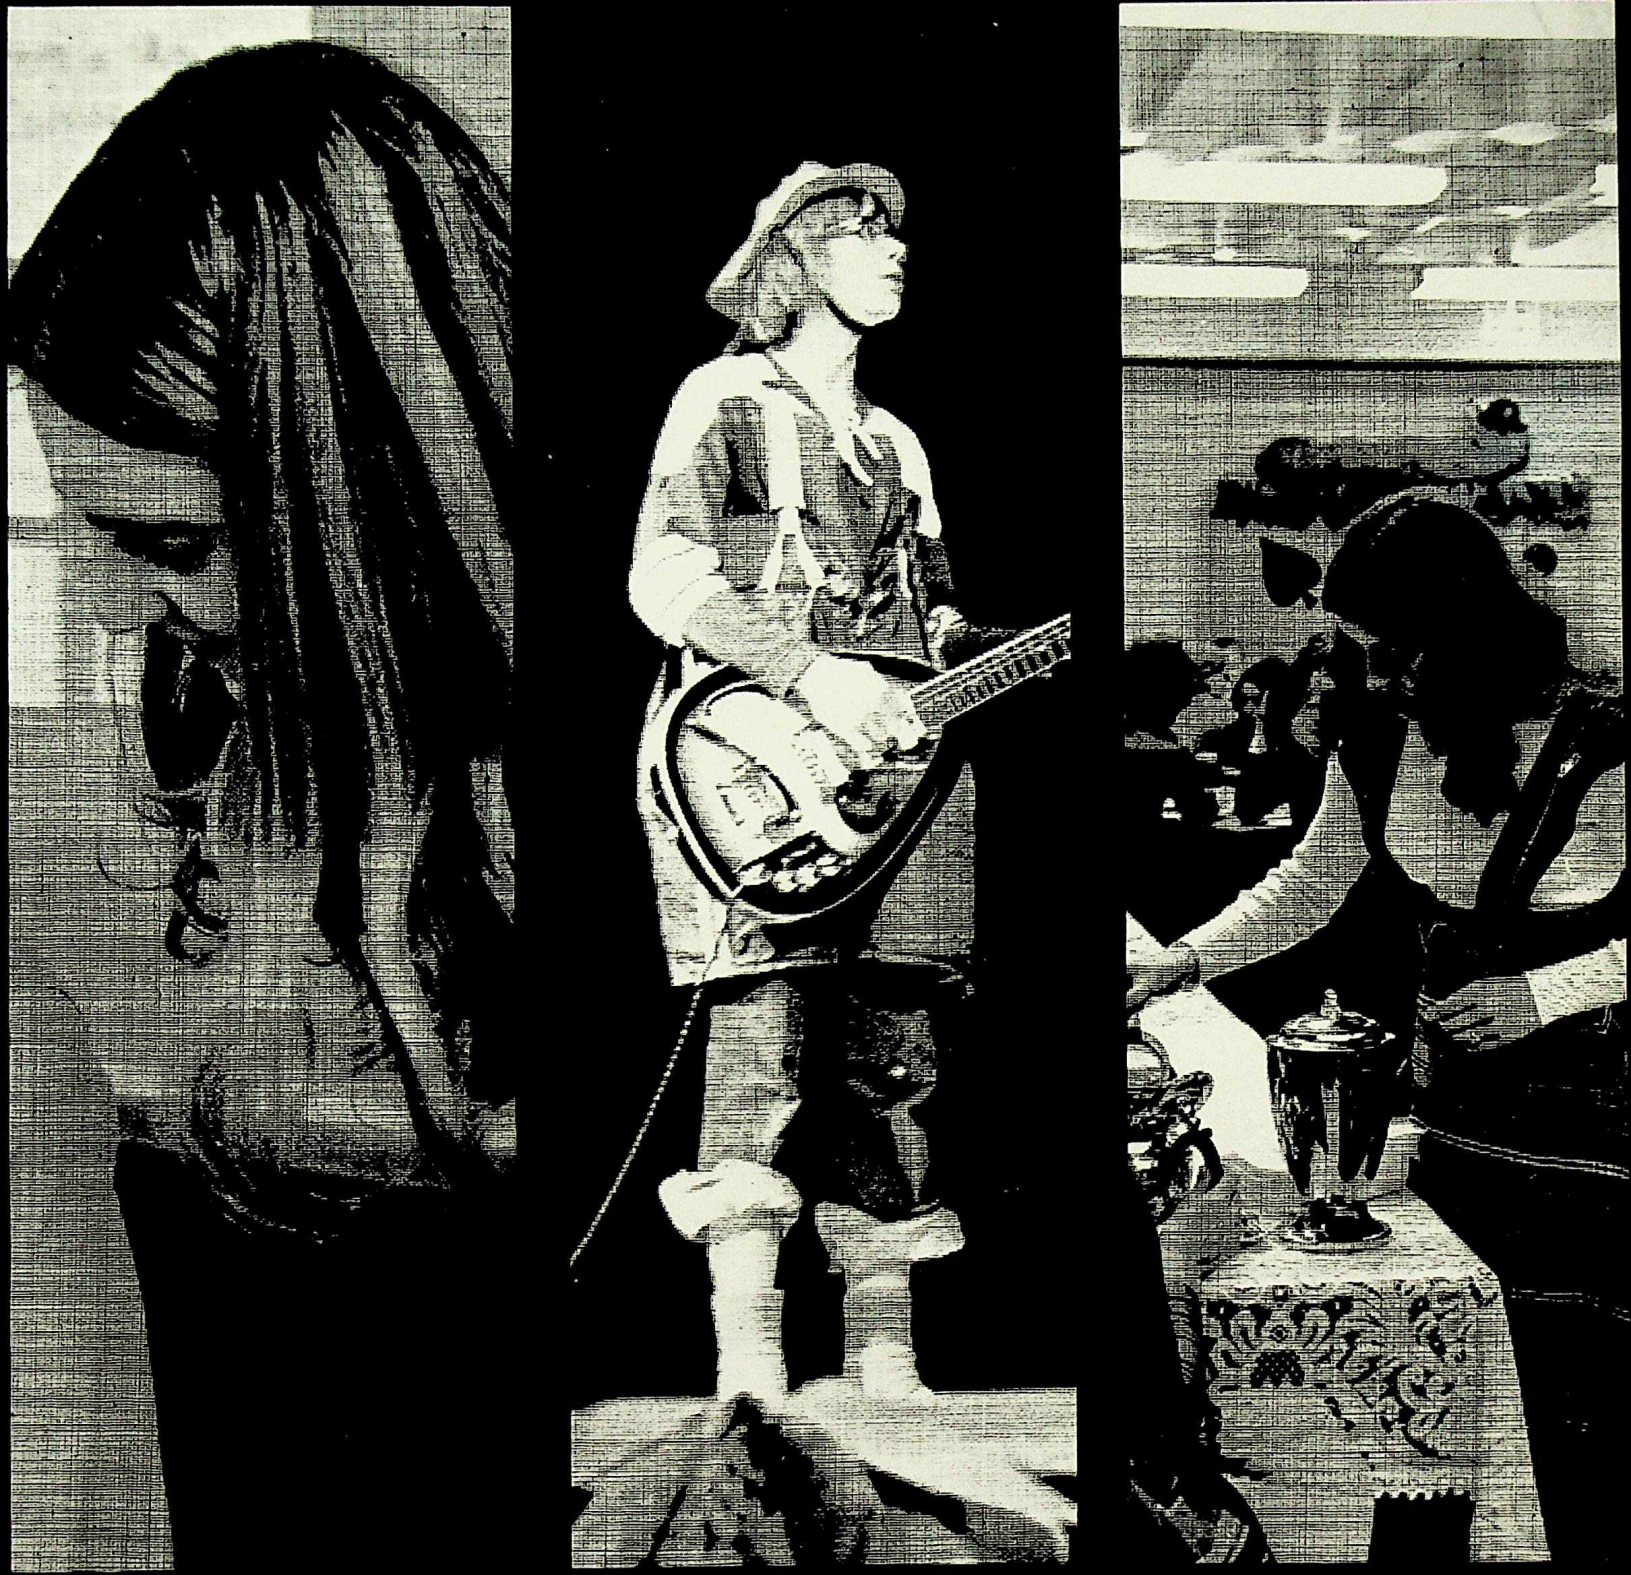
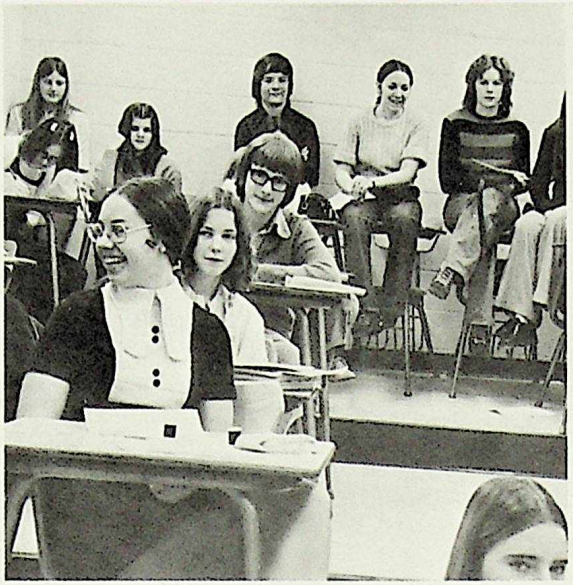
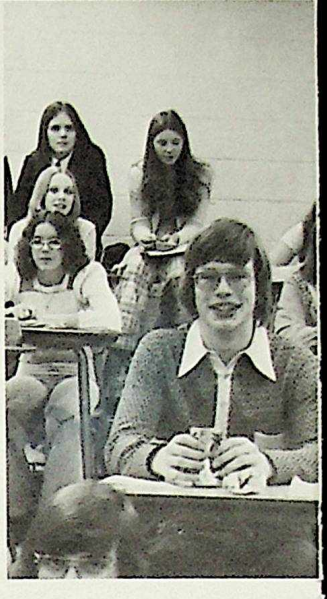
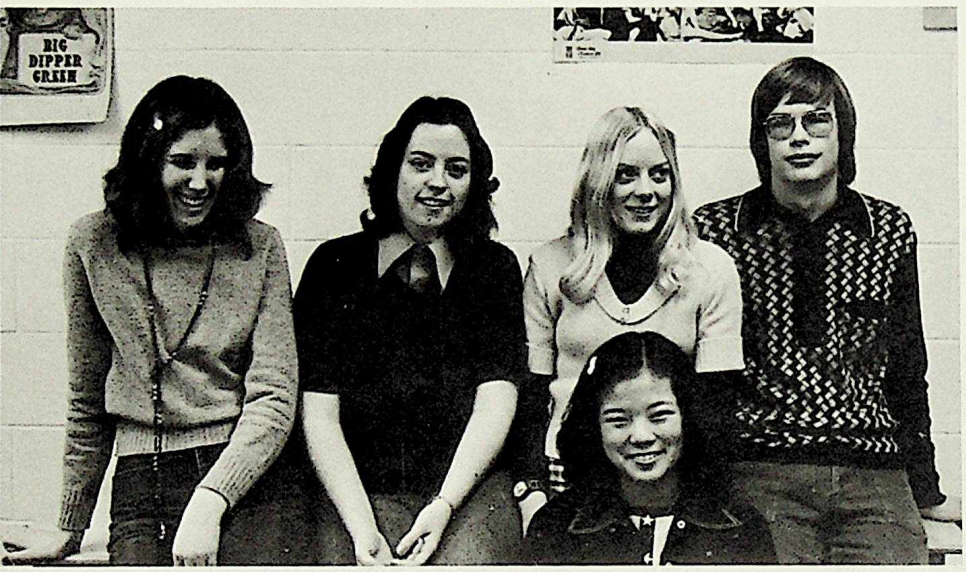
It is being a leader, through Grad Council or the Executive,
or the Debating, or the I.S.C.F. . . . any club!
or taking phys.-ed. beyond the compulsory.
That is Involvement !





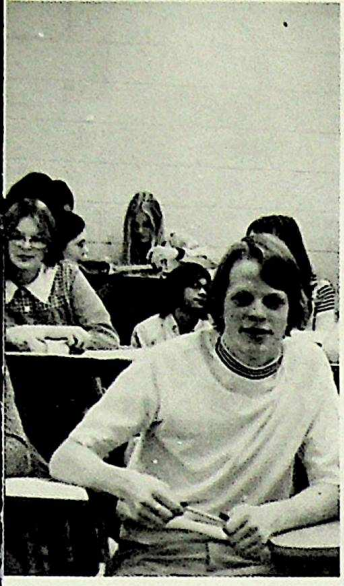


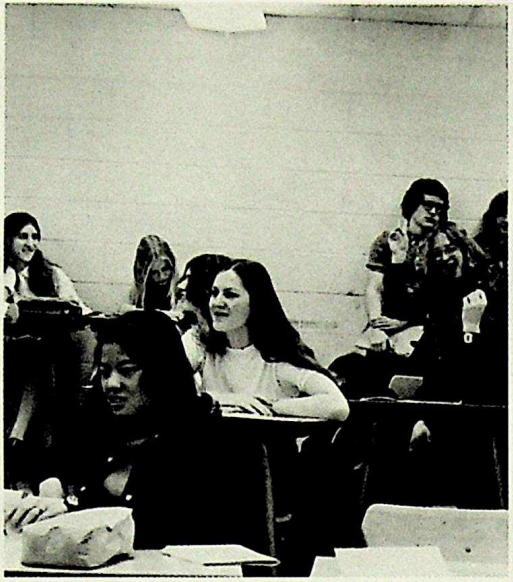
These are some of the room representatives of the first semester.



STUDENTS' UNION

The Students' Union is a group of individuals whose main purpose is to create and support school activities. Many new things were tried this year: watermelon seed spitting, Miss Valentine's Contest, and many more sock hops, to name a few!





STUDENTS' EXECUTIVE

From left to right: Karen Carmichael, girls' sports rep.; Phil Mix, boys' sports rep.; Mary Phillips, Treasurer; Lin Winnerstrom, Grade 10 rep.; Kendra Sutton, Grade 11 rep.; Lanice Jones, Grade 12 rep.; Bill Rogerson, President. First Row: Kathy Hughes, Vice Pres.; Debbie Holmgren, Secretary; Janet Shimbashi, Social Convener; Mr. Caldwell, Students' Advisor (standing).

STUDENTS' UNION

The year 1972-1973 was a year of discovery and learning, not in a scholastic sense (although this probably occurred to some extent) but more importantly as concerns friendship, involvement, responsibility and happiness.

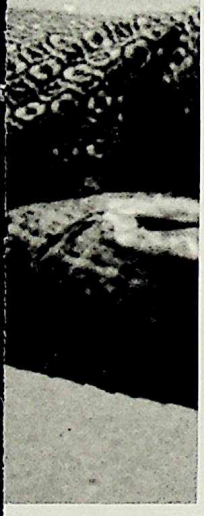
During Frosh we spit watermelon seeds, bought slaves, raced tricycles, attacked presidents and participated in many other memorable experiences that will leave lasting impressions (especially on the Frosh). The Christmas Lit was perhaps the most highly participated event ever in McNally in terms of both actors and spectators. Valentine's dance with Abraham's Children marked our first semi-open dance in two years as well as our first sellout.

This year's Grade ten and eleven students can look forward to the plans for a bus and lounge that we made late this year, becoming reality next year.

Thanks are due to everyone who attended and helped organize functions, teachers who helped us through another year, administration, Grad Council for the best Grad ever, and also the yearbook staff. Thanks also to the council and especially the executive who carried the load of work, for all of us.

I hope everyone fulfilled their hopes and ambitions this year and will do so in the years to come at McNally, University, or in society.

— Bill Rogerson



These are some of the fine people who acted as room representatives to the Students' Council for the second semester.

ISCF

The taste of baked corn and good fellowship was for many too good to pass up; a fall corn roast plunged the McNally Inter-School Christian Fellowship group (buttered fingers and all) into a fulfilling and fun-filled year. Stimulating discussions, sessions with guest speakers and the viewing of provocative films were just a few of the activities the group undertook, not to forget the various recreational programs including weekend retreats to a lake or the mountains. Several gospel singing groups were sponsored, and then sponsors sought as the annual spring "Garbathon" swung around again. And for those who could attend, a weekend at Pioneer Lodge in Sundre proved to be an unforgettable experience. All in all, we're sure an enjoyable time was had by the interested Christian and non-Christian alike.

This past year has been a great one for all of us. We had a lot of fun cheering for our Tigers from our first football game to the city finals for basketball. The highlight of the year for us though, was winning first place in the junior section of the Thorsby Competition. In all, cheerleading was a real punch!!

YEARBOOK CLUB

With more pictures, more copy and more pages, the Trend staff had its work laid out from the very start. Pictured here are the actual labor and frustration experienced this year and which mounted to a peak in the middle of April. Those responsible for the 1973 Trend are;

SENIOR CHEERLEADERS

From the start of the season
To the end, non-stop
Cheering for our team
Helped our tigers reach the top.

Hours of practice
And the greatest fans in town,
Helped to push on
Our orange and brown.

We entered competitions
And tried each test,
Winning or losing we gave
"Nothing but the best".

Now the year is closing
Too soon we all will part
And other girls will take our place
To cheer the season's start.

But our memories of cheering
Will linger like a dream
And always we'll remember
Our "terrific tiger team".

All in all the Senior Cheerleaders had a very rewarding year. We became the first cheerleaders to win the cheerleading competition at the U of A Volleyball Invitational and later on in the year we competed in a competition in Thorsby and received the highest total points. Thanks to all our loyal fans and good luck to the new squad.

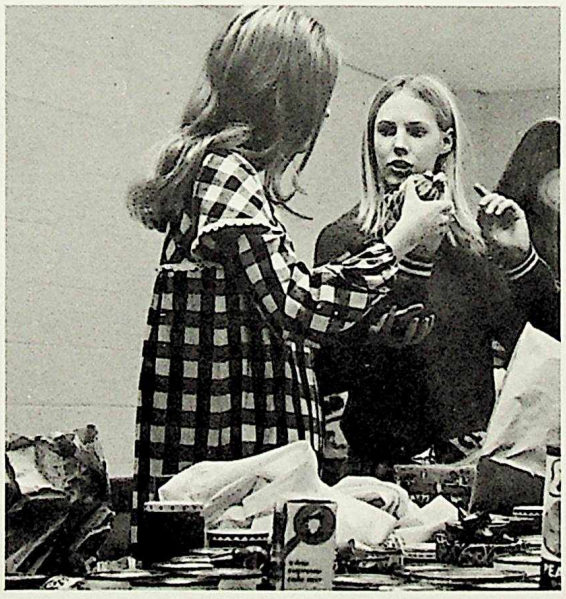
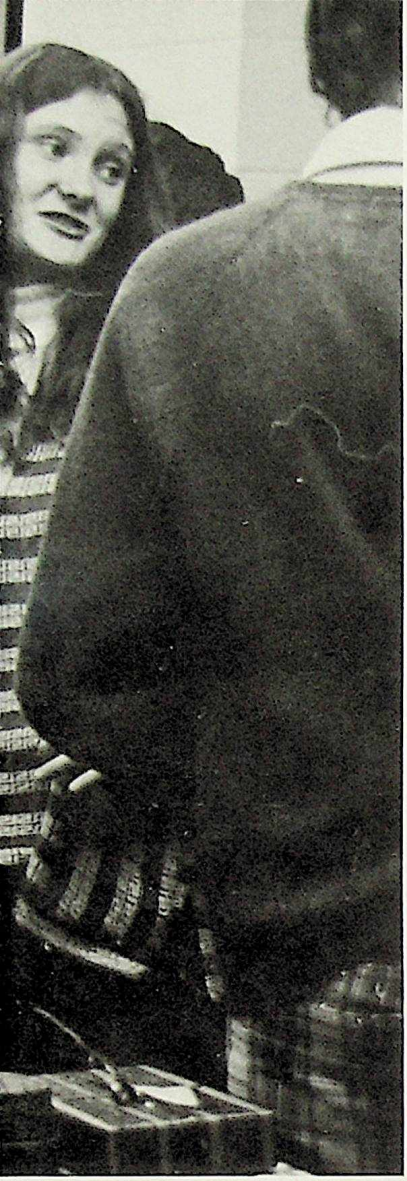
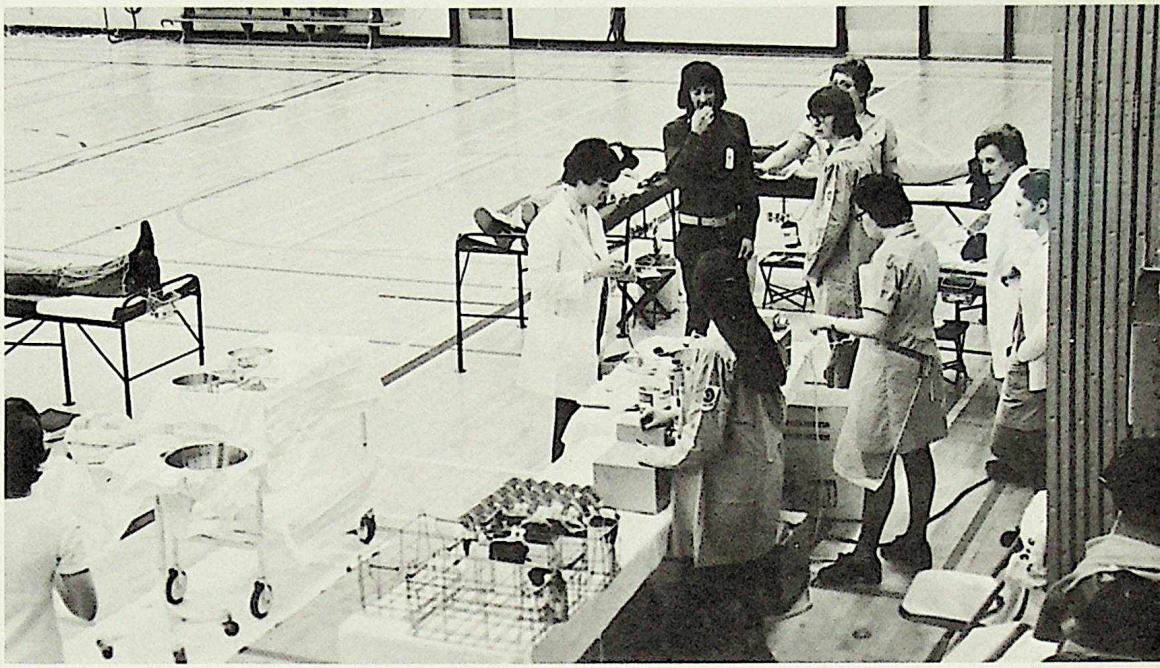
CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

The response to Christmas Hampers was overwhelming. At first a few articles of food and clothing dribbled in until the last day when, in response to a P.A. interview, the entire student body managed to contribute something, and swamped those in charge. A local department store contributed broken toys to the Industrial Arts classes, who repaired them and in turn gave them to the cause. Turkeys were bought and along with clothes, food and toys were delivered to twelve needy families.

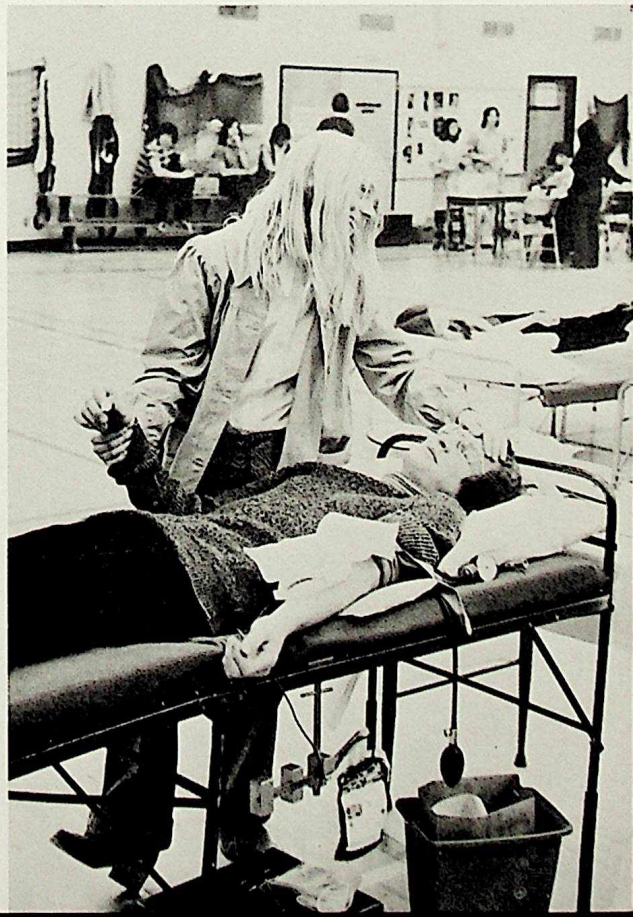






BLOOD DONOR CLINIC

It has become an annual tradition to hold a blood donor clinic once a year, for McNally students and staff, and members of the community. The Red Cross House supplies the Nursing staff and equipment, with student volunteers. McNally students rallied to the cause; we collected over sixty pints of blood!



FASCINATIONS OF PHYS. ED. 30

Have you ever

- lifted a 40 lb. curling rock and dropped it on your foot?
- tried to ski down a hill for the first time in your life and lost your boot?
- swam a mile in 30 minutes and climbed out of the pool on the last lap for a big drink of water?
- slept under the stars in the middle of nowhere with 2 frogs and a colony of ants?
- tried to "smash" a badminton birdie, missed and hit your partner on the head?
- aimed an arrow at a target while you're talking and have the arrow shoot out and miss your best friend by a fraction of an inch?

Well, whether or not you have experienced these adventures doesn't matter. Although they do happen, they are not the objectives of Phys. Ed. 30.

The object is mainly to teach each student the basics of curling, volleyball, bowling, skating, skiing, badminton, swimming, camping, golf, tennis, archery, billiards and other individual and dual sports. Camping is a 5 day trip on survival in the wilderness (if you like berries and leaves you're O.K. If not, well . . . too bad.) Skiing involves going to the ski club and a ski trip; swimming is a two-week activity that leads each student up to the endurance of swimming a mile (64 lengths). The other activities are just as exciting. Each student is required to teach one of the sports and acquire some leadership qualities. The activity is completely set up by the students and the teachers only serve as advisors.

Phys. Ed. 30 is unlike other high school courses because it is such a challenge. The activities are so varied that interest is held the entire semester.

The course teaches you to become an individual not just a person in a large group. You will remember your experiences with Phys. Ed. 30 for years to come.

Girls' Phys Ed. 20 Campout

When you think of a loud over-crowded bus last October, it brings to mind the great time we had at Pembina Provincial Park. Fifty girls went camping with two unforgettable teachers and one happy puppy. We froze . . . we ate . . . we slept . . . we ate . . . we howled . . . and we ate . . . we were crazy, but we loved it. Now we have memories that will never be forgotten.

DEBATING CLUB

A NATIONAL REPUTATION FOR McNALLY

Students at McNally are now well acquainted with the success of our debate squad. Our reputation is now nation-wide as this is the fourth consecutive year we have placed two students in the Alberta team at the National Championships — a record for any province.

BIG WINS IN 73

Gail Black and Bill Rogerson: Alberta Team Members
- First Alberta Open Debating Championship
- First Edmonton Open Debating Championship

Kevin Quast and Richard Rogerson
- First Edmonton Novice Debating Championship
- First Queen Elizabeth Novice Invitational
- Second Alberta Novice Debating Championship

BENEFITS OF BECOMING A McNALLY DEBATER

TRAVEL
- — All members are assured at least one international trip during three years of competition
- — Tournaments in all parts of Alberta and neighbouring provinces

SOCIAL
- — You'll make scores of life-long friends. There are now over 60 debate clubs with more than 500 members most of whom you'll meet during the year-long debating season.
- — There's even a rock dance and a host of parties associated with most tournaments.

COMPETITION
- — A dozen Invitational Tournaments
- — City and Provincial Championships
- — TV Debates
- — International and Interprovincial Meets

ACADEMIC
- — Research and debate controversial issues
- — Develop writing and speaking skills
- — Learn techniques of research and logic

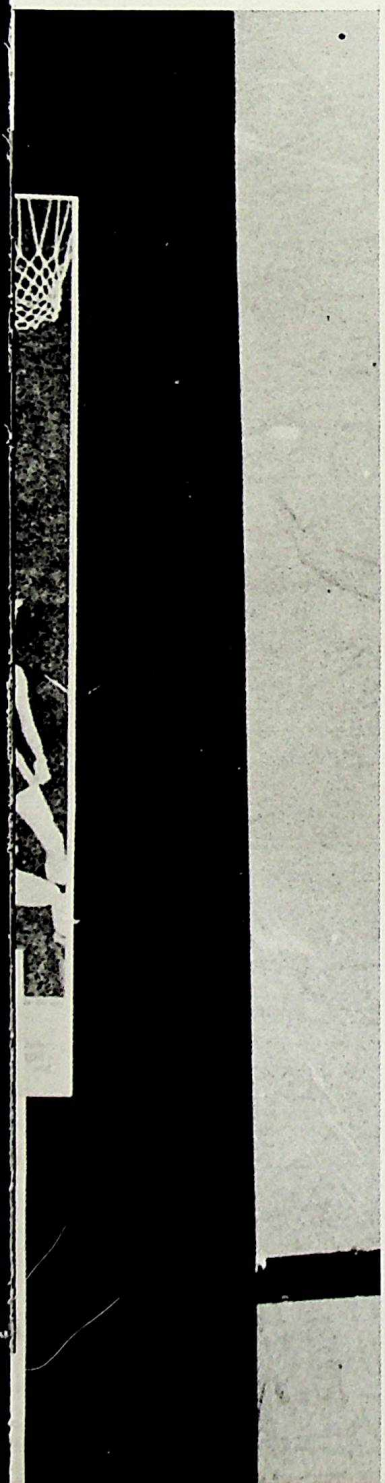
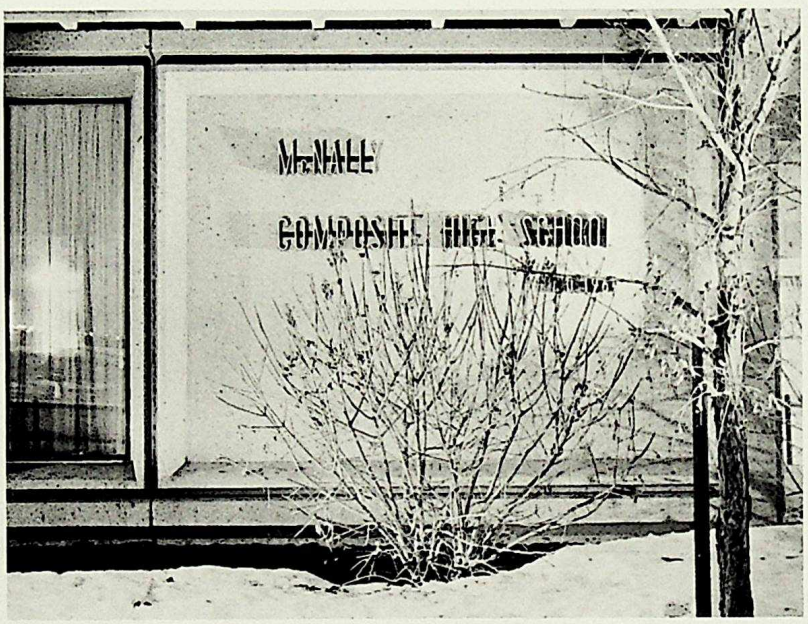
Improving the halls of learning

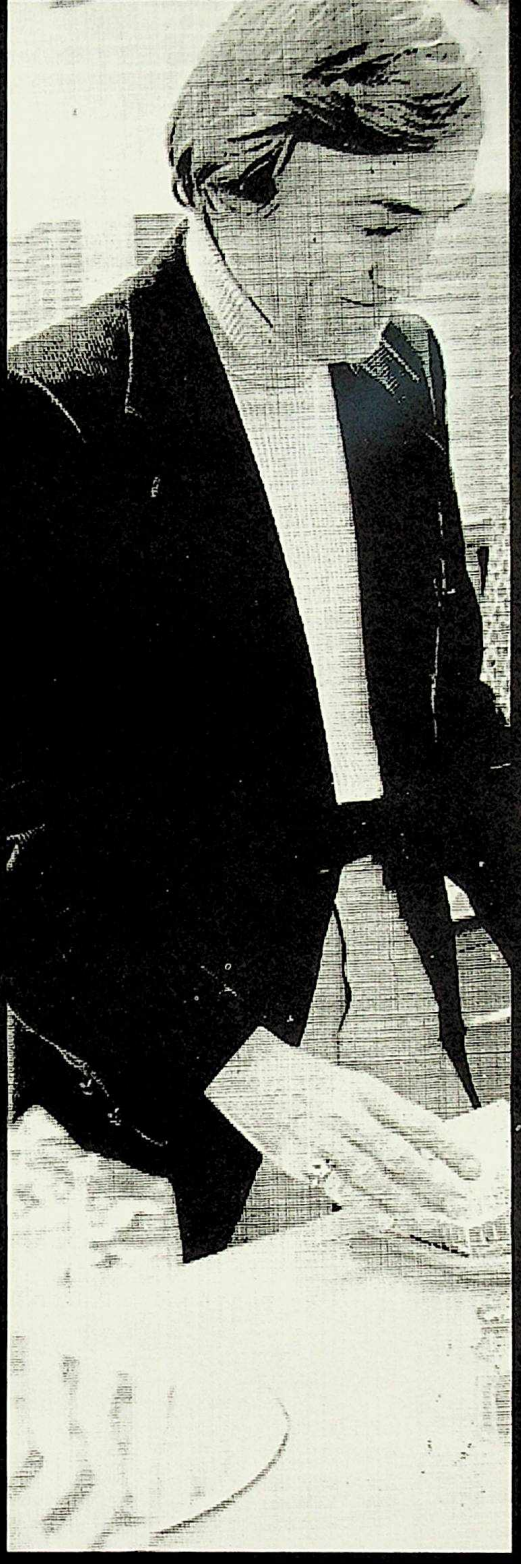




McNally is a school of dynamic people with creative ideas. These people make activities that are fun to be in and very interesting to see or read about. Many more people have read about McNally because of these people making the local paper.

Fashion shows, art endeavours, basketball, curling, and special projects were all activities thought and brought about by McNallyites. Many other activities were carried out in McNally, but so numerous were these ideas that to report them all would take a series of books!

FACULTY



REVERIE

Every yearbook strives to address itself to the question of seeking out the school's identity for a particular year. So it is that the theme, "Discovery", of this issue of The Trend is eminently significant. The focus on happenings, some that we were dimly aware of and others that will always stick in our memories, is of major importance in compiling this book. And there is an abundance of documentation, pictorially and graphically, that McNally 1973 has received the active support of its students in every phase of school activities.

Involvement, by student or teacher, as something more than the everyday class routine is the very essence of a school's spirit which is measured, sifted, evaluated, in a very real sense of the school's yearbook.

The pages of The Trend are a testimonial to the involvement in school life by many individuals and groups during the past year, according due approbation for accomplishments and contributions. I am confident that the reminiscences and narrative flash-back contained herein will be treasured by all students and staff as memories of a particularly good year.

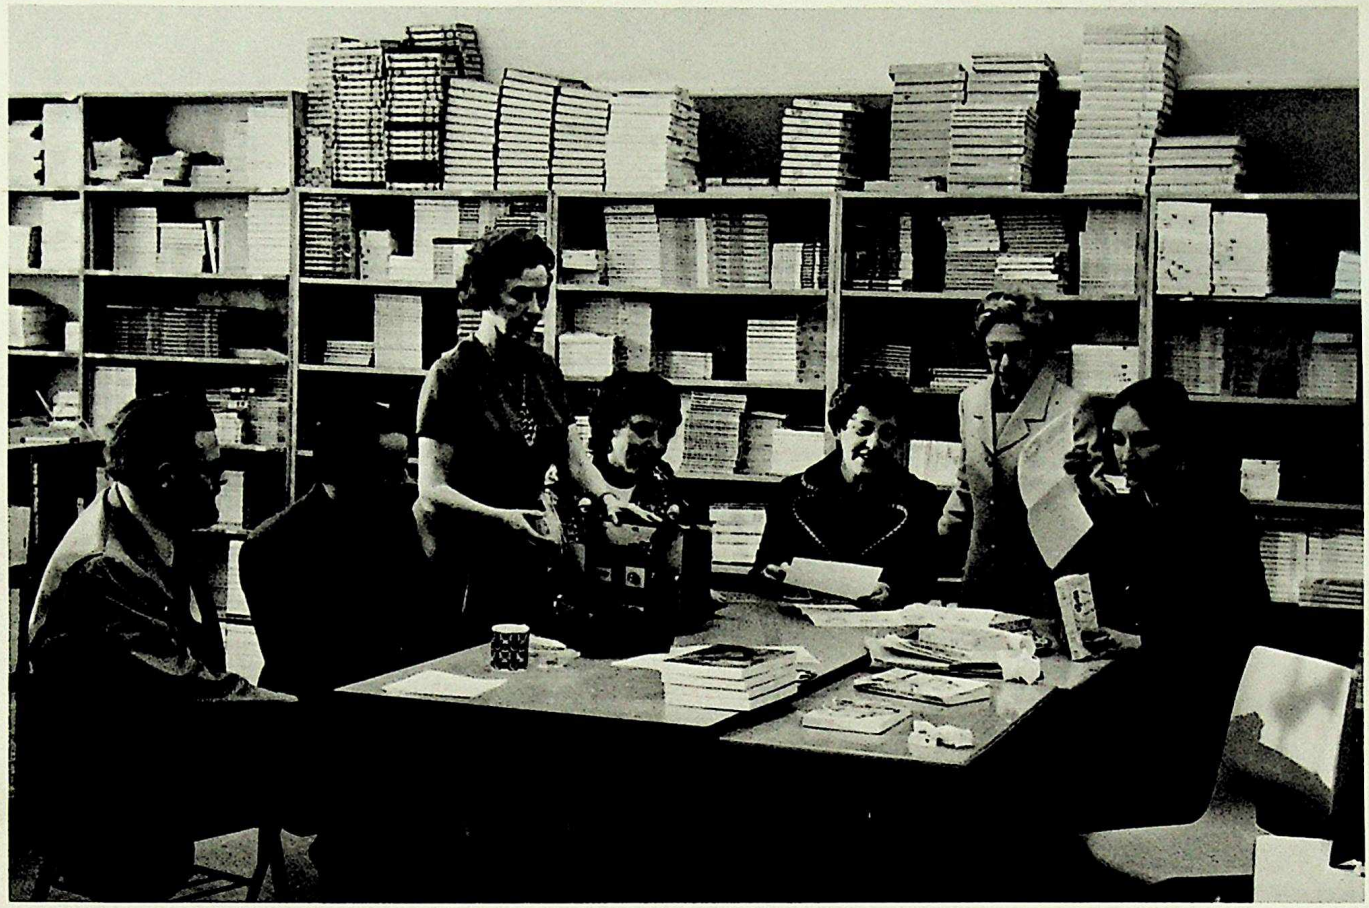
The challenge and ramifications of running the school are left in the hands of the administrators, without whom the school would be a potpourri of confusion, lawlessness and disorientation.

Mr. B. Chrusch, Second Assistant Principal.

(Above) Mr. L. Fairbanks, First Assistant Principal.

Mrs. E. Laws, Dean of Girls.



FRENCH

Present du Conditional, Le temps Futur, Passé Composé, L'imperatif, Plus que Parfait . . . Just some of the verb tenses in the French language that seem to take forever to learn, and still there are more, and more, and more . . . The tremendous task of grinding these tenses into students heads is left in the hands of (from left to right) Mrs. J. Pfannmuller, Mr. G. Dahl, and Mr. M. Beaton.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Care for a trip through history or around the world? Maybe you'd like to explore different types of government. If so, these teachers in the social studies department can help you. Left to right: Mr. W. French, Mr. B. McKinnon, Mr. K. Mitchell, Mr. W. Kachuk, Mr. B. McWilliam, Mr. F. Sproule, Mrs. O. Bottomley.

ENGLISH

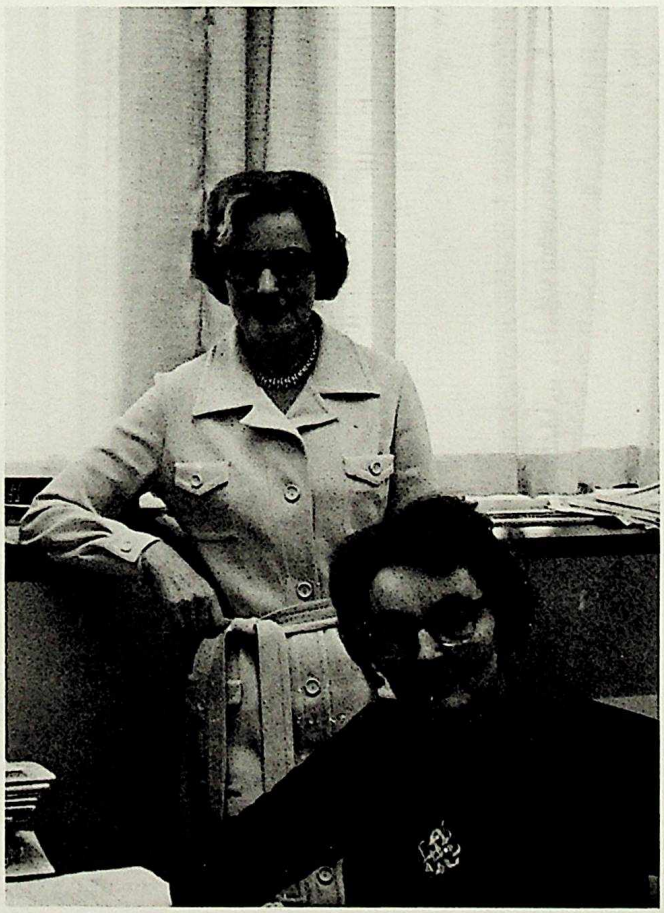
To do or not to do . . . your English Essay! Whether 'tis nobler to hand in a half-finished essay or suffer the slings and sorrows of outrageous fortunes. That is the question . . . that every English student must ask himself at sometime or another. Determining those fortunes are, left to right: Mr. H. Greer, Mr. A. Rodatz, Miss A. Buckles, Miss M. Smith, Mrs. I. Hargreaves, Mrs. I. Miller, and Mrs. G. Gates.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Business Education teachers help prepare the students for the real business world, offering courses in typing, record keeping, merchandising, business machines. From left to right: Mr. E. Lipinski, the store manikin, Miss H. Reason, Mr. M. Kendrick.

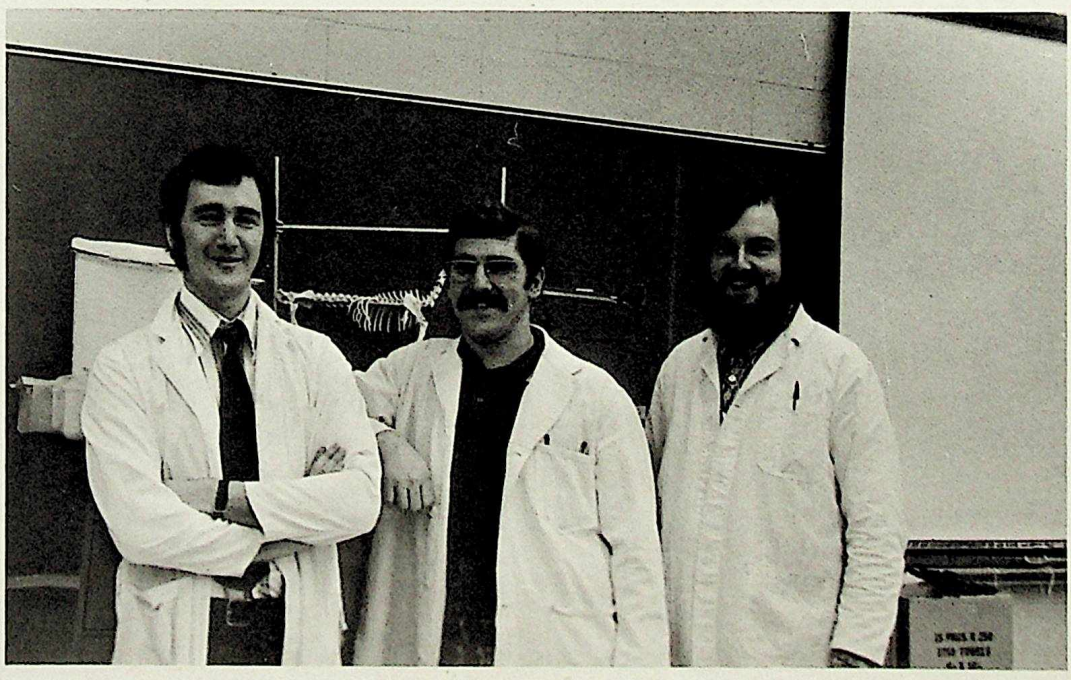
LIBRARIANS

The librarians are custodians to the "key of knowledge" Books! Standing, Mrs. M. Ascher, assistant sitting, Mrs. M. Bamford, librarian.



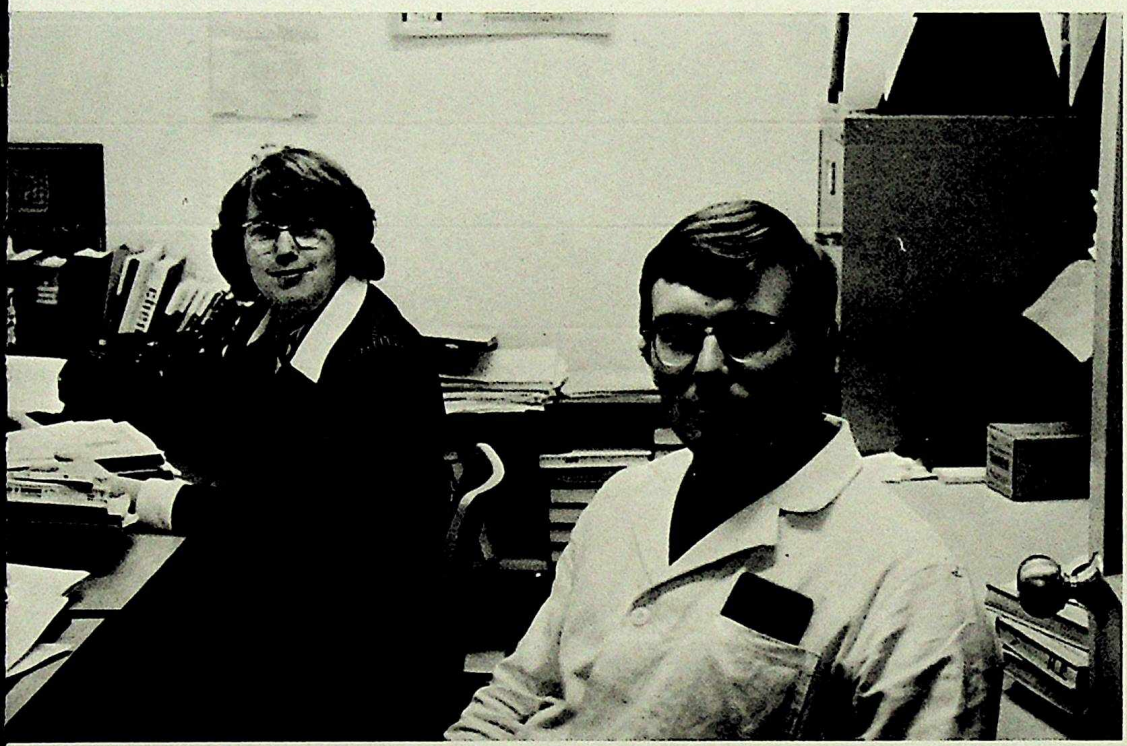
BIOLOGY

"Hey, that's an interesting question. Why not do it as your project?" or "That is a puzzle, look it up in your text and tell me the answer when you find it, okay?" "What kind of snake is that?" — "Oh, that's a mean snake." The authors of these deeply pondered answers are the members of the Biology Staff, pictured to the right, from left to right: Mr. S. Eliuk, Mr. M. Ballash, and Mr. W. Hutton.



MATH

Do you know the difference between Algebra and Geometry? The Mathematics Dept. knows the answer! Not only that, they'll also teach you Trigonometry, Permutations and Vectors. But Math isn't always on their minds.
Opposite page, top, clockwise from the left: Mr. E. Czajkowski, who who is right in there for the "Pancake Eating Contest" each year; Mr. E. Heilman, active in the Badminton Club; Mr. D. Jardine, the school Audio-Visual manager; Mr. B. Caldwell, staff advisor for the Students' Union and the Debating Club; Mr. C. Tymchuck, A.T.A. Representative for McNally as well as being the Math Dept. head; Mrs. P. Johnstone; girls' basketball coach and a skier of considerable reknown; and Mr. Finch; who is involved in Football and Basketball, not to mention his out-of-school wrestling!



CHEMISTRY

The Chemistry Dept. is the depository of some really weird odors, not to mention some crummy jokes and practices like the "oxygen tent", the "ferris wheel", "trans-parent", and the creep list. Mr. M. Dzwiliel and Mrs. G. Bearham seated to the left, hold sway over this department.

PHYSICS

What about all those labs that didn't quite turn out the way they were supposed to; and the homework the Physics Dept. throws at you? Well, such is life! Below left are the physics teachers: Mr. B. Spaner and Mr. H. Glasel, who teach the courses, help with the labs, and give demonstrations of motion with little toy cars.

PHYS. ED.

It is the purpose of the Phys. Ed. Dept. to probe beyond just mental activity, into the realms of the physical, to give students a chance to use their youthful healthy limbs. Left to right: Mr. D. Johnston, Mr. D. Krenz, Mrs. L. Ward, Mr. D. Rosewich, Mrs. M. Shapke (seated).

ARTS DEPARTMENT

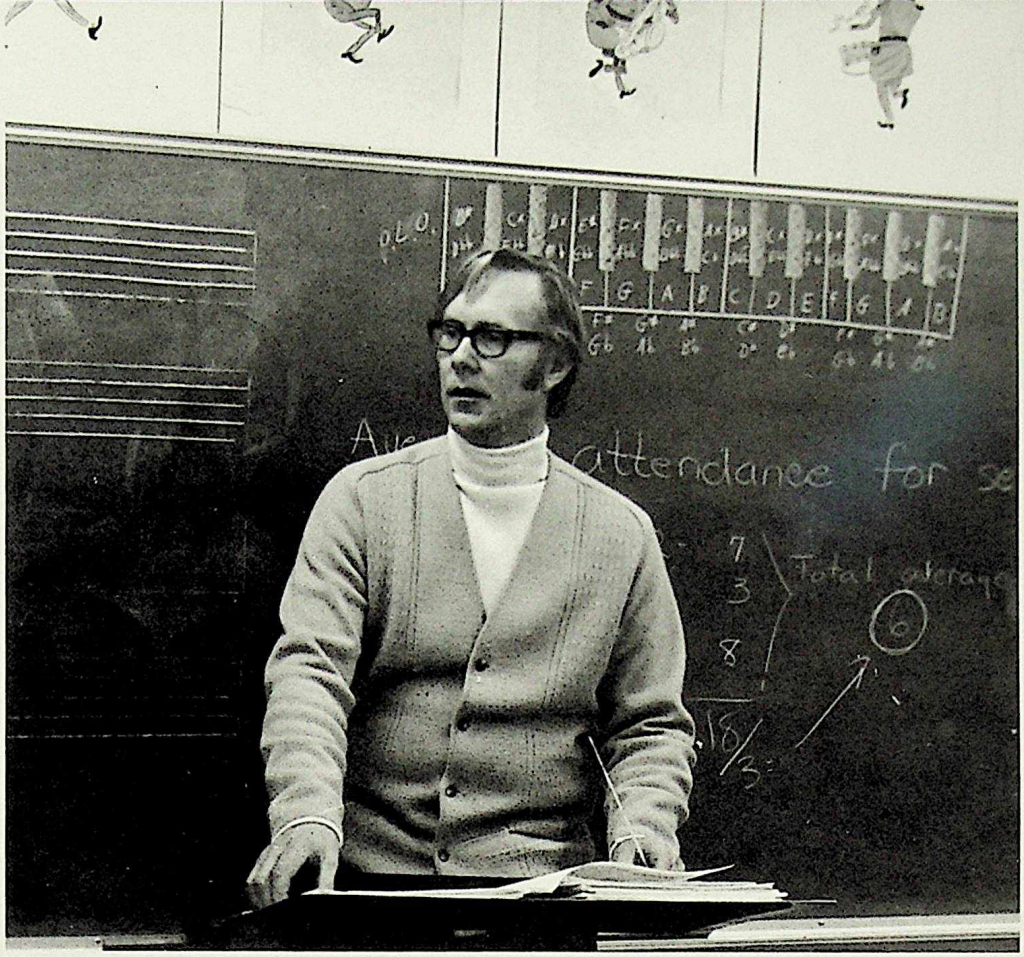
Mrs. M. Biro and Mr. G. Johnson, the art teachers spur on the inspired or any of those with a spark of creativity.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Whatever your interest in industrial arts — electrical, materials, graphics, wood or metal working — you'll find friendly smiles and a helping hand from these instructions. Below, left to right: Mr. R. Murphy, Mr. A. Leenheer, and Mr. J. Toplensky.

MUSIC AND DRAMA DEPARTMENT

Single handedly Mr. D. Goodwin administers to both the needs of the Music and Drama students. He has proved to be a great inspiration for putting on drama and musical shows.



HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS

The Household Economics teachers see to it that some of the finer talent of young ladies — embroidery, sewing, preparing food — are not lost. Left to right: Mrs. J. Anderson, Mrs. B. Dumbeck, Mrs. S. Adolph.

CUSTODIANS

(top far right)
The pyramidal task of running the inner works of the school is shared between Mr. C. Lindgren, (far right), and the head custodian — Mr. Watkins. Mrs. Gagneaux, the cook, manages to keep the starving multitudes well fed, while Mrs. T. Airhardt can be seen polishing and wiping up after the school body.

SUPPORT STAFF

The office abounds with ring of telephones, the clack of typewriters, and the whir of business machines. Endeavouring to bring order out of chaos are (top pictures from left) Mrs. Hoskins, Mrs. Canfield, Mrs. Batiuk. (Bottom picture from left) Mrs. Weinberger, Mrs. Wesley, Mrs. Evans.

GUIDANCE DEPT.

The Guidance Dept. has been known by many names; molders of destiny, compasses of life, even the glorified shrinks. But whatever their names, they are there to give counsel, lend advice, or just as a friend to talk to. At left, from left to right, Mr. D. Graham; Mr. P. Markowski, perspectives for living teacher; Miss B. Fisher, and Mrs. Smyth, support staff.

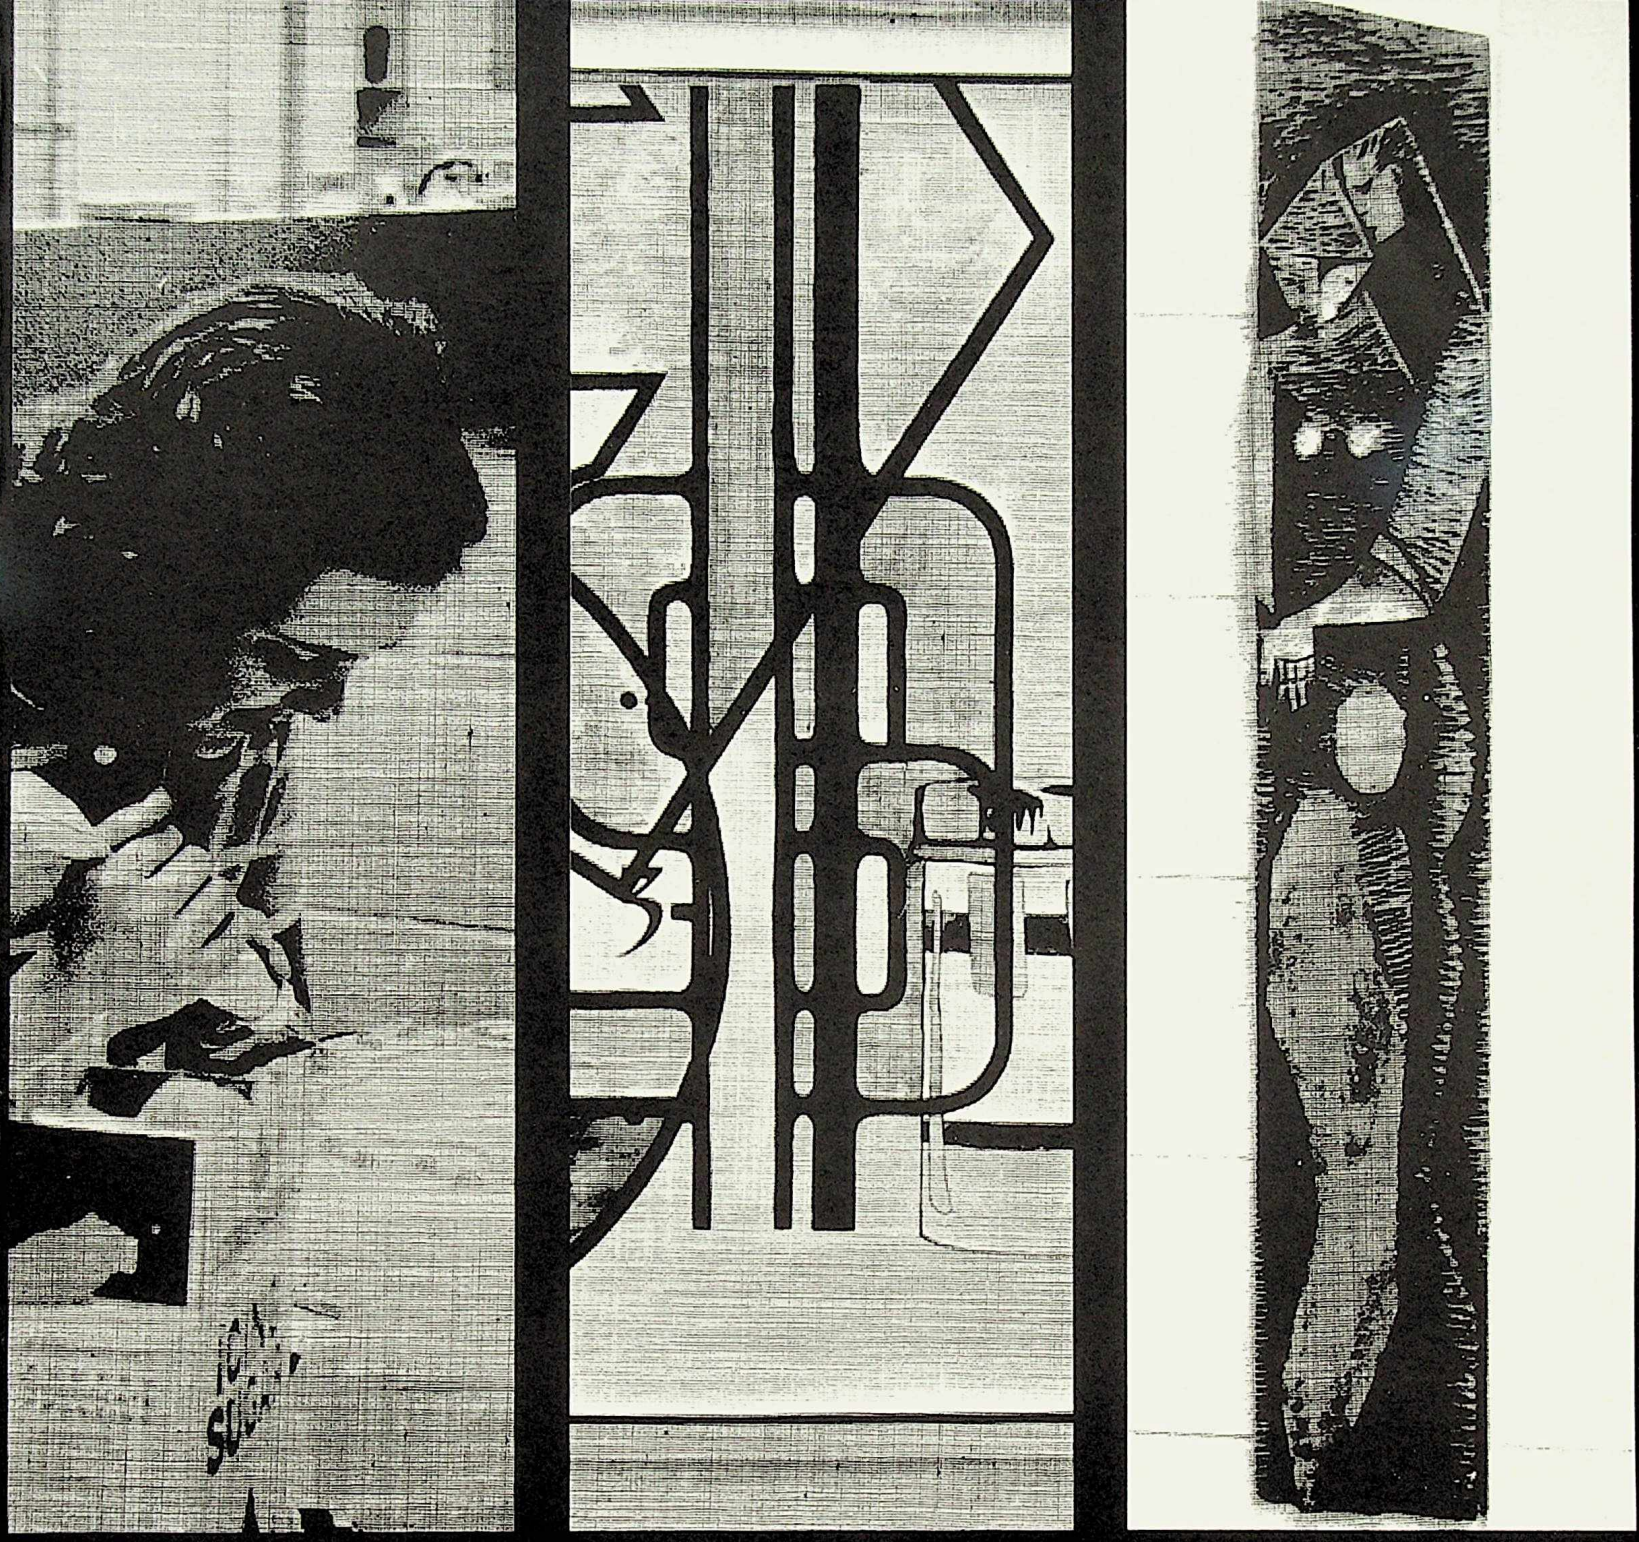
THE FORCE WITHIN US ALL



There is a part of man which almost totally defies definition. It is a push, a throb, a force within us all . . . that upon standing alone is a mere cry into the wilderness.

But that force, combined with clay gives way to structure, and form . . . it is the creation of the concrete from the abstract. The force, combined with a swirl of artist's paint becomes a part of the artist, through pictures. A writer wrestles the intangible into black and white and hopes that even a fraction of that force remains on paper. This grappling with the infinite is what sets us aside from the animals; it is the sum total of CREATIVE MAN!

THE DOVE'S MUSE, PERHAPS?

— Neil Hughes

The future holds unlimited challenges for mankind; many appear breathtaking and exciting, and man can hardly wait to conquer these subtle, mysterious hopes. Still, there are those few who choose to ignore the scientific-humanitarian cornucopia on Terra's doorstep, and persist in glowering with their cynical, myopic little eyes at the accompanying problems as though these problems constitute the entire prospect for the next generation. One question which bothers the psychologists today: what is there to prevent the race from going mad and destroying itself when overcrowding, loss of privacy, and dehumanization reach an unknown critical point sixty or seventy years from now? The answer to that question is even now in art galleries, in concert halls, on airwaves and on recordings, but has yet to achieve a position of paramount importance in the life of the average citizen. Participation by the masses in arts and music will be the saving grace of man's sanity in the future.

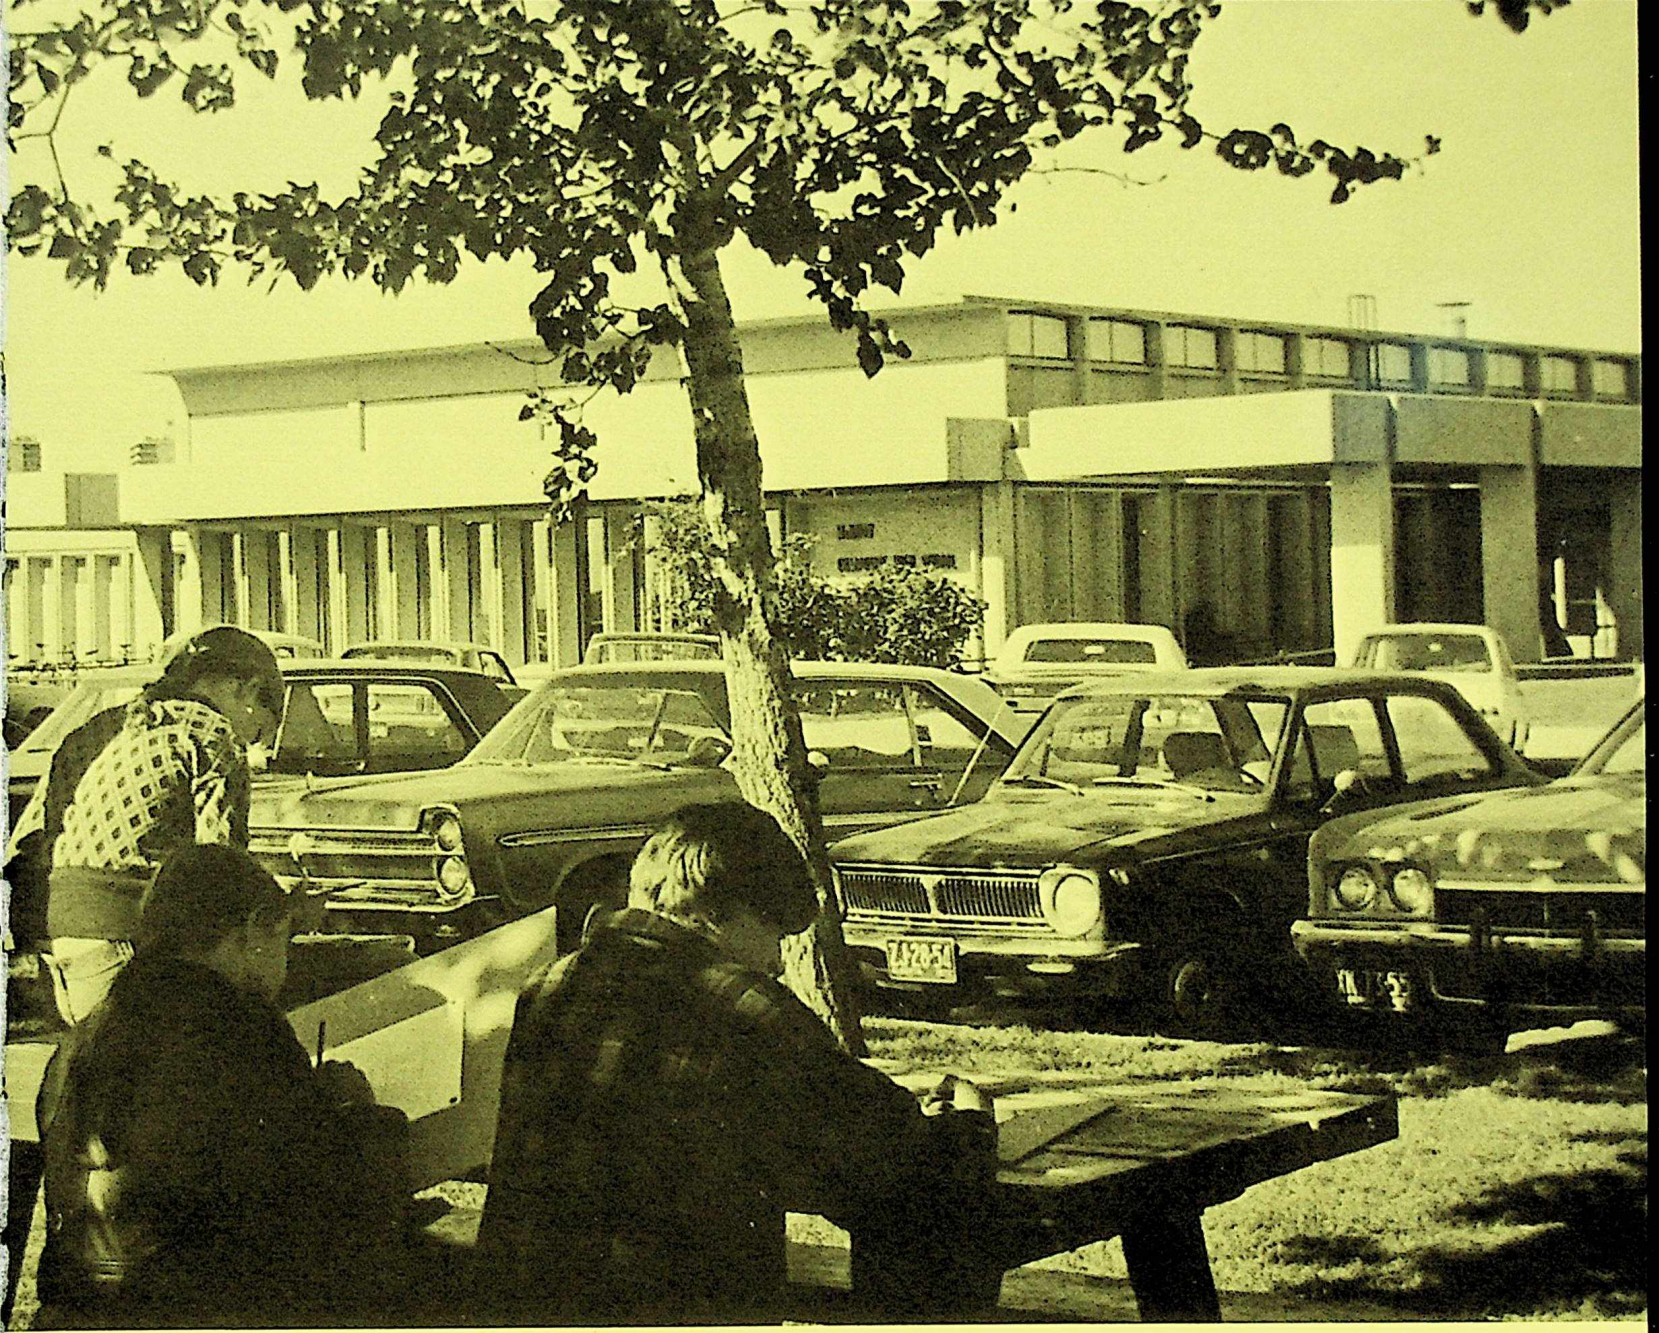
It has already been amply demonstrated in urban areas such as Tokyo, New York, and London, that declining privacy and increasing proximity to others cause mutual tensions. Some form of relief, some lubricant for this friction will shortly be necessary. The anonymity resulting from overcrowding creates the need for self-expression by the individual: an assertion of his unique existence. On the other hand, governments may take repressive measures against belligerents in urban centres. These two alternatives, expression or repression, imply-respectively-heightening the mind's sensitivity, or dulling it.

The nature of the human ego is such that the latter alternative could prove very dangerous. It is sad that even now "future-thinkers" are suggesting that drugs are the best, or at lest, the most likely alternative to war in a nerve-frayed society. "Taking drugs is required by law, to make sure people don't crack up . . ." says Julia Riggin in her essay "When Your Children Are Your Age". This suggests reducing sensitivity to an apathetic stupor, which might slow mutual aggressions, but would cause self-hatred to fester because of man's innate desire to experience life to the full on his own initiative. Repression is definitely not the better choice open to man.

Perhaps drugs to heighten the mind's perception could be developed, but this in itself would serve no purpose unless the extra-sensitive mind has an outlet for its increased output of messages. Active participation by all individuals in the arts would fulfill this function; in fact it would achieve maximum sensitivity without artificial, possibly harmful stimuli. The heroes in Skinner's Walden Two are those who "dive with exceeding grace, or pole-vault at a high setting of the bar . . . they're exactly on a par with our artists and musicians . . ." An artist-hero worshipping society is a move in the right direction, but going a step further, and making each person his own hero, would be the ideal society.

Starting children on a life of art-awareness must be started from birth, and must be a matter of their own taste from those early days 'till death. Good and bad, better and best, obvious and subtle, they must all be made available to every child, at public expense. Individual or at worst, small group instruction must be the norm from the time the individual displays an inclination to hold a crayon or hum a simple tune. The resulting awareness of order and form in art and nature will impress the need for this harmony within each one's mind, and make life within himself and for others a rewarding rather than frustrating existence.

Art is an acute need, not a luxury, as so many unfortunates are led to believe. Individual self expression through the arts and music can lead man closer to that elusive thing which he has foolishly fought and died for: love. This is the greatest challenge man faces in the future: to annihilate himself, or through creation, come to know himself perhaps for the first time.



Apocalypse

Like this guy
Comes up t'me, see, and he says Are you buying?
and so of course I says, what're you sellin? 'n
He
  just laughs like a big black car.

Says, I know all about that Old Wop Lady
You sacked on 4th street last week, at which I sniggered
She just broke an arm, you got nothin on me, and his Smile's like an empty piano box;

Coughs, But you see she will die
Lean over t'me, see, and he says Now are you buying?
Still I says I dunno what's your sellin? 'n
He
  just breathes like a December midnite.

Whispers, just like this
She needs yours, and I feel empty holes breakin' out on me, and I know what he was sellin;
I said I got a doctor appointment 'n
He
  just screams like a fallin' angel.

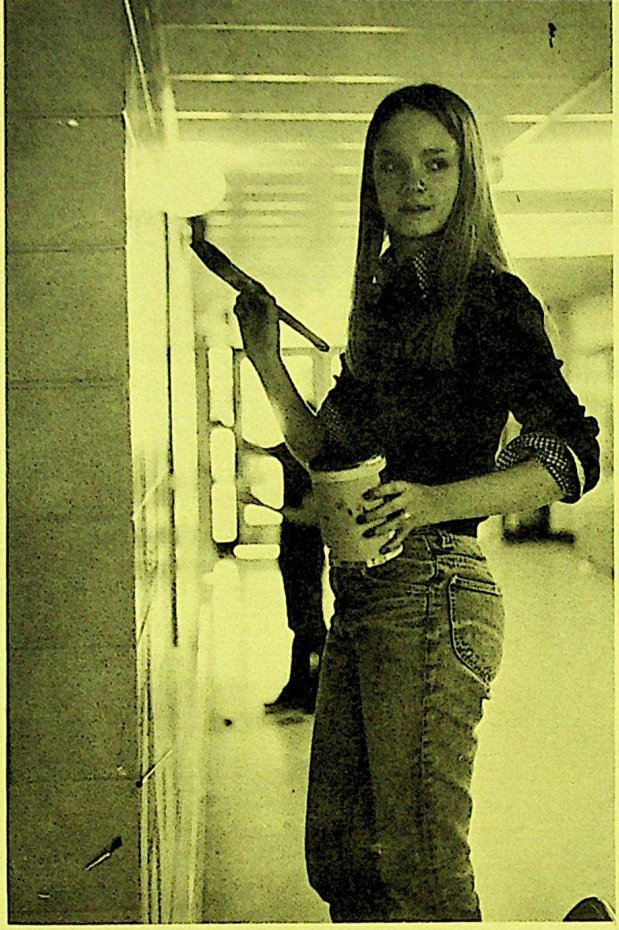
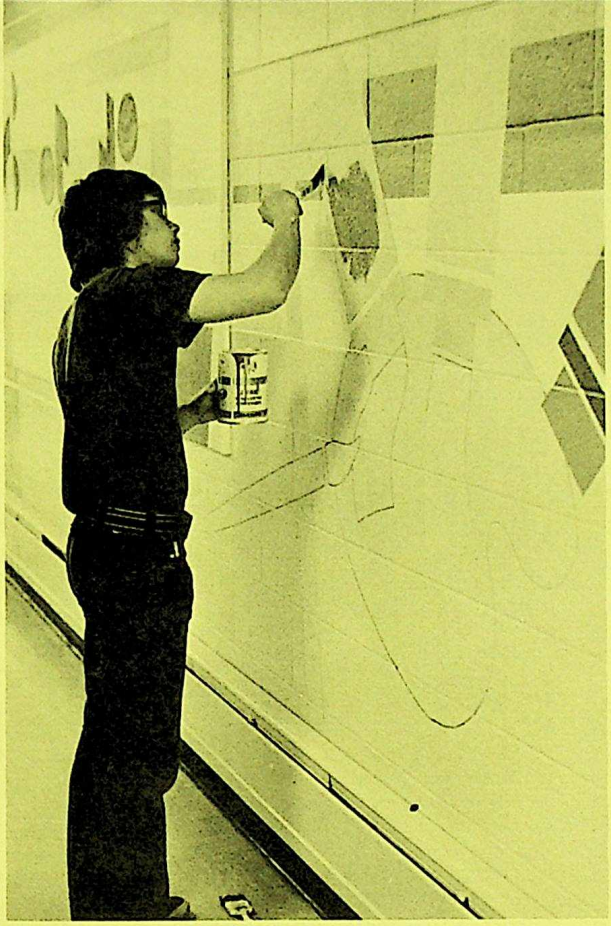
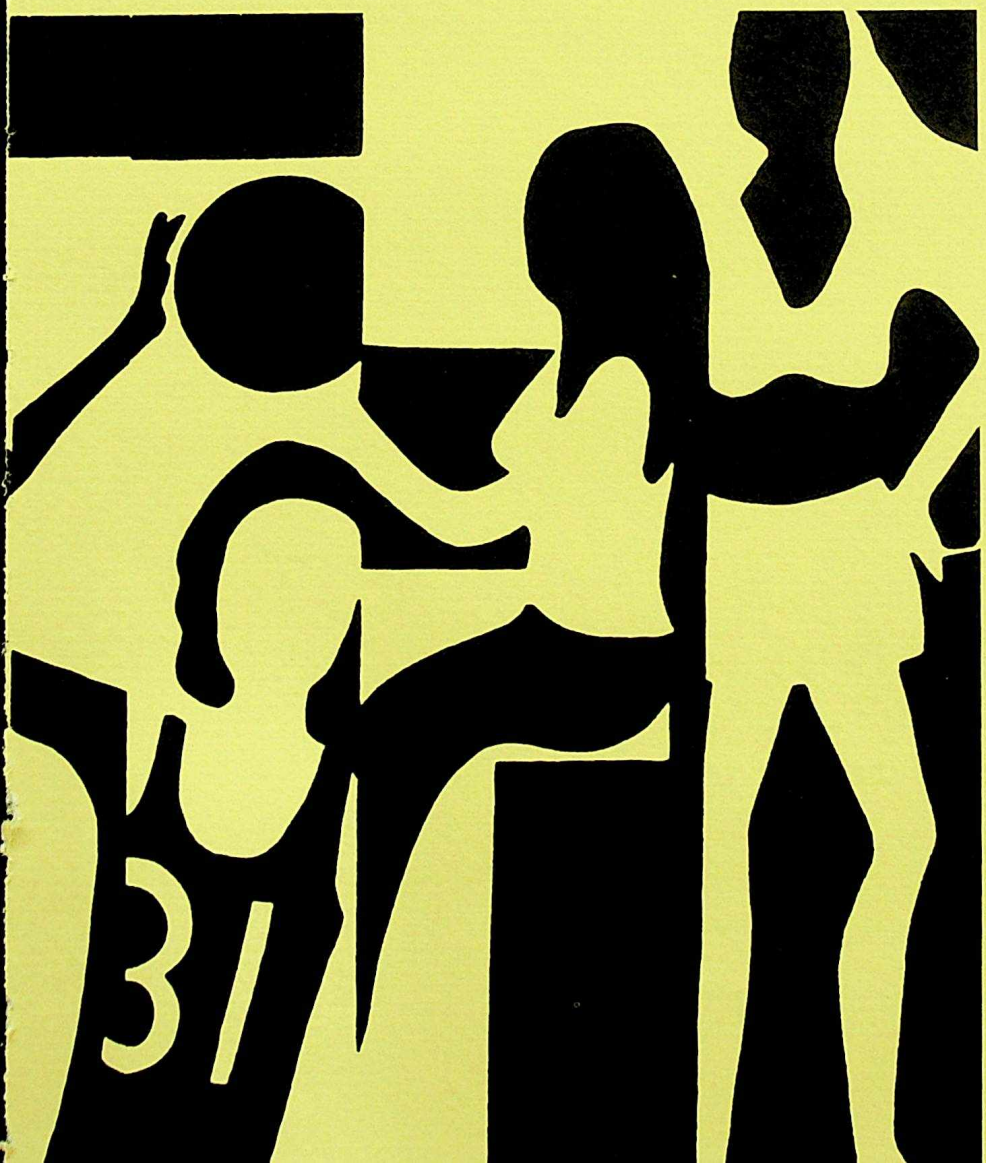
Students streaming down the stairs from the upper North hallway are confronted with a dramatic display of blacks and whites. A mural representing school life is hung from the top stairwell. Louise Ross and Yvonne Christiansen designed and created this dynamic piece of art as an Art 30 project.

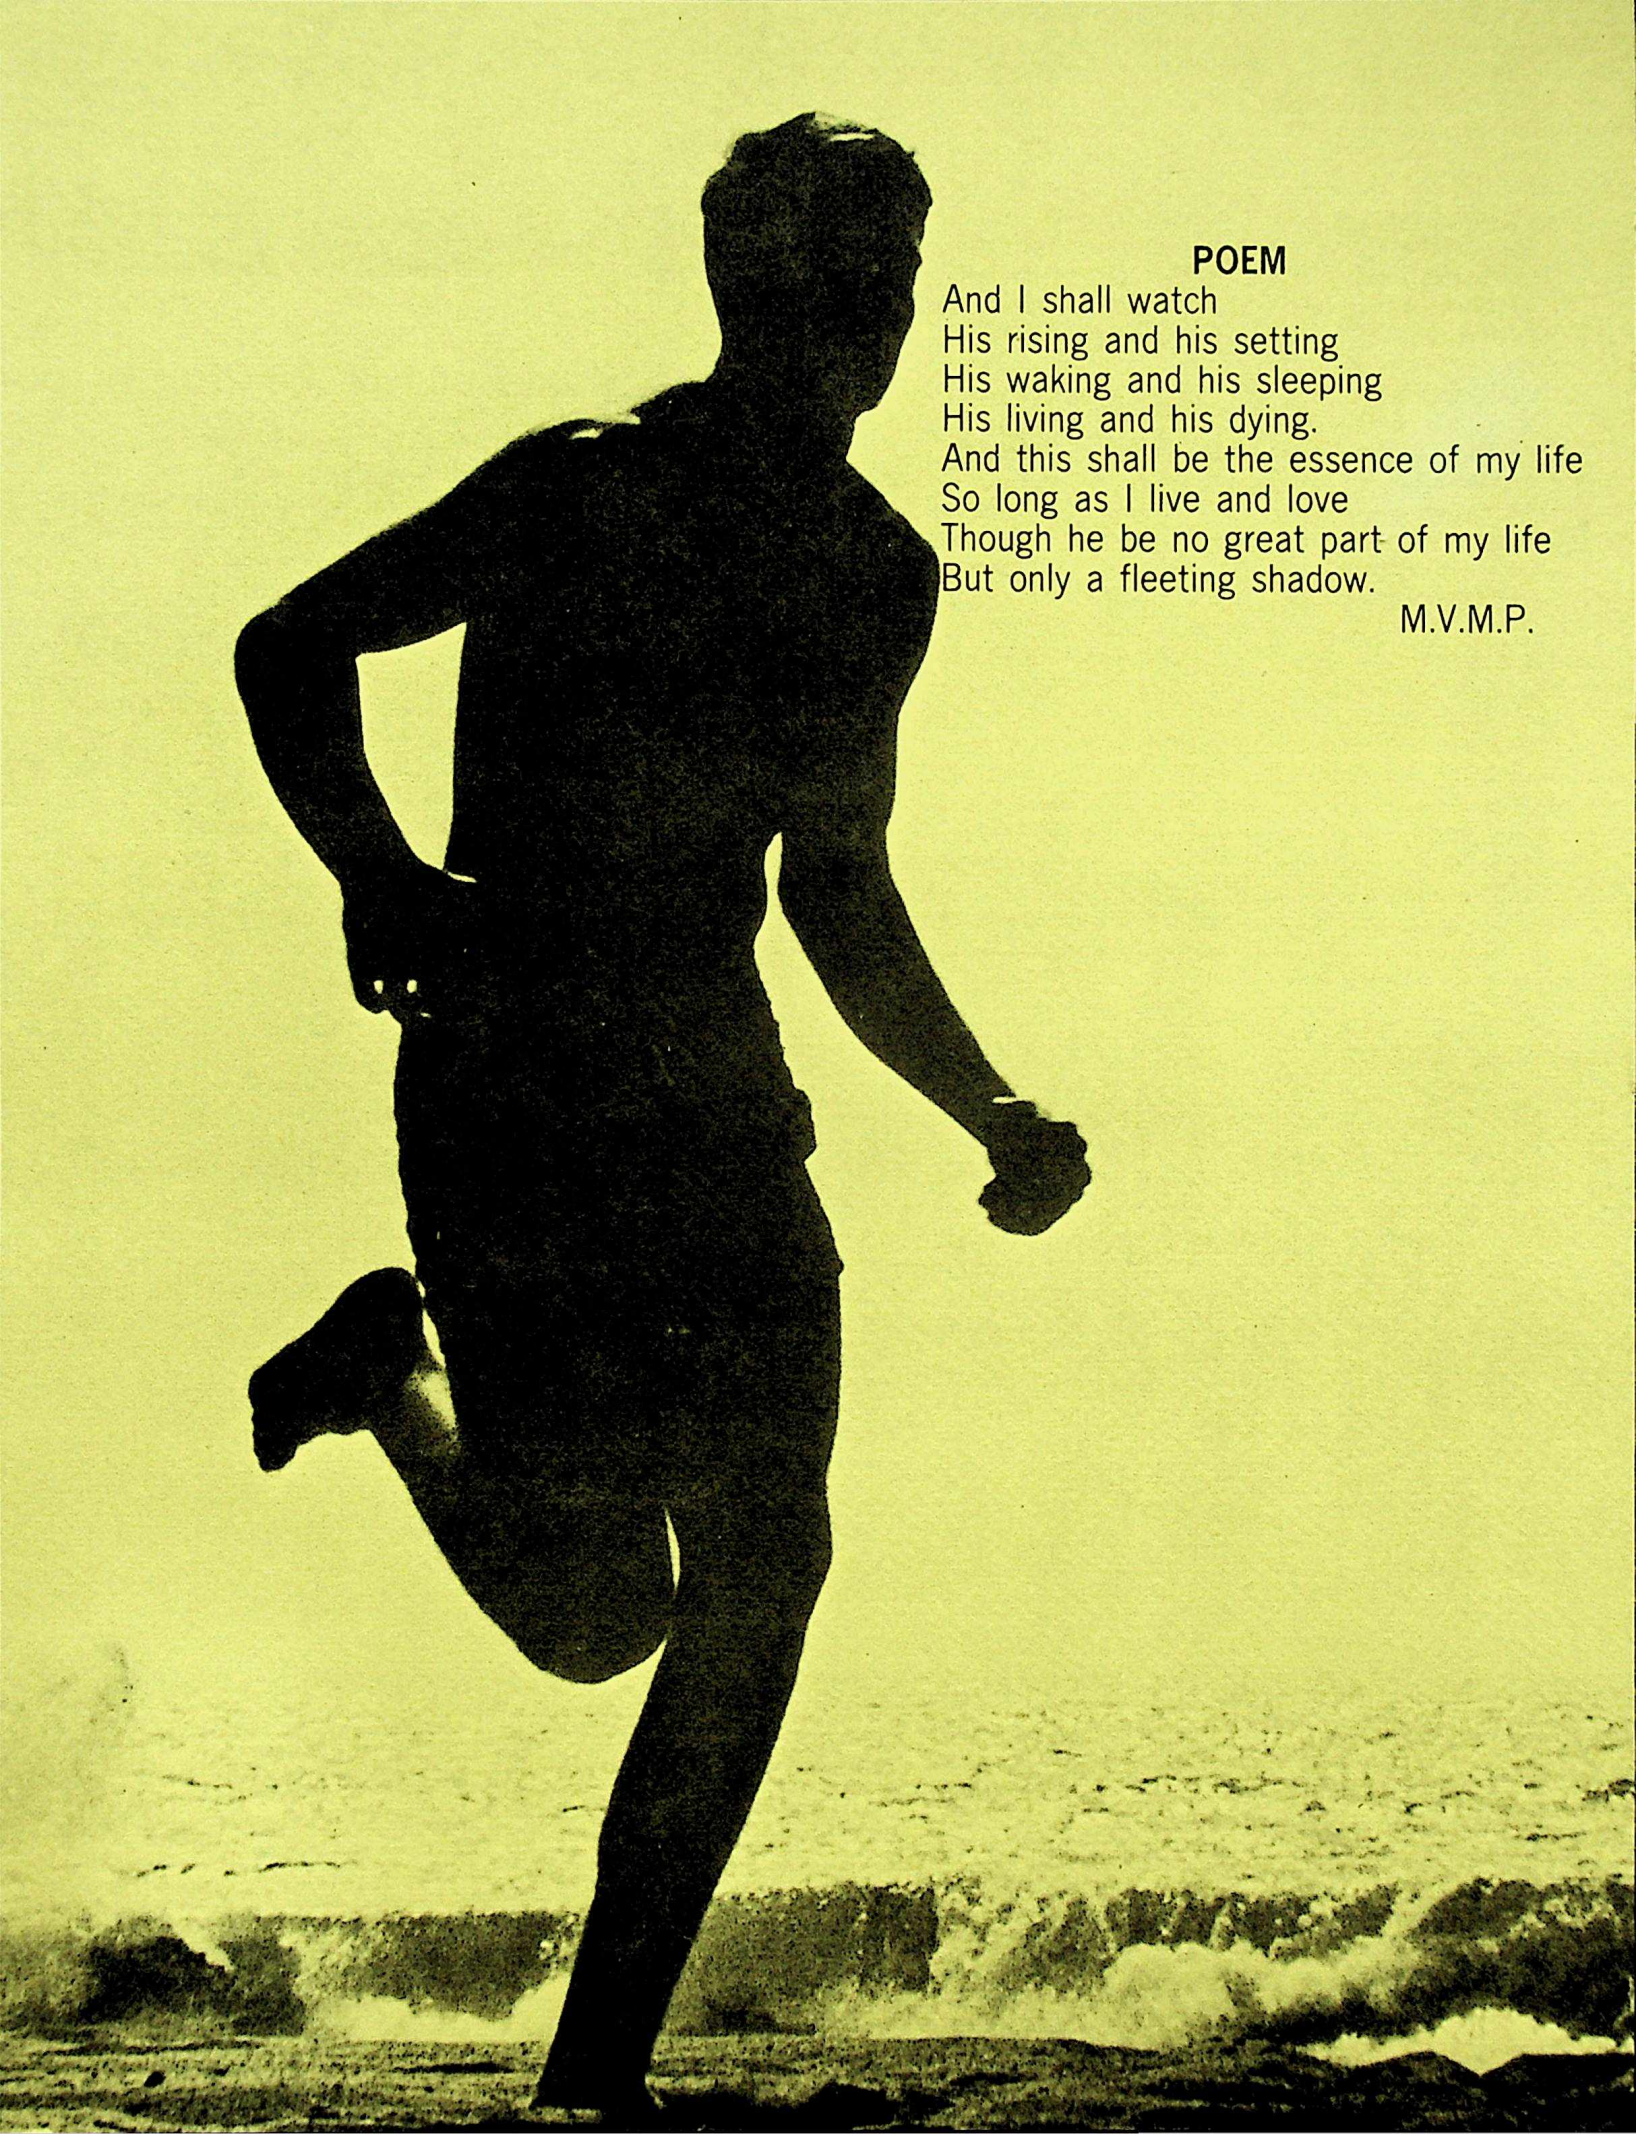






Just as the yearbook was going to the press, Phil Mix was putting the finishing touches on his colourful mural which is along the drama room wall. This also was an Art 30 project.

With the increasing number of talented people registered in art courses, many more such projects are expected to brighten our walls.



POEM

And I shall watch
His rising and his setting
His waking and his sleeping
His living and his dying.
And this shall be the essence of my life
So long as I live and love
Though he be no great part of my life
But only a fleeting shadow.

M.V.M.P.

WIND, WIND

Wind, Wind
Born of an unseen sky
Running through my hair
Flowing over my face
Into my life stream
Giving me power.

Someday I'll ride with you.
Become part of you
And ride with you
Past that cloud
Past that moon
Past that sun, the stars and the galaxies
And I'll never come back
No never
I'll turn and watch my life
Through my eyes
Being destroyed by time
But I'll never die when I'm part of you

I'll come back
To beckon
To tangle
To haunt
Other minds
So much like mine.

— M.V.M.P.

Dear Steve,
I remember how you used to press your lips into a thin smile when something was funny, but not funny enough to laugh. When you did laugh it was wide and rolling and engulfed me too, so that I'd laugh with you. I remember the way you walked then, with your feet turned out, rolling like a sturdy warrior. And how, when you ran you'd dig your toes in like claws, your feet almost sideways, but no one laughed at you, because you ran fastest. I think of how you nearly broke a guy's arm for wrecking my sand castle. I see you lying drowsy with heat on the warm bench, your head resting on your crooked arms. And how the sun would catch and reflect in your eyes, like a white star burning from unfathomable depths. I remember playing hide and seek, and you had Sue's poncho on backwards. I remember playing United Nations, you were Canada and I was Switzerland. I remember taking you and Eddy water skiing and Eddy was a much better skier. But you sure fixed him, his rope (which you tied) came undone. You probably could have driven it better than I. I remember going and catching werewolves, and how we were all dressed in dark, stealing along like cats of the night. I remember telling ghost stories under a picnic table, and then running home in the pouring rain. I remember the séance where I first held your hand. I remember your first kiss and how both of us were black from the coals of the bonfire. I remember how you took my side in the great war with my cousin. I remember walking to the store that was three miles away, at ten o'clock at night, both of us knowing it was closed. I remember kissing your best friend because you had a girlfriend in the city. I remember playing football and running the mile with you. I remember running windsprints, and how I was so easily left behind. I remember a bonfire where I couldn't stop laughing, and you were being used as a footstool. I remember daring to hope that you would phone me in the city, but you never did. I remember remembering you every minute for what seemed centuries. I remember your middle name. Or what you ever said or thought. I've just about forgotten what I thought of when I thought of you. Or who you wanted to win the election. I can't even remember what we did most of the time, or how long I knew you. I can't remember your middle name any more. I've forgotten

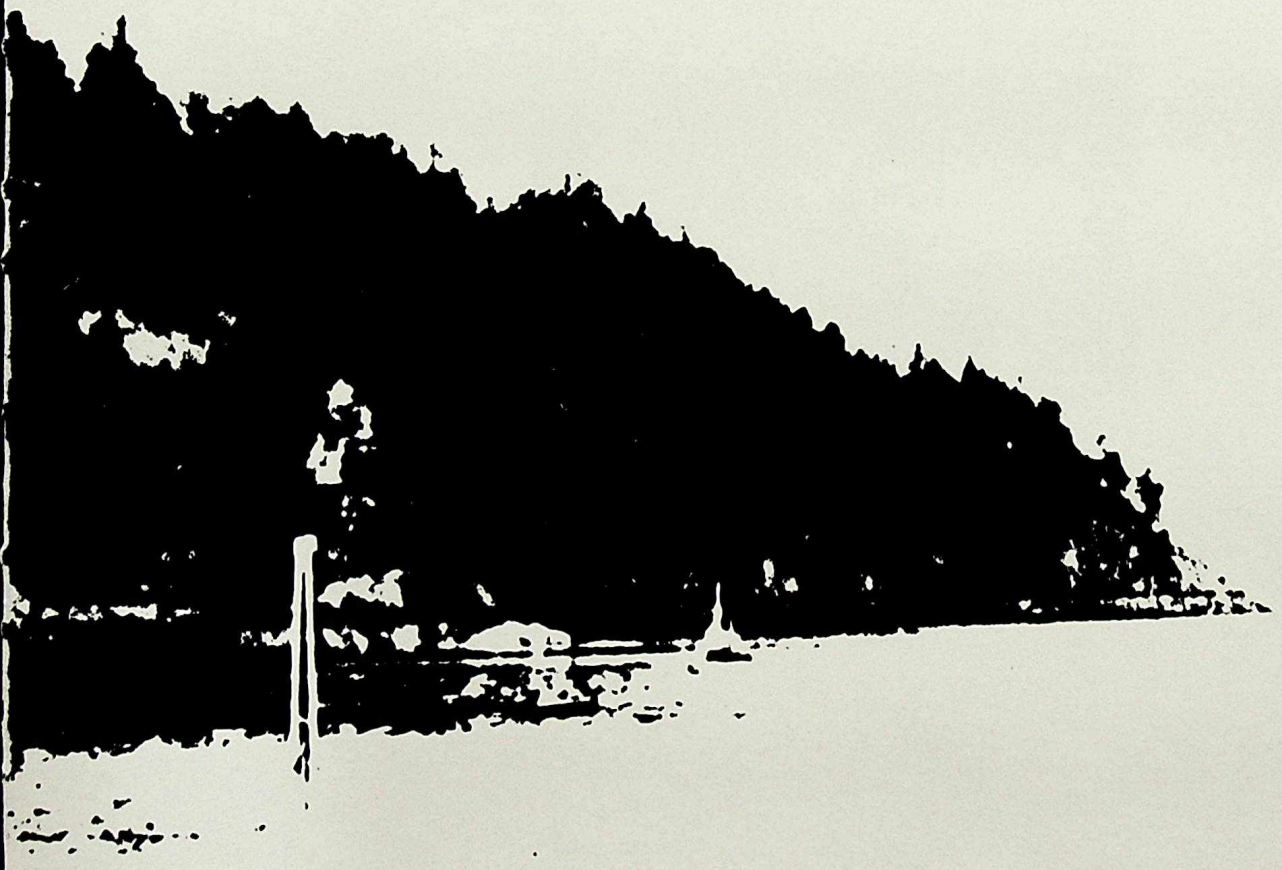
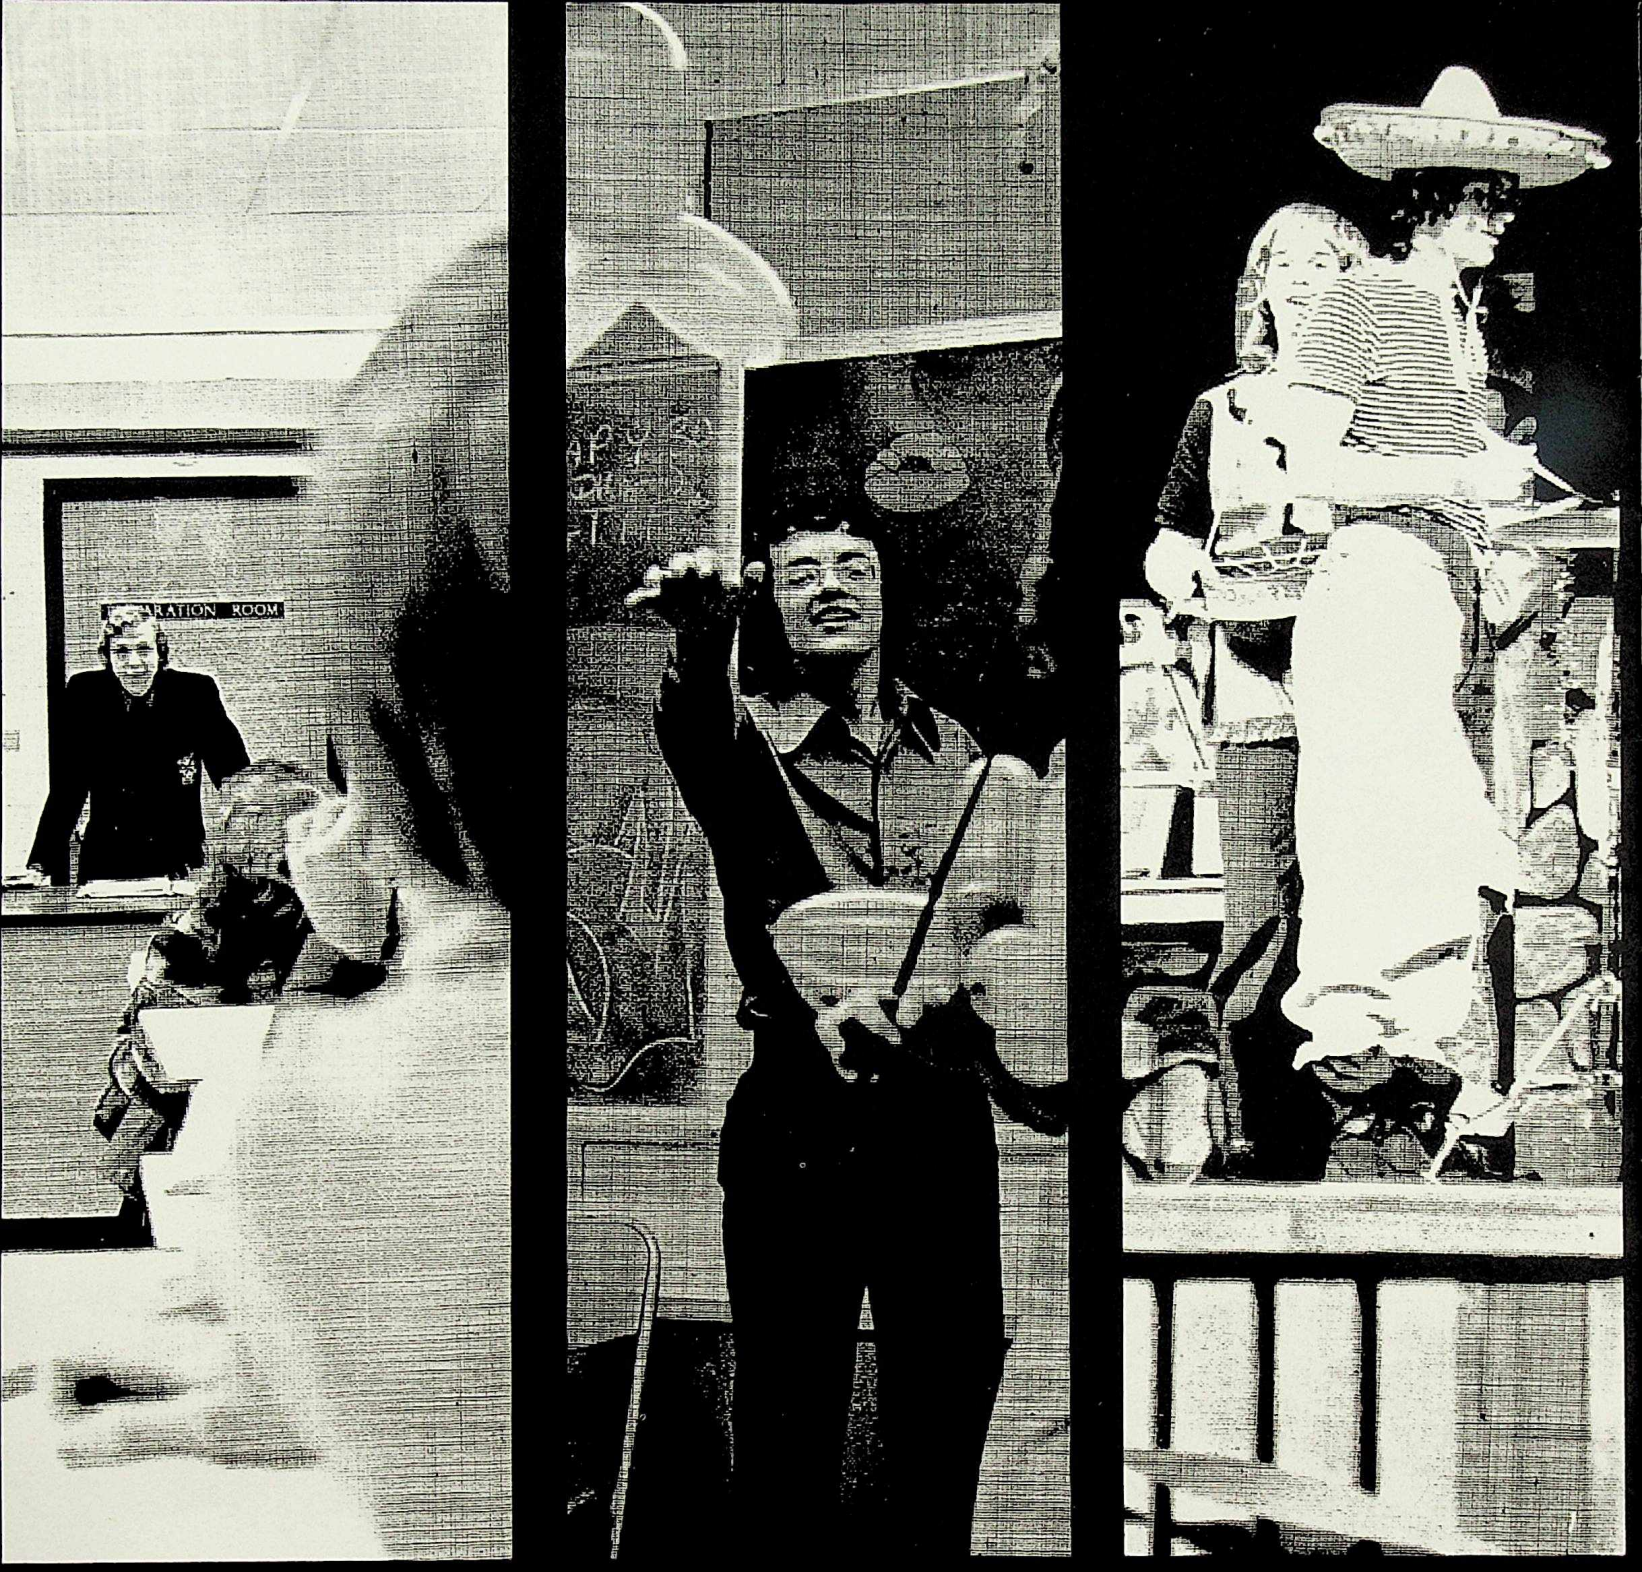
a student

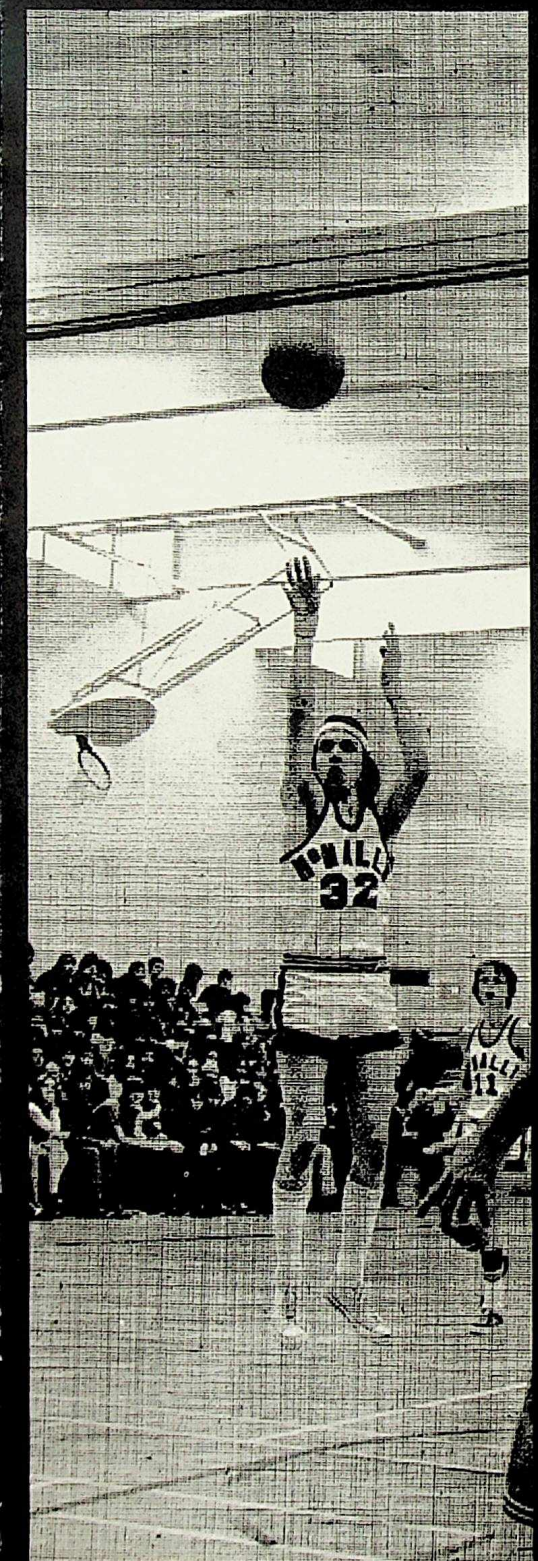


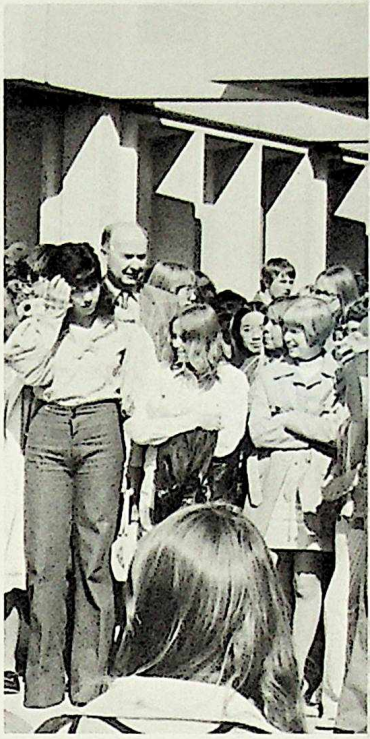


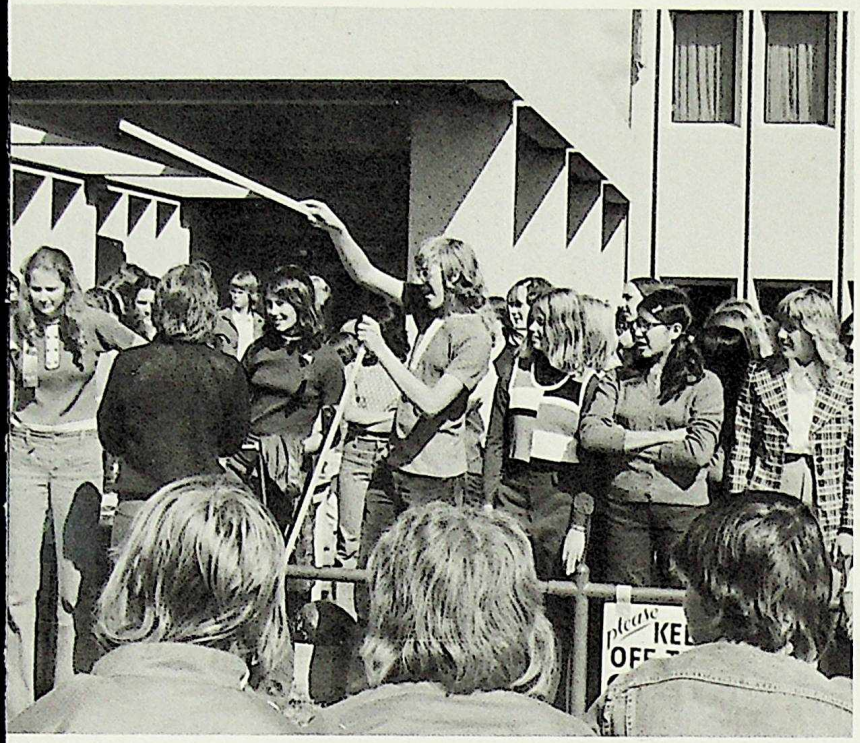
THE YEAR IN RETROSPECT

Looking through the memories of the year creates a kaleidoscope of dicoveries . . . Discoveries in a different sense . . . in getting to know people, in feeling part of the team, in sensing the thrill of victory or the anguish of defeat, in being part of the crowd cheering the home team on, in being alone in the face of competition, in contributing to the activities which take the humdrum out of year after year of schooling. Who can forget Frosh week, the football season, Sadie Hawkins fever, or the weekly noon hour activities. These combined with basketball, Muki Luki, curling, the Grad Tea and Spring gave 1973 a uniqueness and an ambiance of accomplishment.

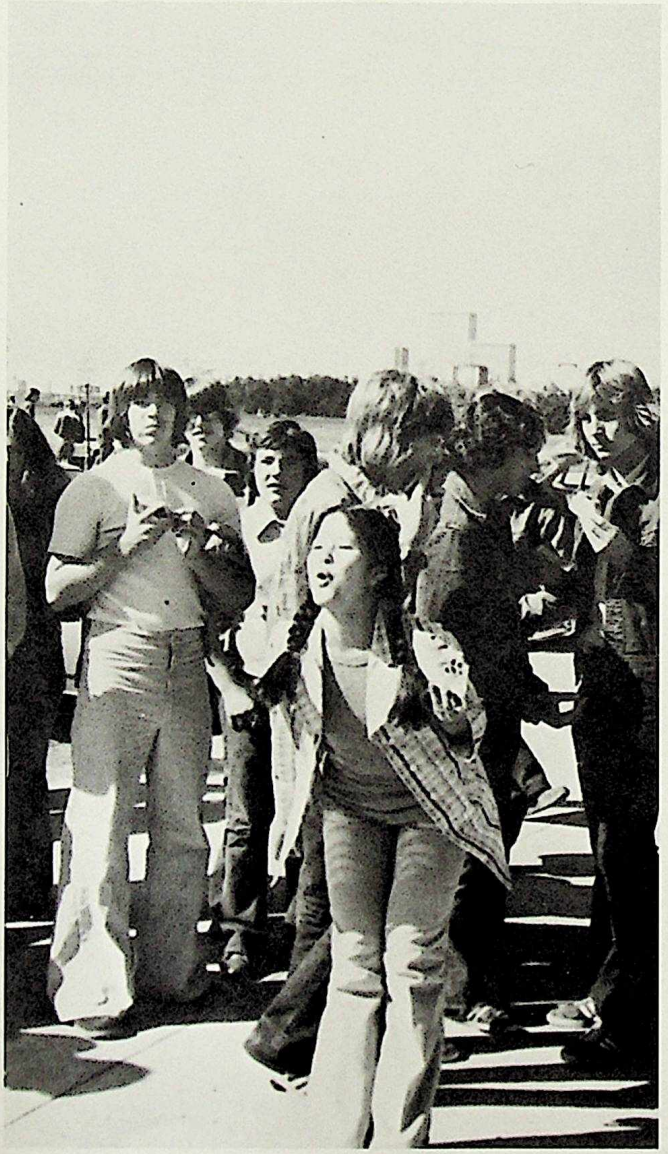
THE YEAR IN RETROSPECT

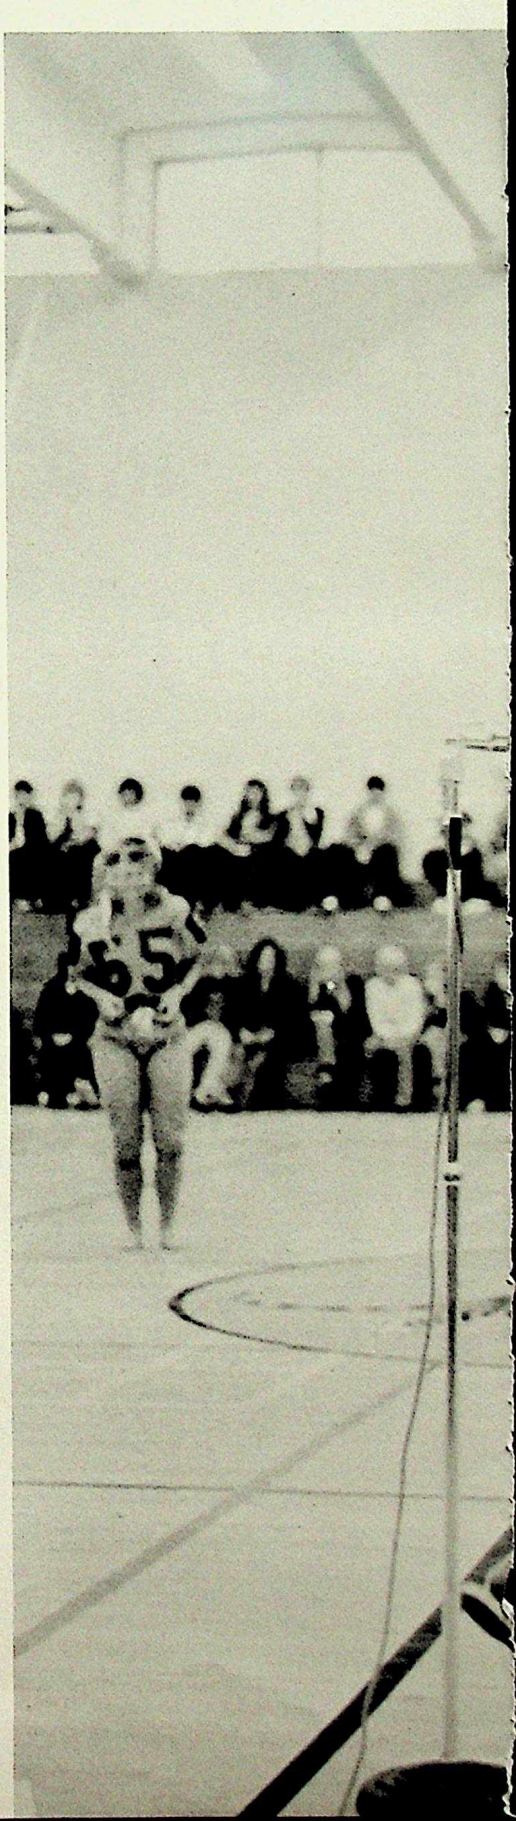


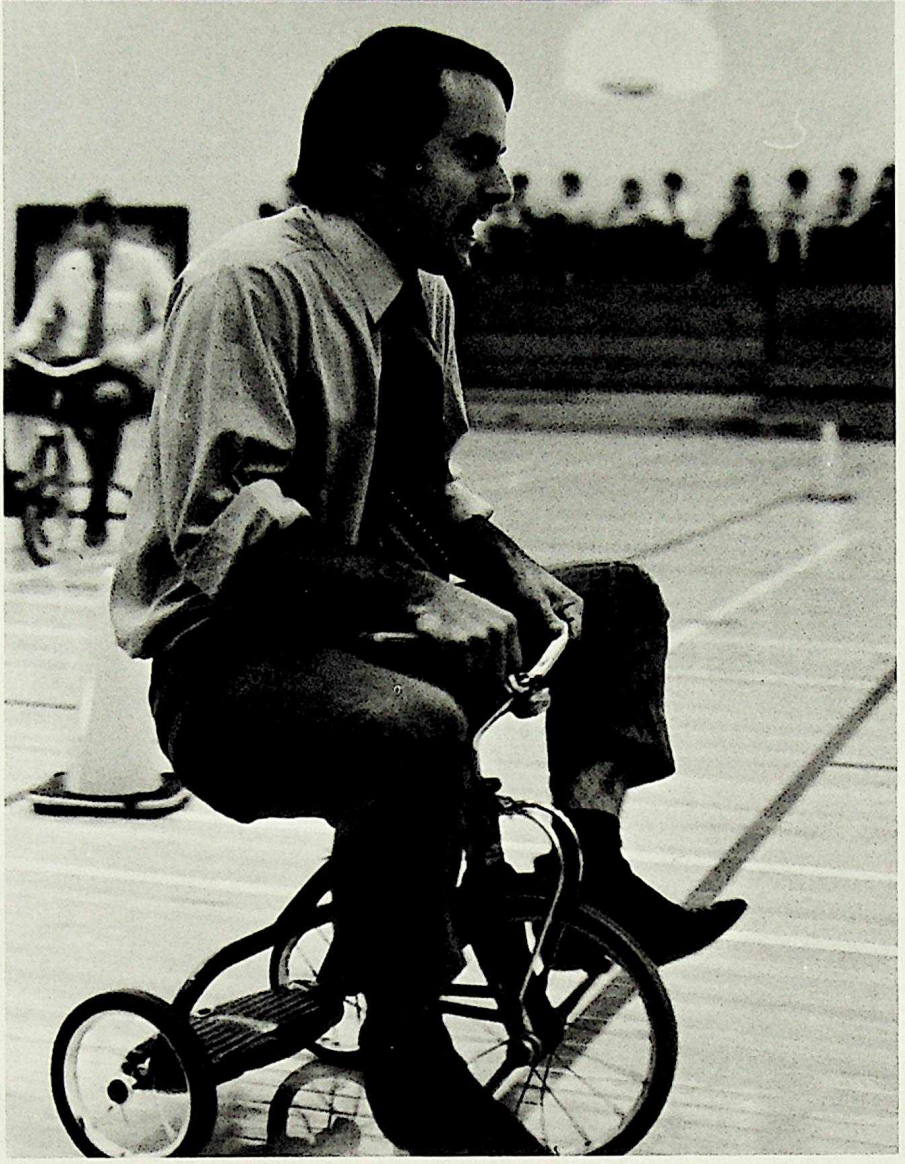


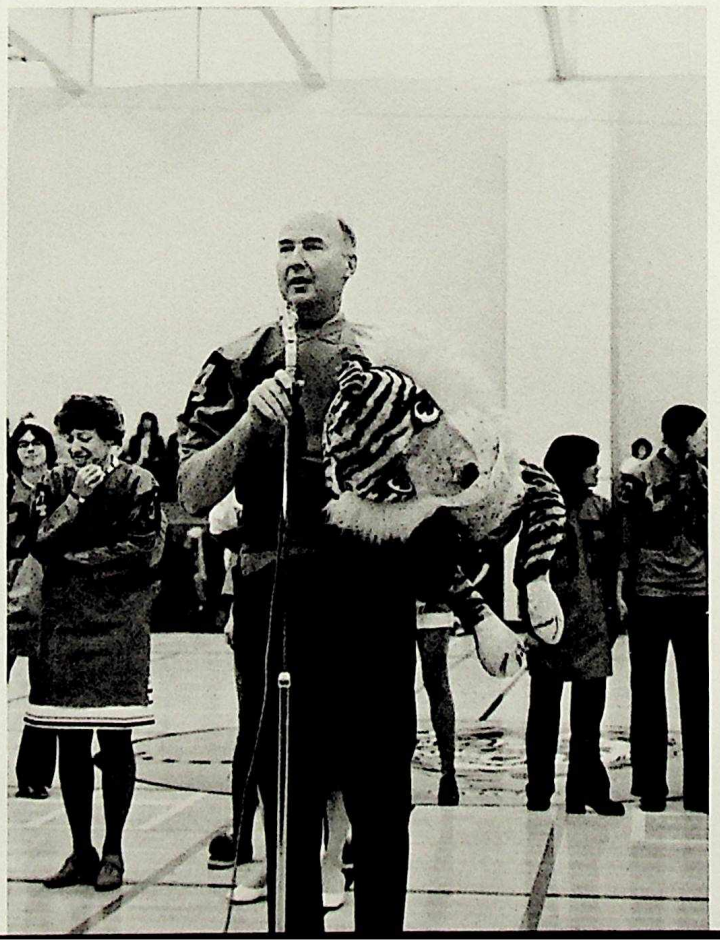


School was started off with a new and exciting activity . . . The First Annual Watermelon seed spitting contest. The said purpose of participating in the contest was to win Fame and Fortune by spitting your seeds the furthest. Most people entered for the true fun of the event — EATING Watermelon. Leading the contest, our illustrious principal demonstrated the proper form of seed spitting. However, he lacked the OOMPH necessary to win the contest. (good sport huh?) Congratulations go to the winner of the event, Uncle Al Rodatz.

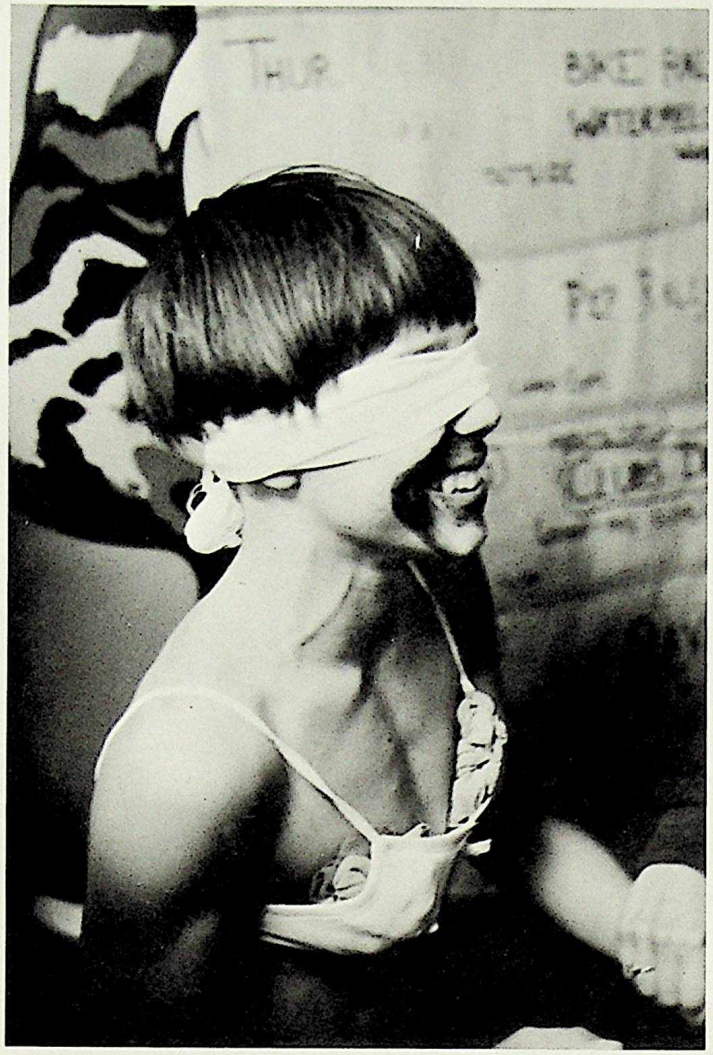






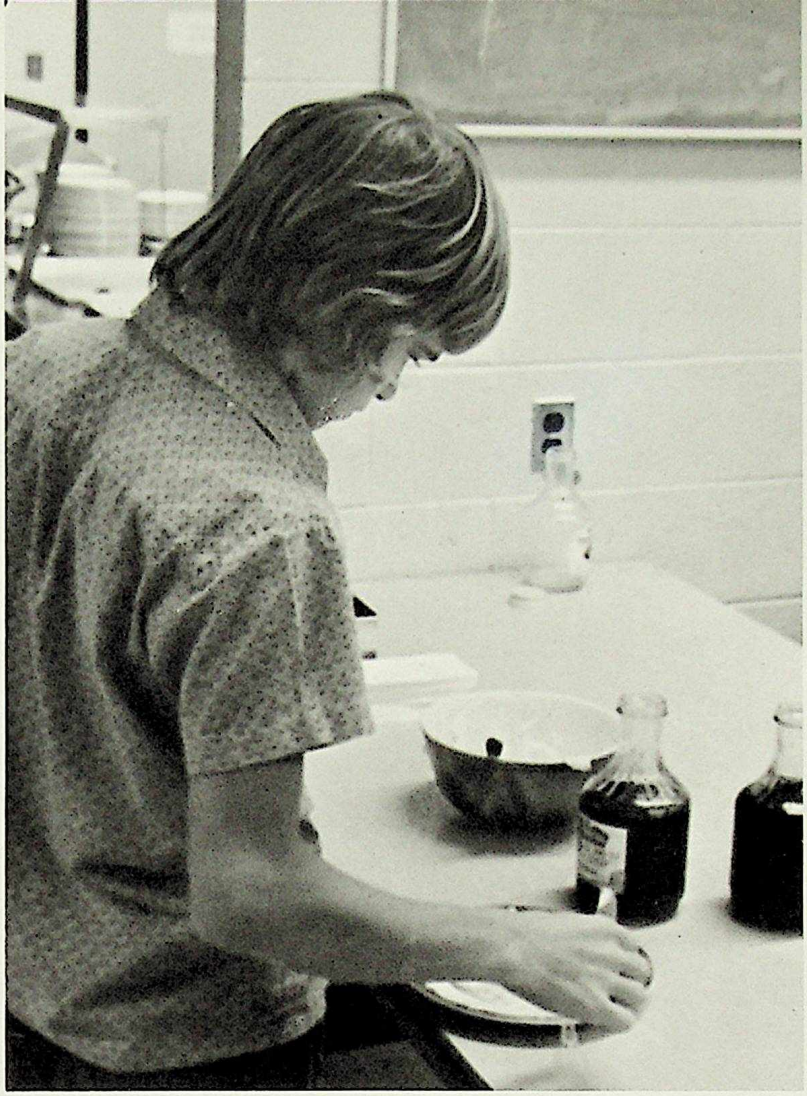


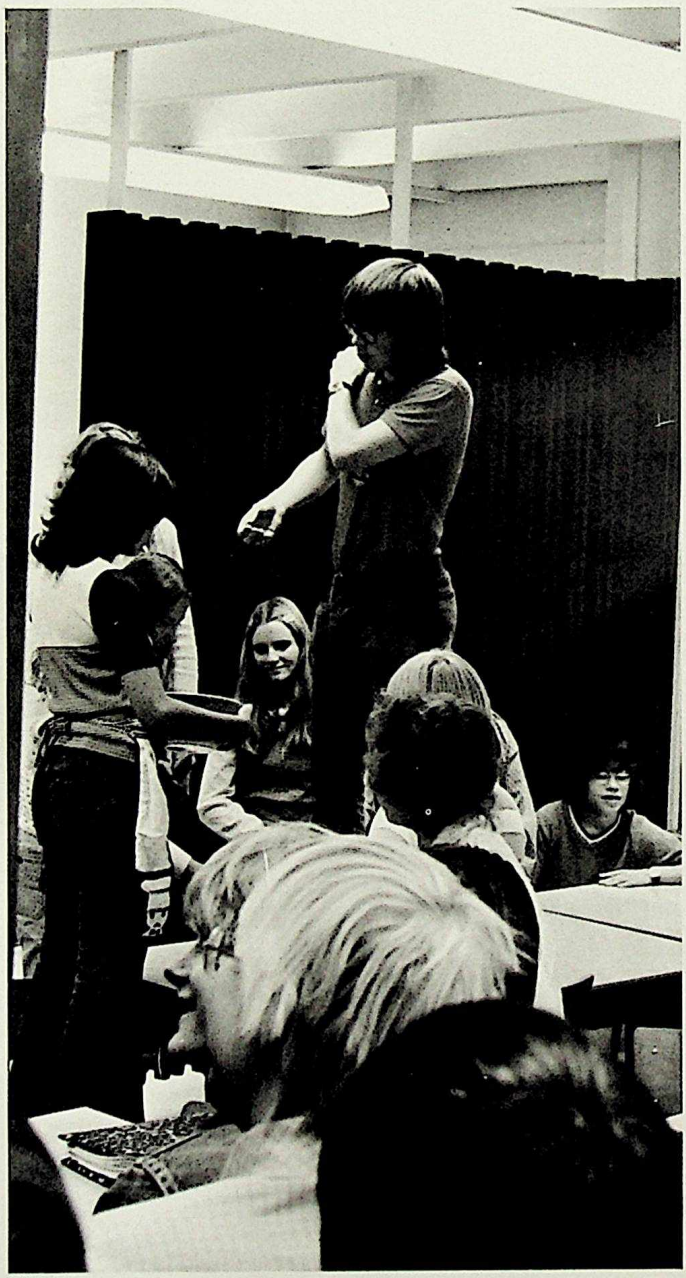
In the week that followed, students were introduced to the Administration, the Guidance counsellors, the Students' Executive, and the Sr. Cheerleaders during the Pep Rally. Also students, as well as teachers, had a great opportunity to display one of their superior skills — Trike-riding. Racing on the wings of the wind, Uncle Al is caught urging his gallant steed to the finish line.

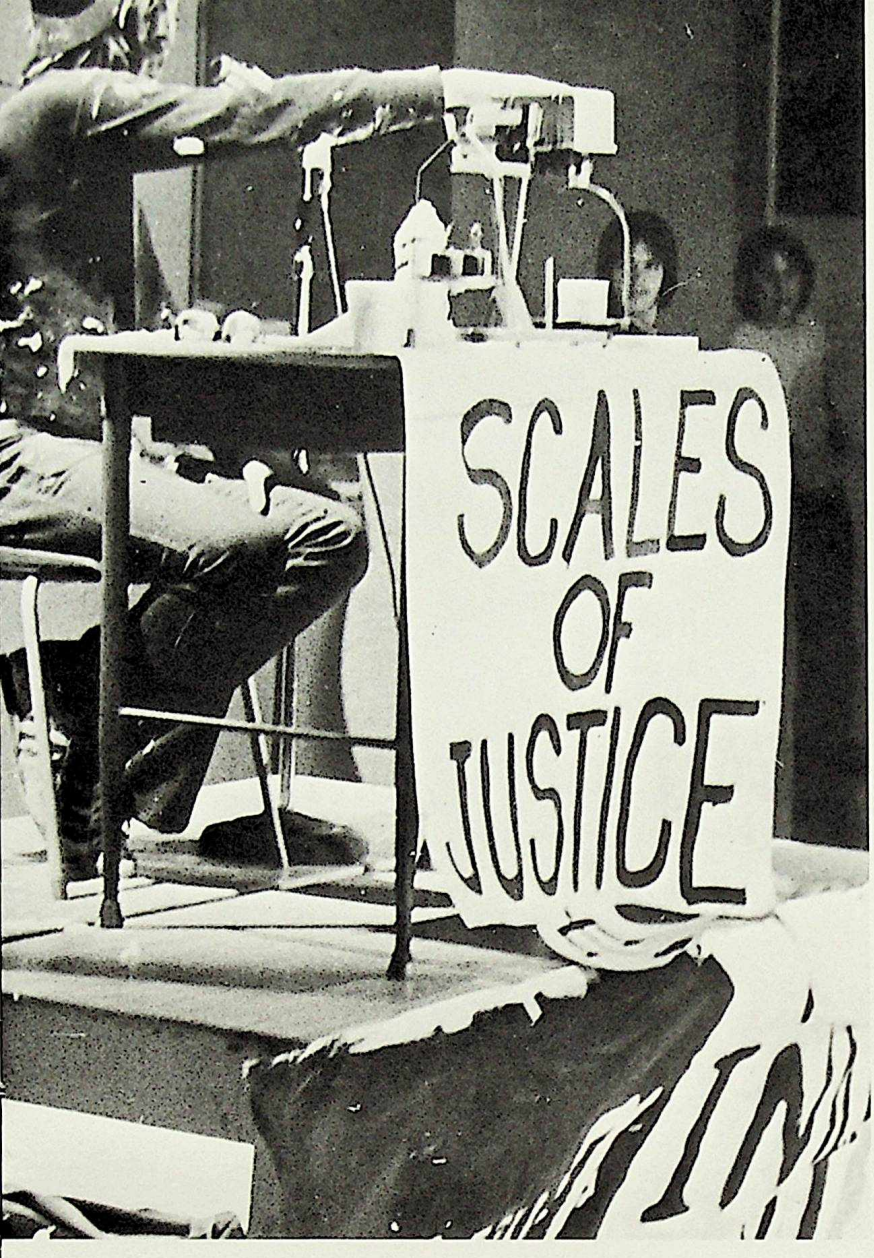


Once again frosh were introduced to the humdrum and normality of high school. The knowledgable Seniors lent a guiding hand to their poor bewildered underlings.
Frosh received guidance in dress regulation and behavior, and were given a chance to practice their new skills. No doubt they'll never forget the reward of skilled penny-pushing, locker kissing, and marriage, even polygamy!

One of the few pleasureable occasions the frosh did receive was Pancake Breakfast. Although the pancakes were weighty, spirits soared!

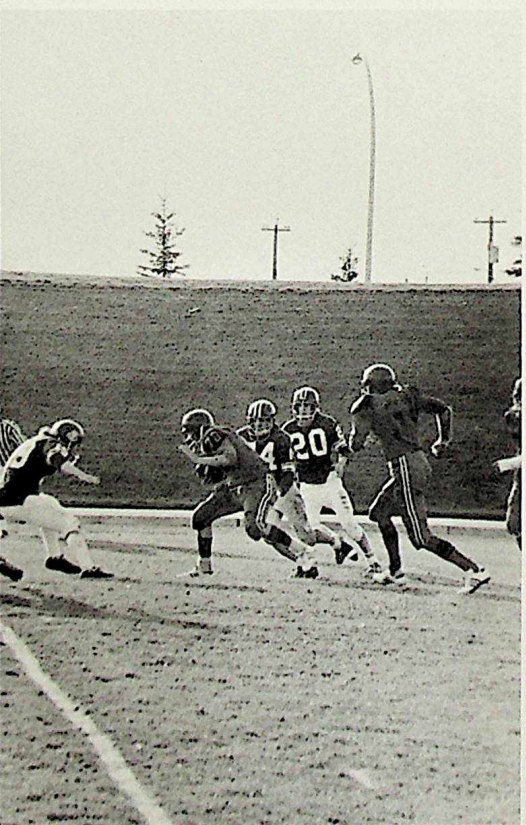


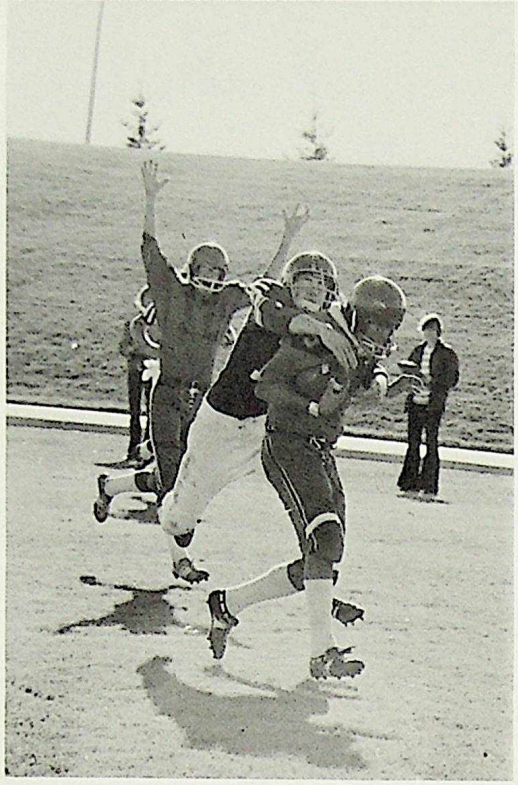




For those unruly Frosh who cared not to bend to their Senior's whim and will, they paid the price of facing Frosh Court. Judge Bill Rogerson presided, while the jury of the people pronounced the accused's fate. Punishment varied from picking apples from tubs of whipped cream, to eating through a watermelon.

As a final welcome to the frosh, a dance was held in their honor. Powerhouse, a Toronto band, was featured. Cathy Shimbashi was crowned Frosh Queen, and Tim Ursen was crowned Frosh King.





SENIOR FOOTBALL

The air vibrant with excitement.
Fans cheering, roaring.
Players tense — excitement and anxiety surge through them . . . This is Football, where strength and skill compete, and also complement each other.
Our Senior team fought hard this year, they overpowered five teams, but were forced to concede to two teams.

Mark Pennifold, Darrel Starchuk, Randy Semituk, Jarry Newcome, Marlow Rushfelt, Ian Johnson.
Middle Row (from left)
Dale McLean, Wayne Fotty, Dale Rippon, Mike Fotty, Wayne Ewasiuk, Dave Senio, John Dickau.
Front Row (from left)

VOLLEYBALL

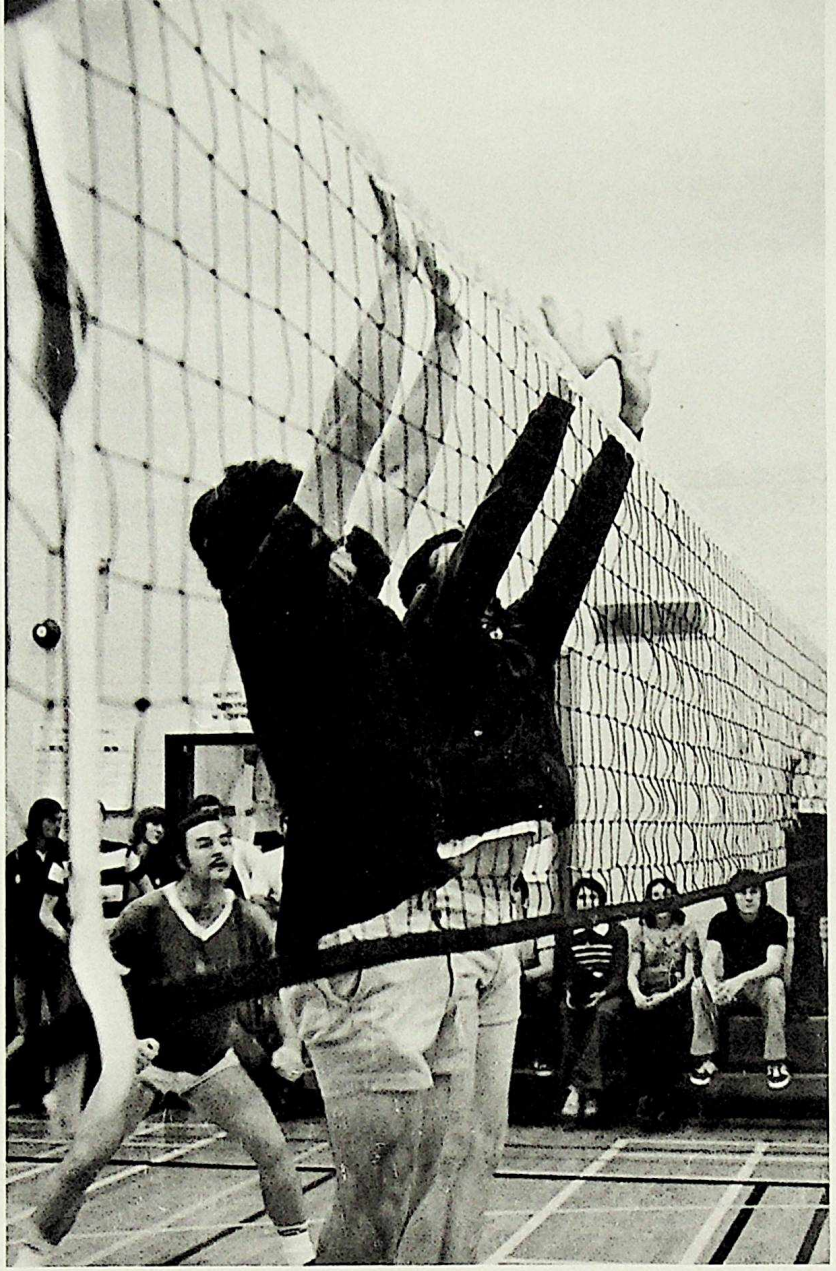
Volleyball as promoted is a spectator sport. The advertising did much to bring about an increase in the attendance but the real attraction was our teams.

Senior boys' volleyball provided much excitement and showed us the skill of the team. This skill plus their teamwork led to a final record of 48 wins and 8 losses.

Our junior boys had even greater success at molding individuals into a team. They ended the season with 50 wins and only 10 losses.

GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

Girls' volleyball is not yet a gate-crashing attraction, but people who came out were well rewarded. The junior girls fought well and had 22 wins to their credit and only 8 losses, and were at the top of the league at the season's close. The senior girls sustained 14 losses and 16 wins. Both teams played in the quarter final playoffs but were unfortunately beaten in very suspenseful and hard fought games.



BOYS' SENIOR VOLLEYBALL

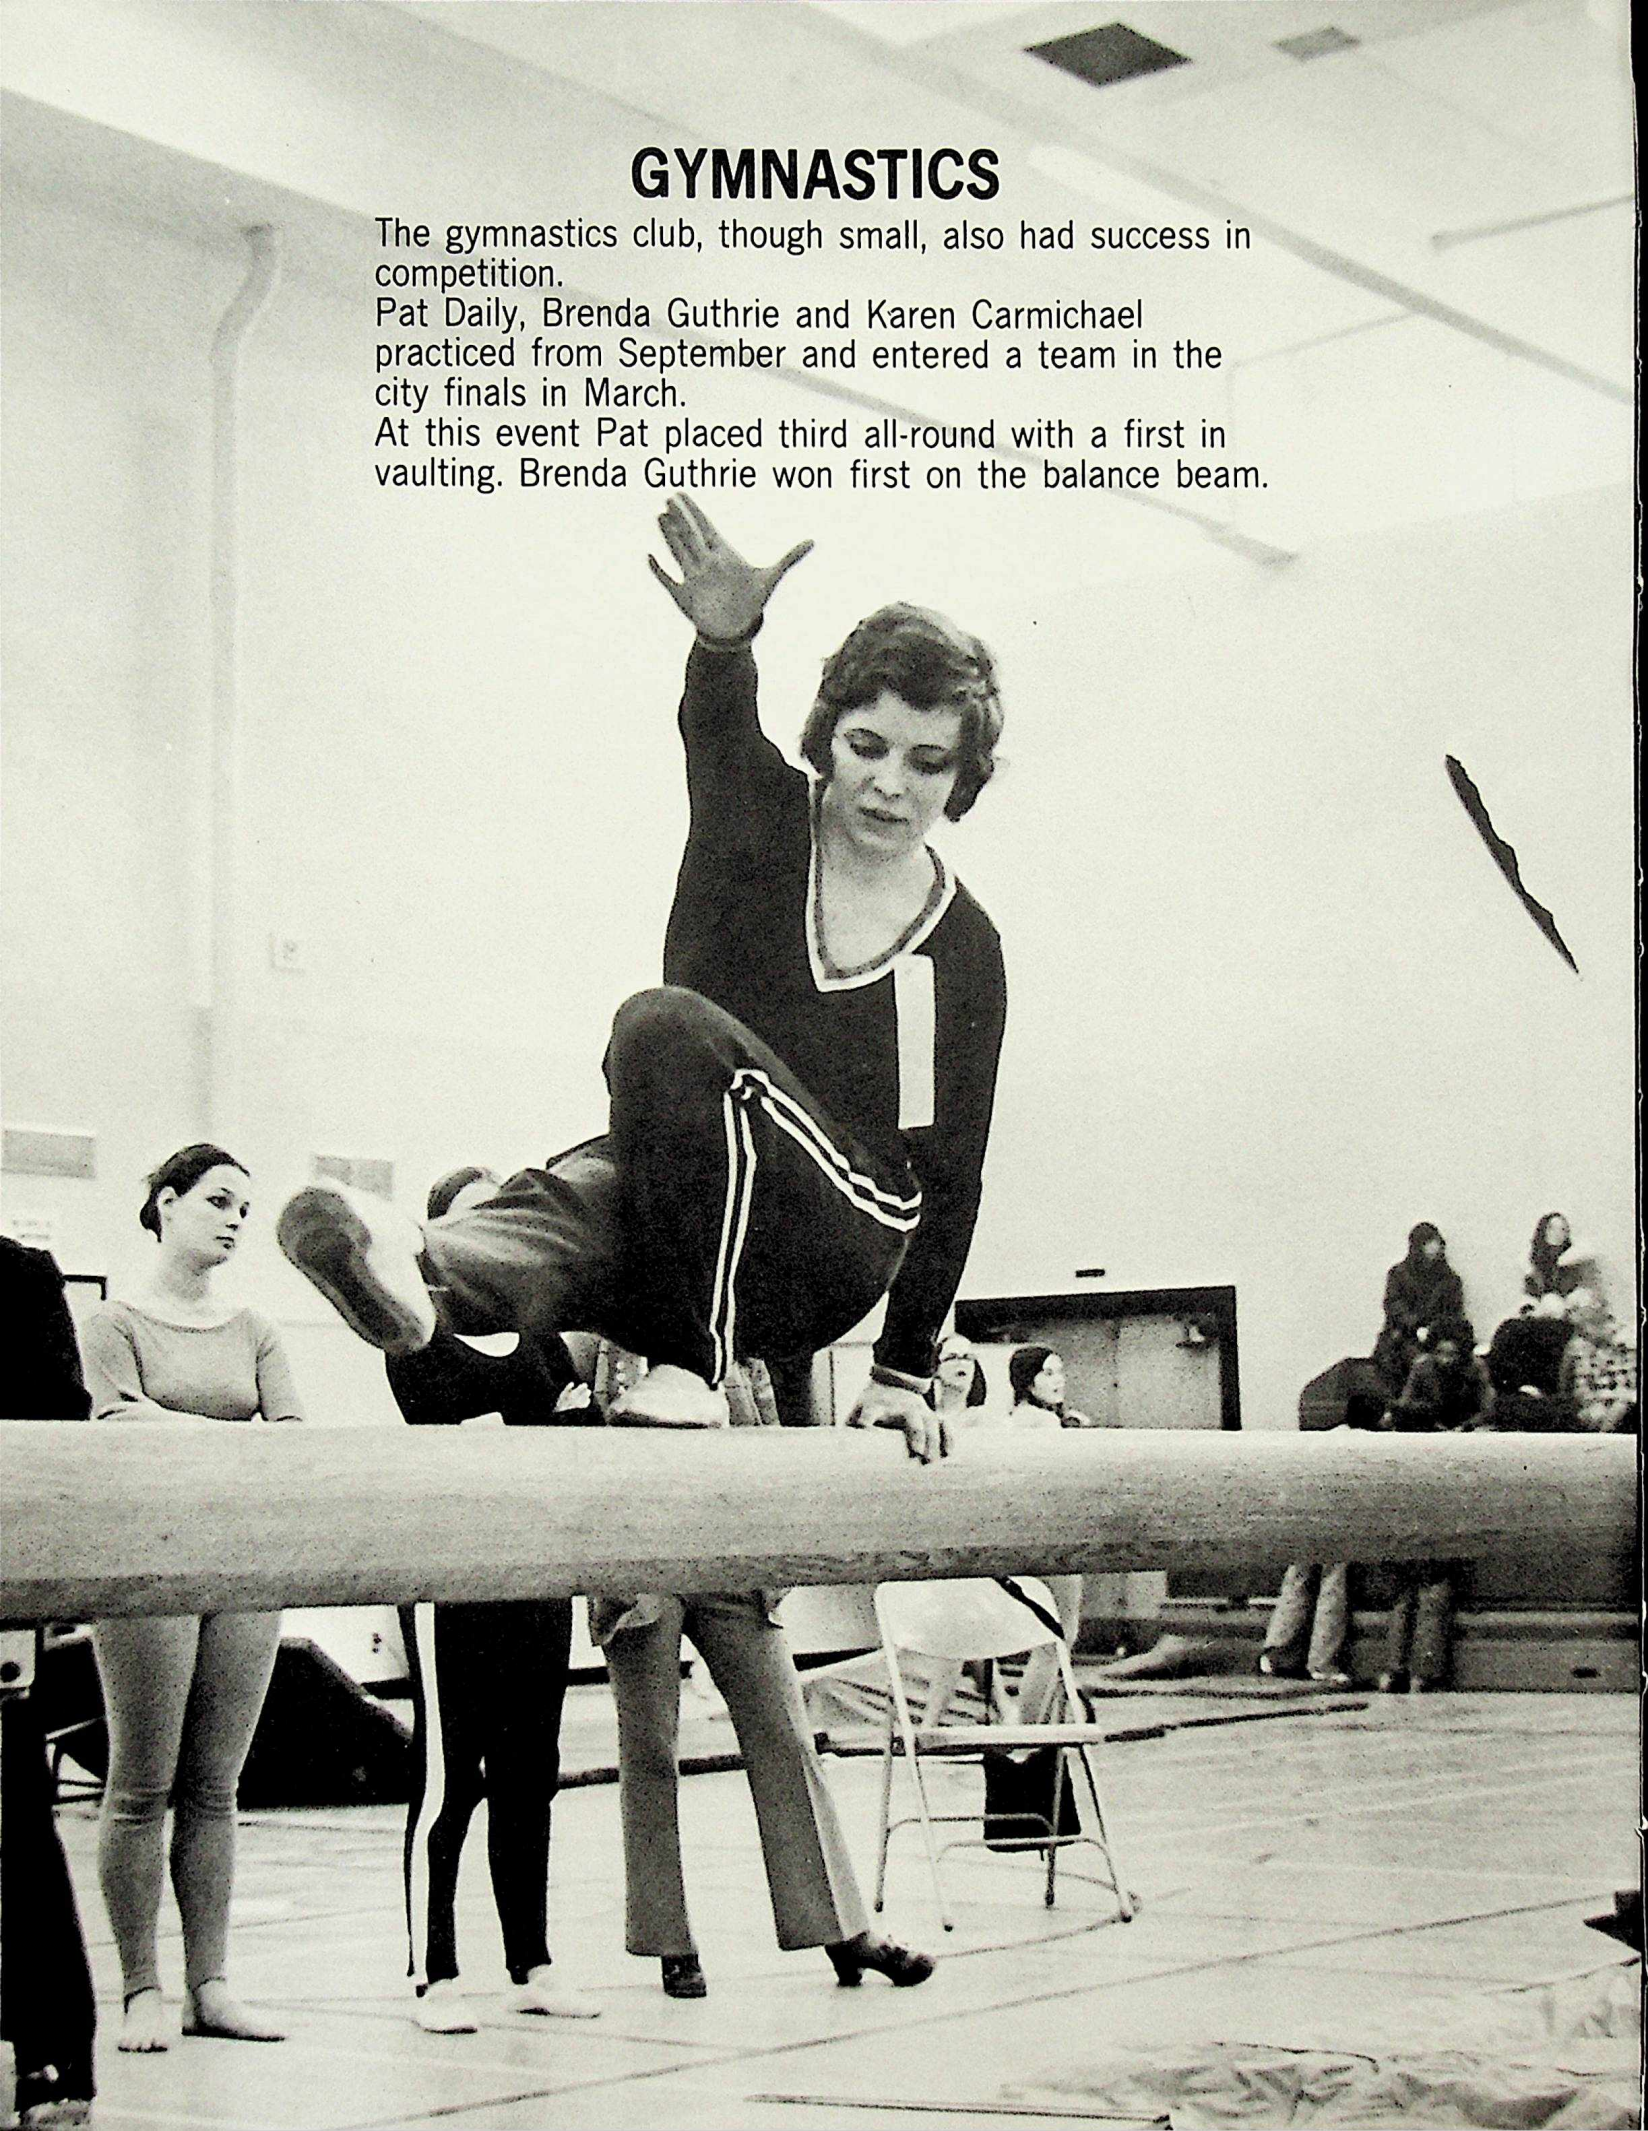
GYMNASTICS

The gymnastics club, though small, also had success in competition.

Pat Daily, Brenda Guthrie and Karen Carmichael practiced from September and entered a team in the city finals in March.

At this event Pat placed third all-round with a first in vaulting. Brenda Guthrie won first on the balance beam.



BADMINTON CLUB

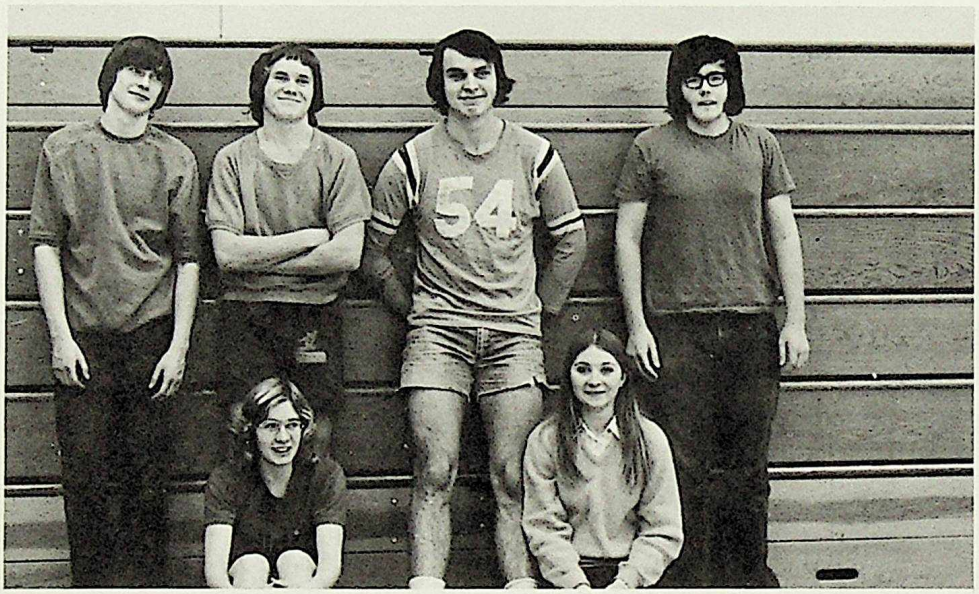
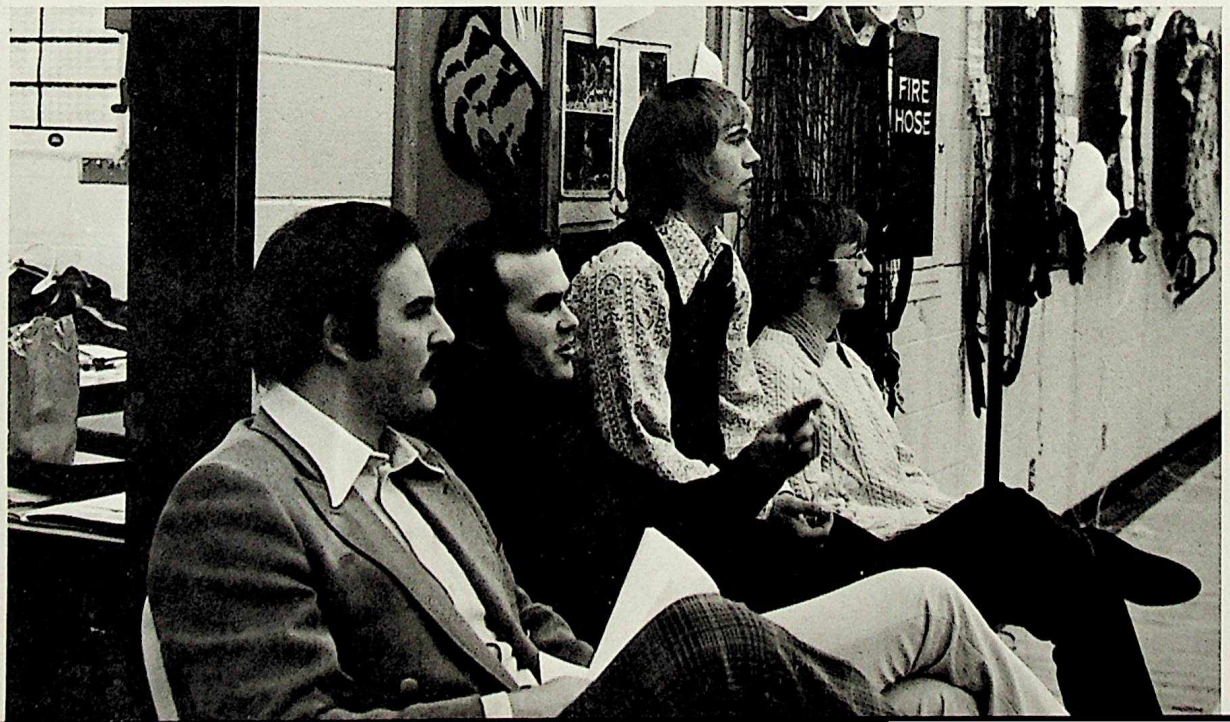
BADMINTON

This is the first year our badminton club has entered the interschool competition. Although most of the members were grade tens and their first year in competition we placed fourth at the end of the season.

McNally sent three people to the provincial competitions. Judy and Peggy Chorney placed third in the Women's doubles. Erik Peterson and a student from Scona entered in the Men's doubles.



CO-ED VOLLEYBALL CHAMPS
Back Row, left to right — Gerald Slamko, Terry Cronk, Ray Therou, Ed Wells. Front Row, left to right — Pat Bailey, Janice Heil.



SADIE HAWKINS

A hundred years ago today
A wilderness was here;
A man with powder in his gun
Went out to hunt a deer.
But now the times have rearranged;
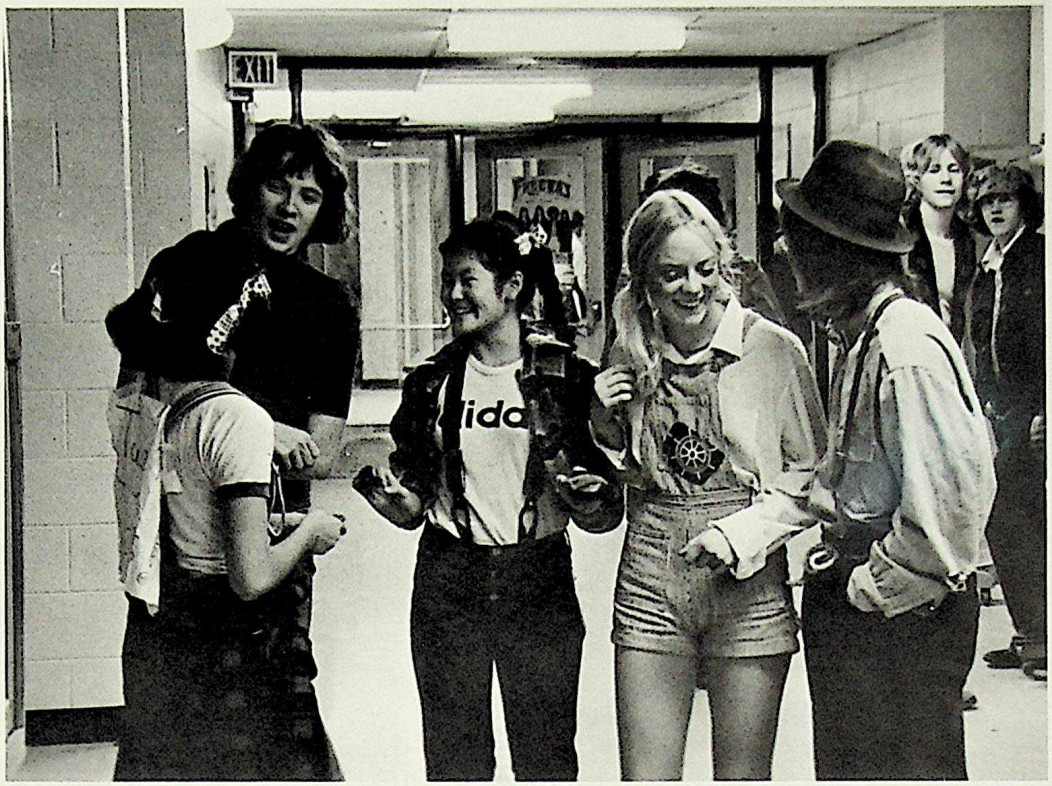
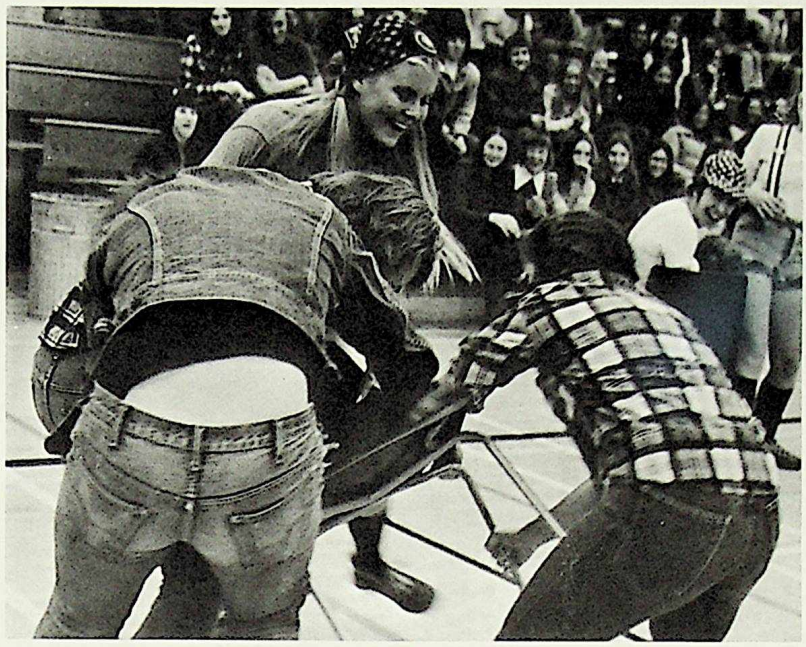
We have a different plan.
A dear with powder on her nose
Goes out to hunt a MAN!

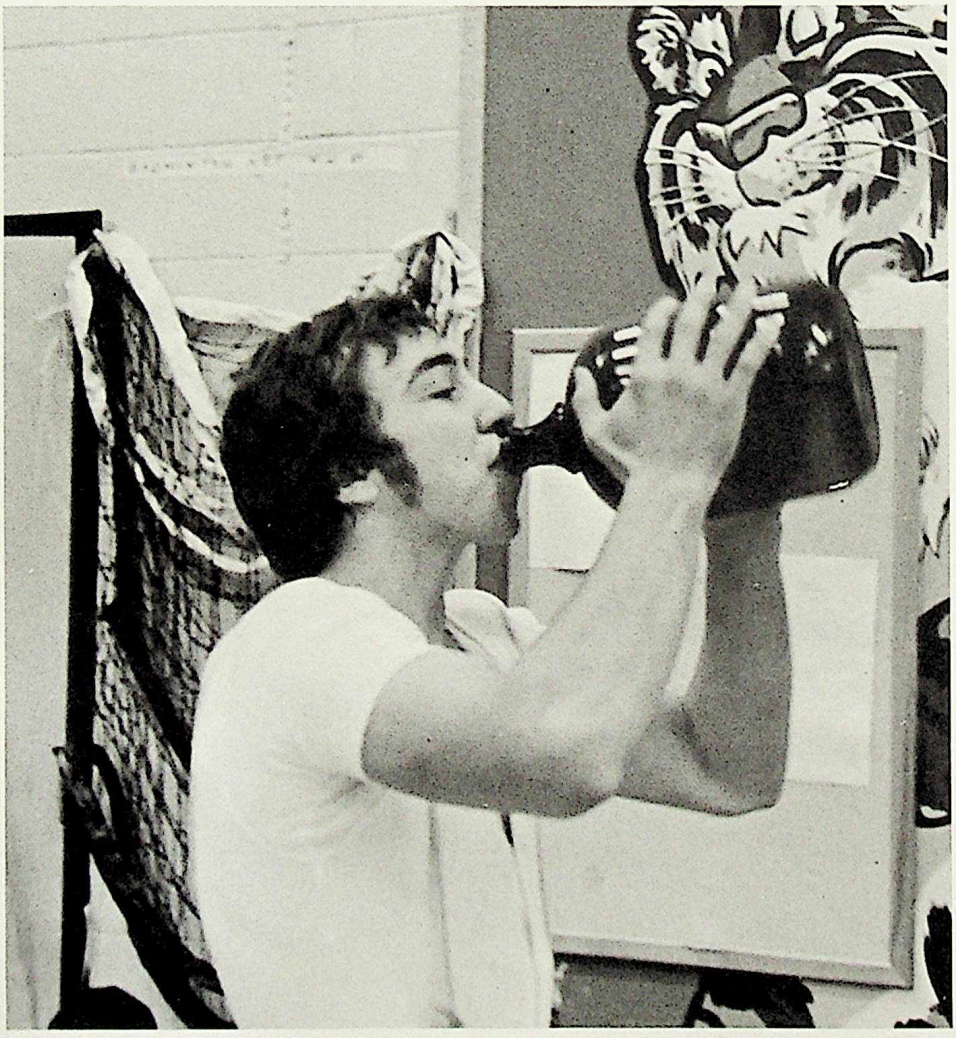
Dianne Helps

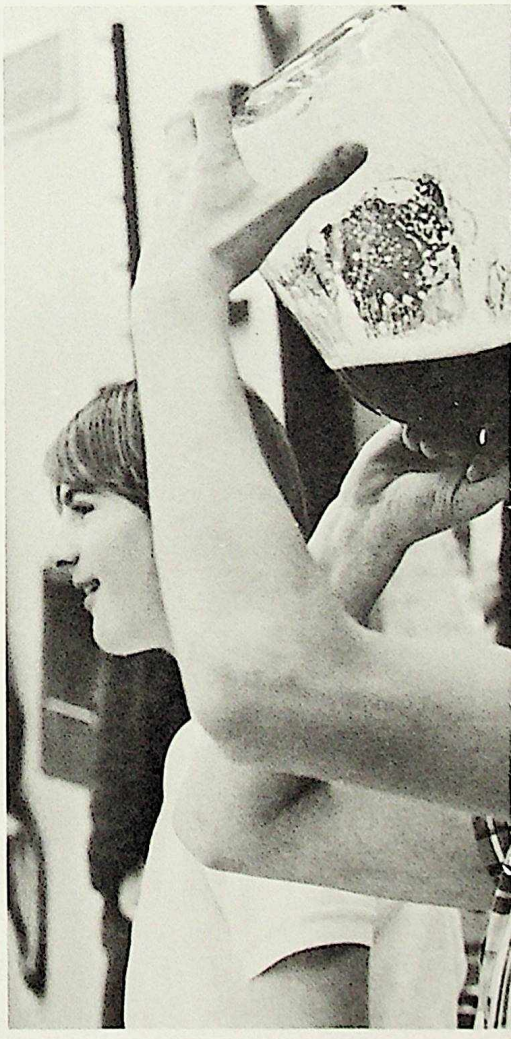


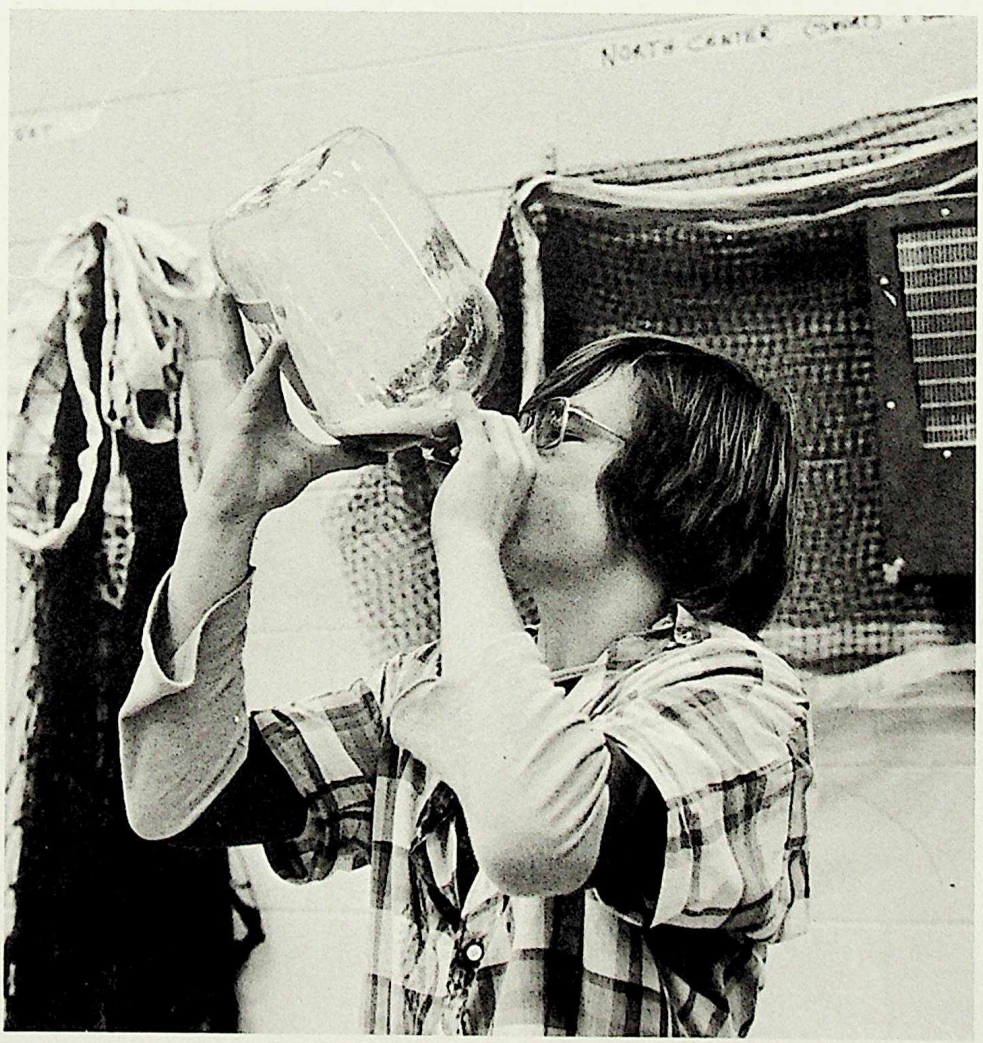


SADIE HAWKINS

Up and get 'em girls . . . It's open season on the men-folk again! Polish up your rifles, dust off your high Brown Boots, and good luck to ya . . .
Get yourself a MAN . . . It's Sadie Hawkins Time again!
To get everyone into the spirit of Sadie Hawkins, noon hour activities were held before the dance. The events consisted of Tug-o'War (for males and females), Chug-a-lugging, squat dances, and musical chairs.
The evening dance was the culmination of the hunting season, and everyone had a good time dancing to FREEWAY.

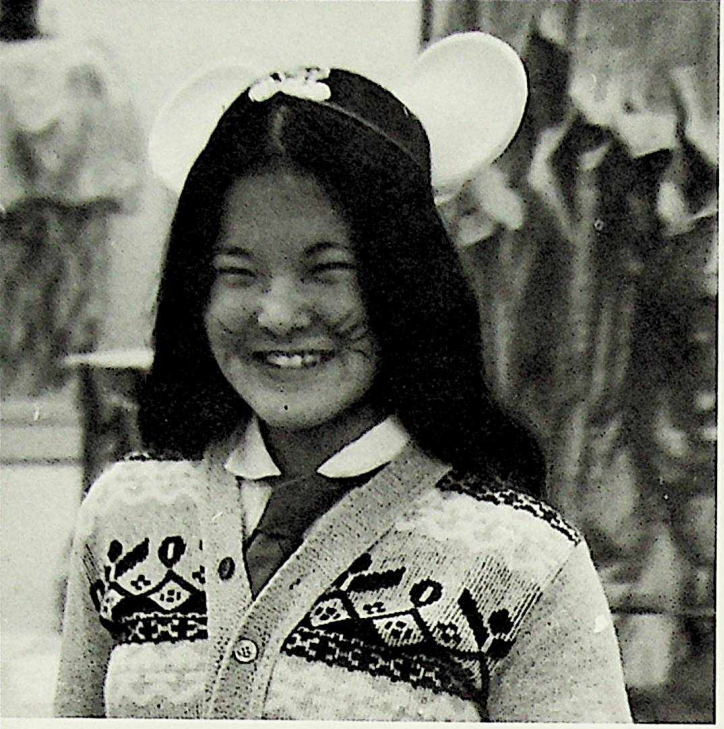


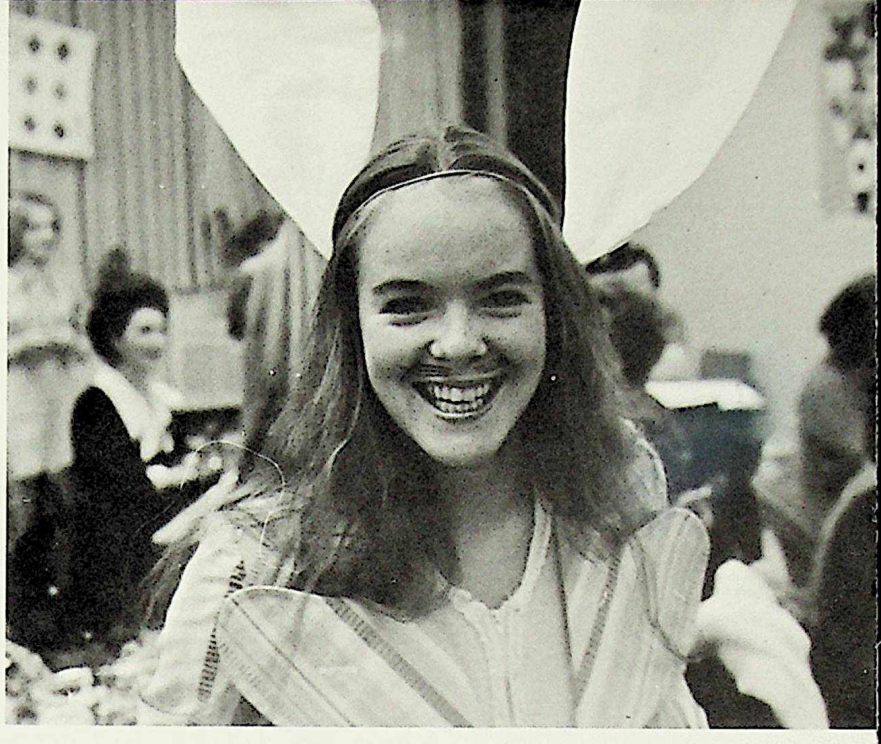




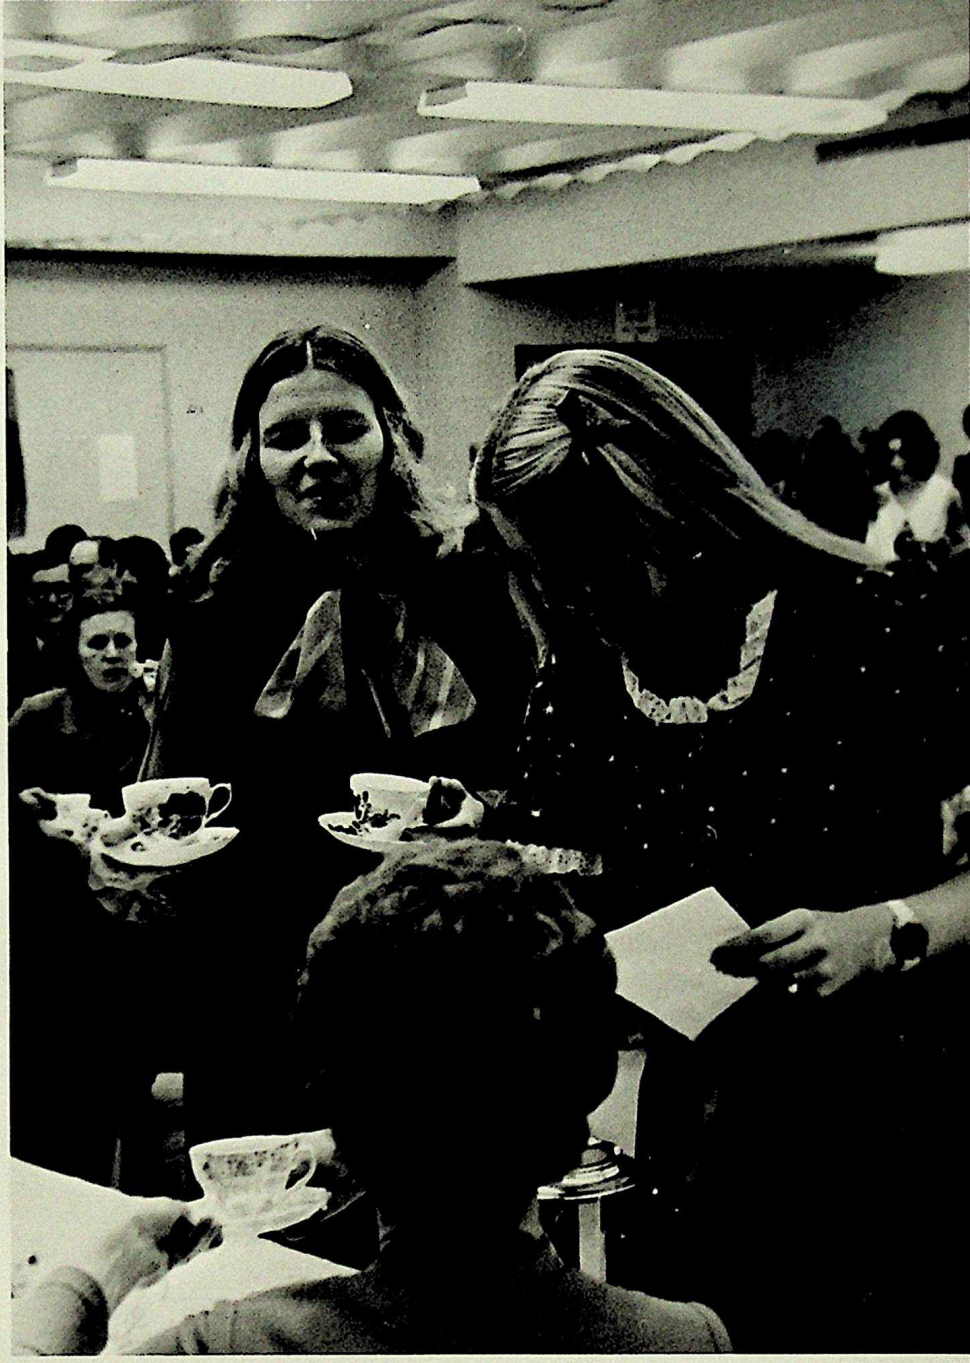
The noon hours were spiced with musical presentations, folk singing, sock hops and theatre . . . just another way to beat the after dinner blues!

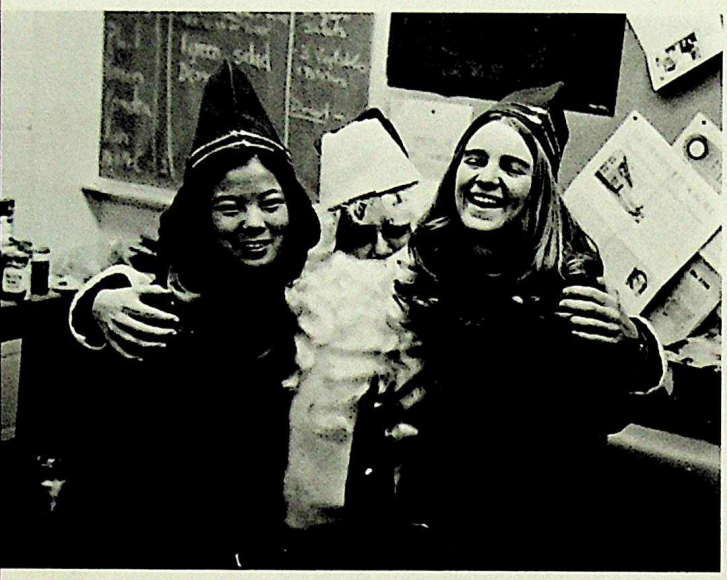
It is a rare occasion when all the schools get together to compete under one roof. It's rarer when on that same occasion they are working for a common cause.
The Annual Christmas Seal stuffing contest is such an event. Each school gathered around their own table and fingers flew to the chant of their school's cheers. Although McNally wasn't the first finished, they rocked the entire Fieldhouse with their boisterous laughter and spirited roars.

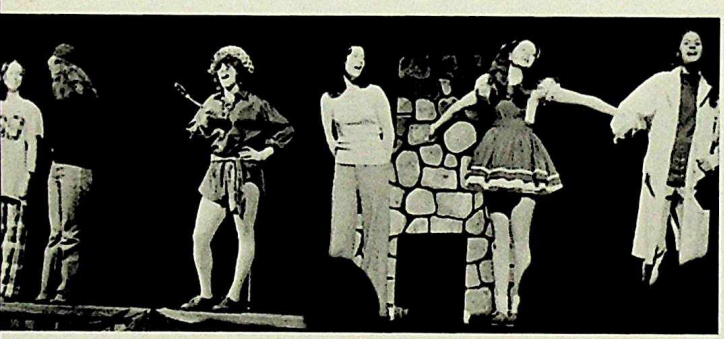




Three delightful visitors officiated at the Mad Hatter's Grad Tea this year. The Mad Hatter herself was acting host, assisted by Doormouse, and the White Rabbit. And of course Alice came too. The tea, run by the grad council was for visitors at open house.



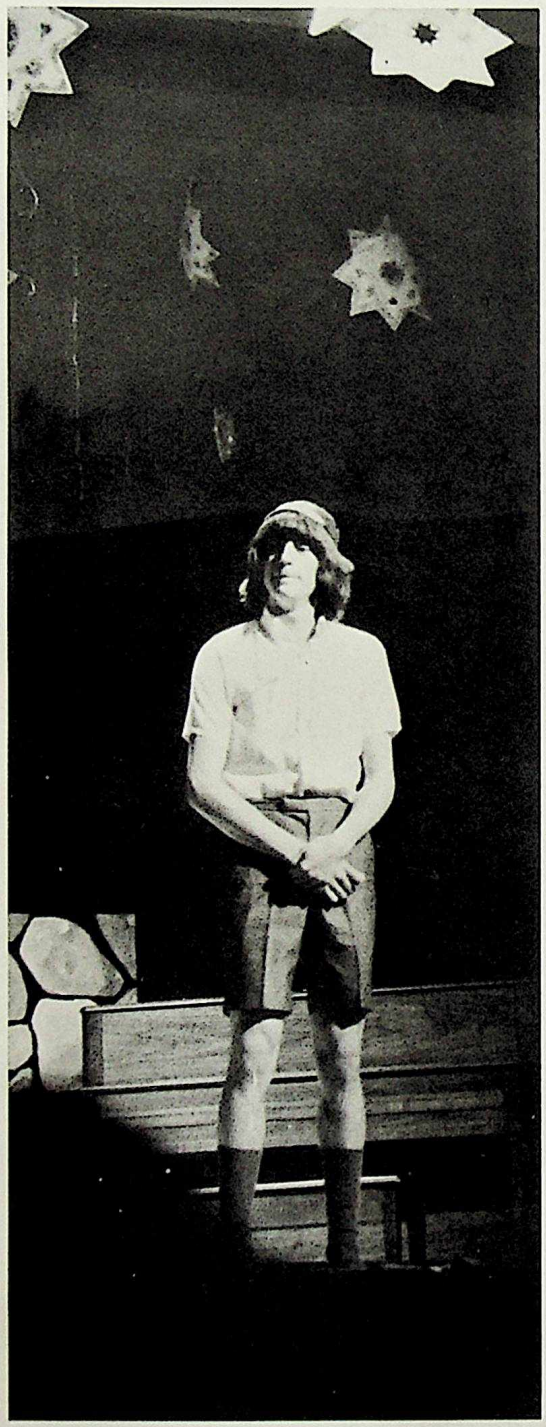




CHRISTMAS LIT

McNally halls crawl with hams, amateur comedians, and budding young actors. If you look carefully you could catch a glimpse of old cronies straight from vaudeville. And once a year these "ex" and "non" professionals rule the stage. The thrill of acting and the warming spirit of Christmas unite in a magic morning for our Christmas Lit.

This year the senior cheerleaders presented a "show within a show" — a take-off on Ed Sullivan. Diane Stein played the starring role with an impressive lineup of supporting actresses . . .

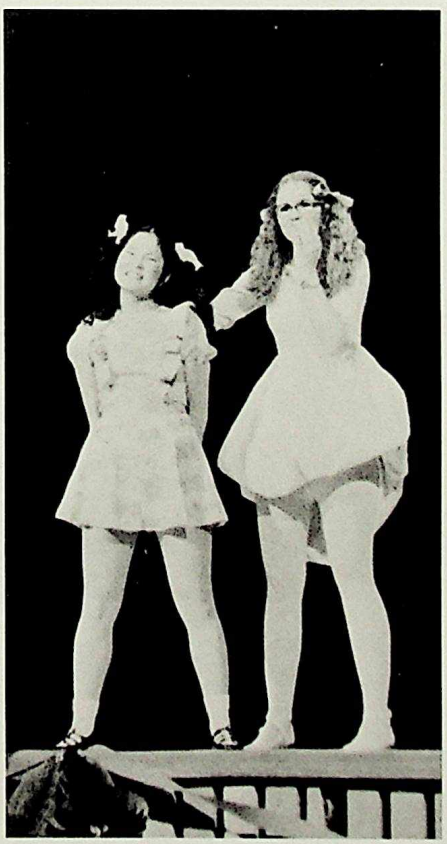


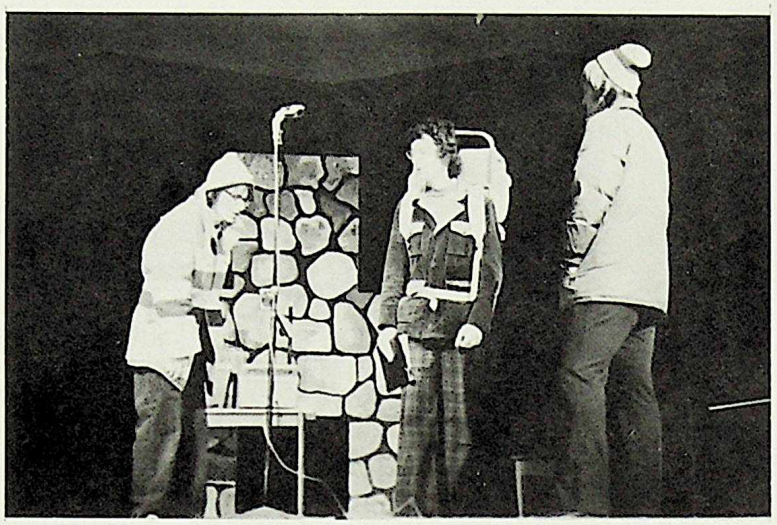
"A horse is an animal with 4 legs, one at each corner" . . . So Tim Cockburn tried to convince us.

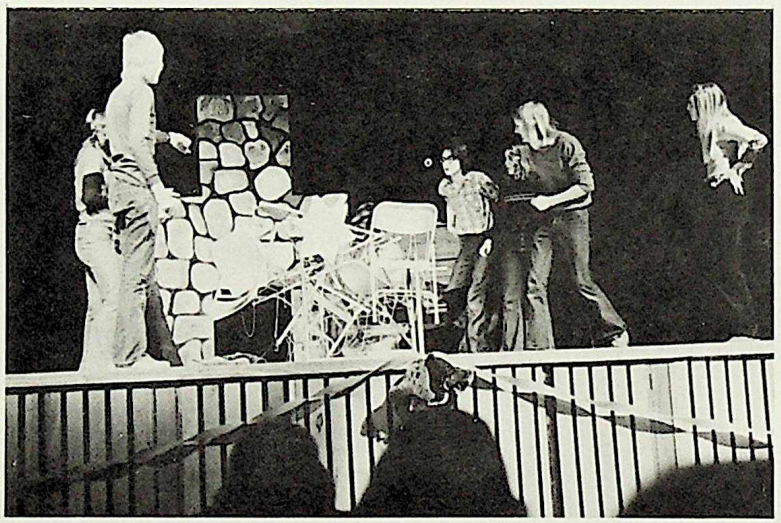
Six White Boomers escaped from the arts, phys. ed. and shop departments. It was hard to say who had the best time, the actors or the audience!

The junior cheerleaders acted out why they could not decide what to do for the Lit.

Two youngsters sang us an old song. Nearing the end the Students' Chess Club cleared the gym with their modern music. The grande finale was an audience participation act — Christmas Caroling!







REPENT

In my business you've GOT to be good!

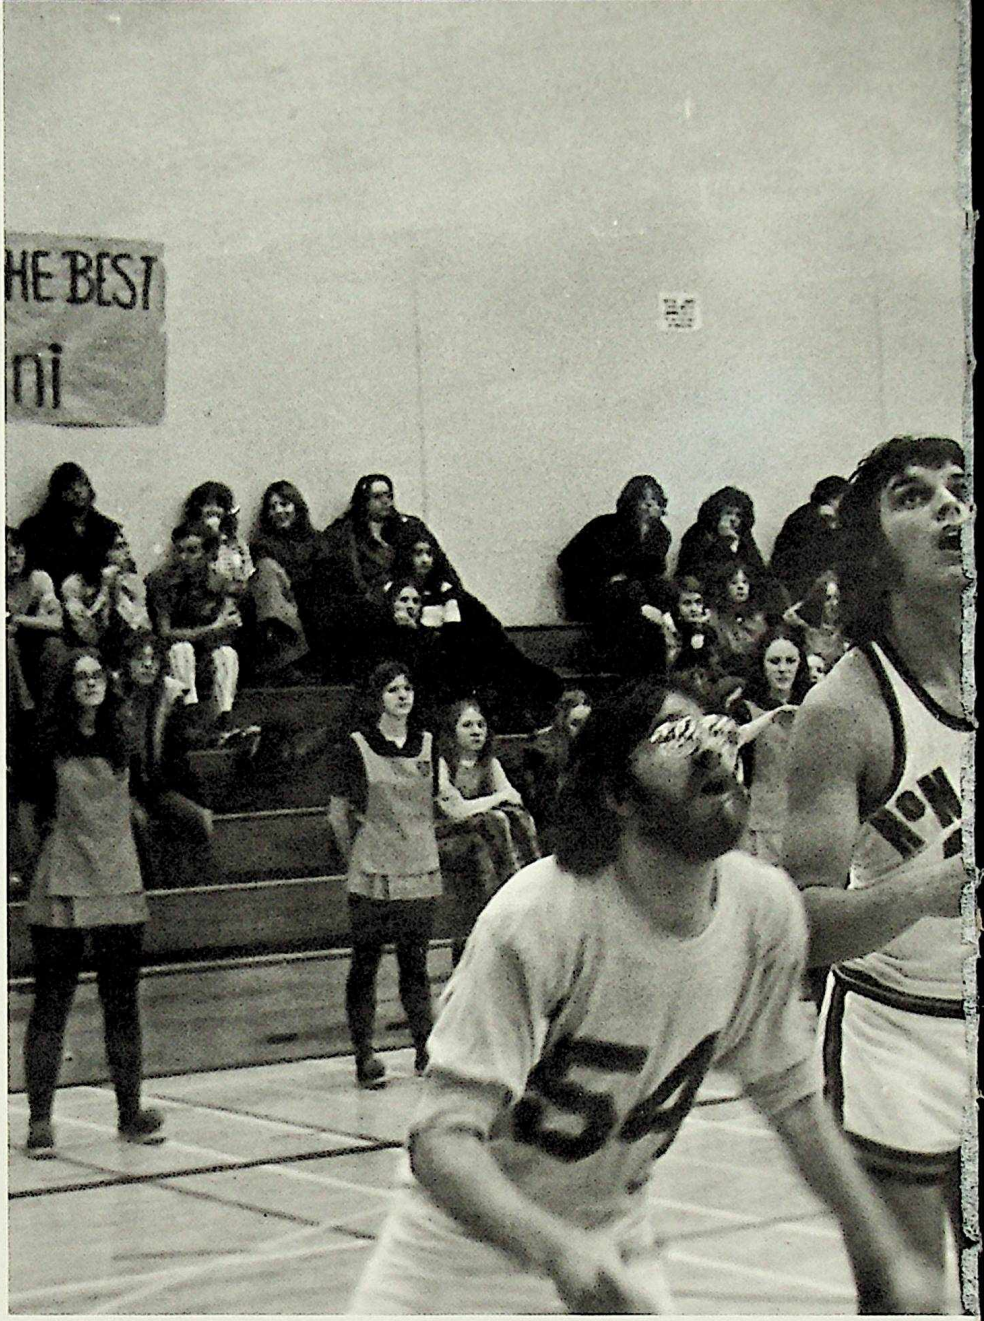
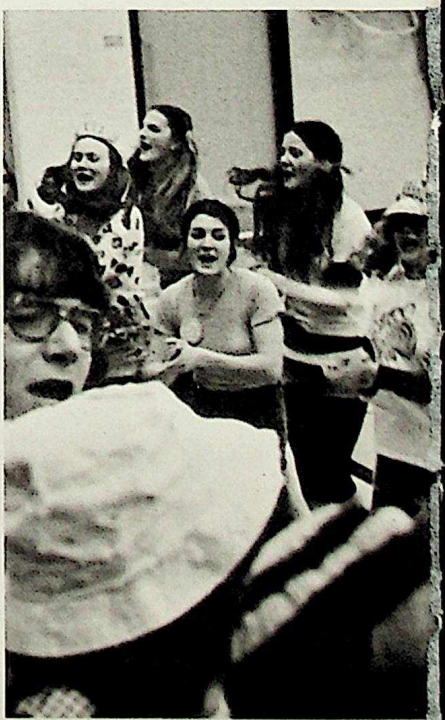
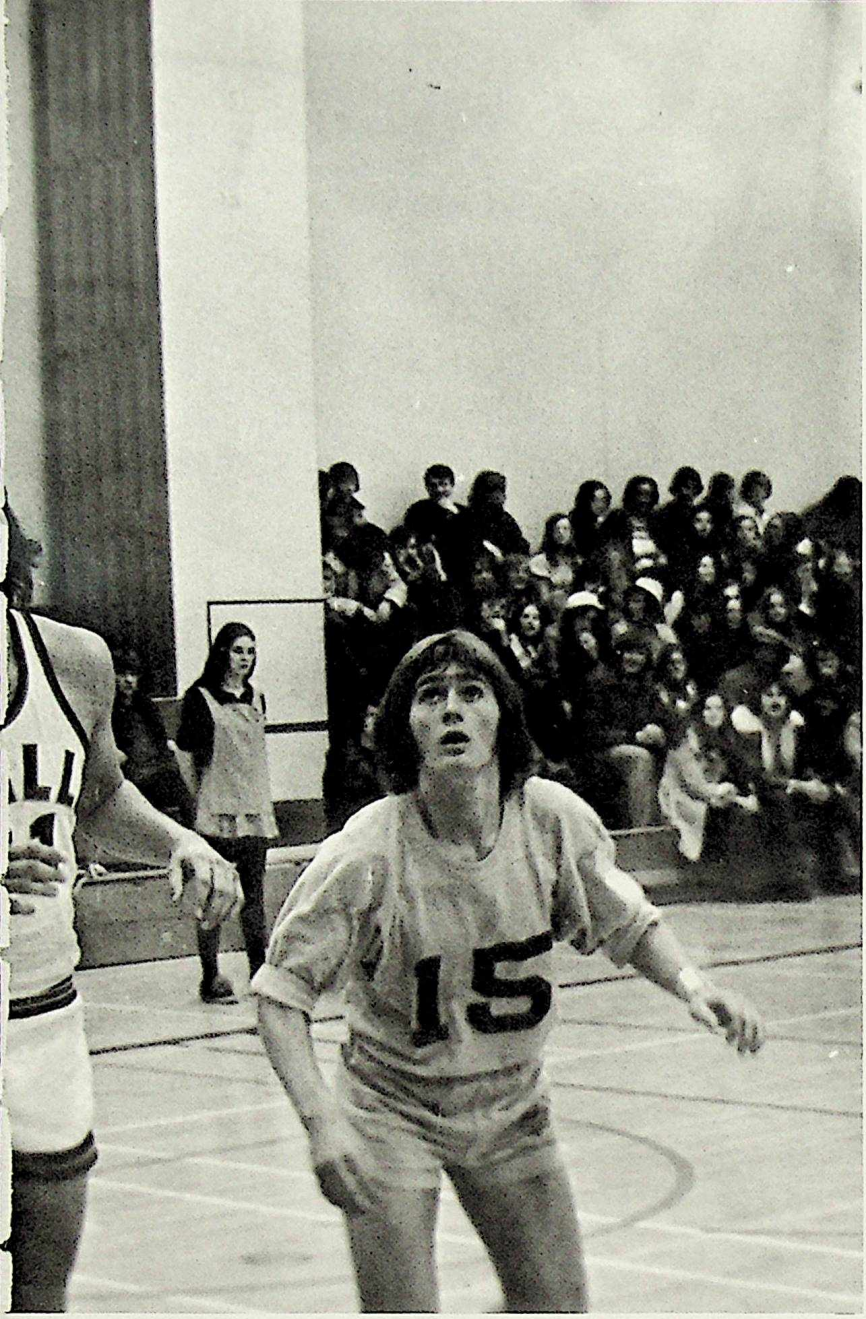
ALUMNI NIGHT

For the first time in McNally's history Alumni had a chance to return to their home of learning and reunite for an evening.







Our rusty but spirited Alumni team challenged our Senior Basketball team. The Seniors remained undefeated by a hairbreadth.

JUNIOR BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM

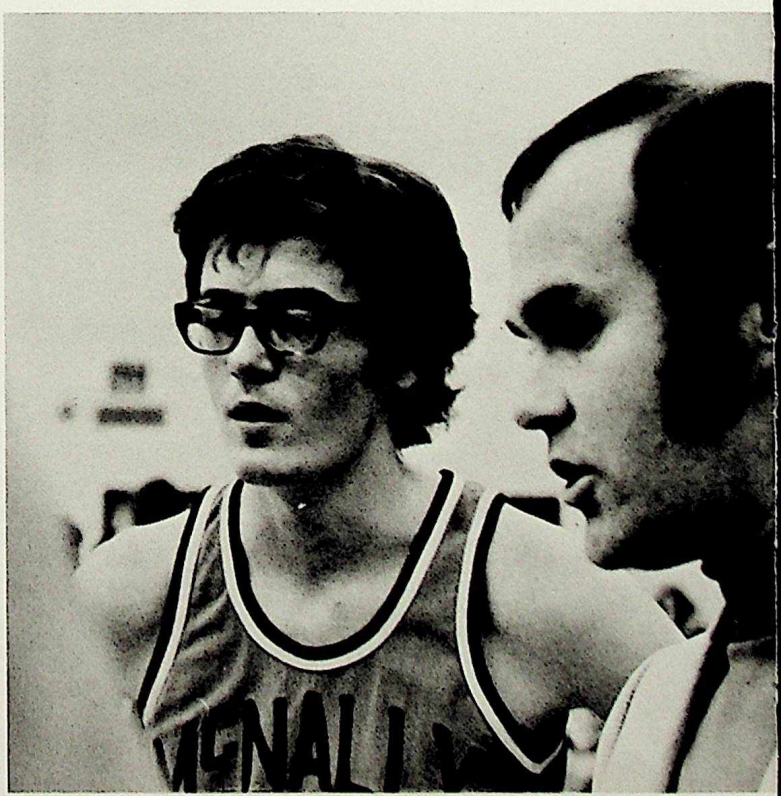
BASKETBALL

Basketball is a total involvement game. For the players it demands the highest perfection in teamwork and individual skills, and for the fans it requires concentration and understanding.

Although the Senior team started the year in rather poor form, they managed to get the ball bouncing by the end of the year and ended up with an even percentage of wins and losses.

The Juniors battled hard for the entire season coming out on the best end of an 11-9 record. This placed them in the playoffs, in which they were narrowly defeated 32-30 in the dying moments of the game.



SENIOR BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM

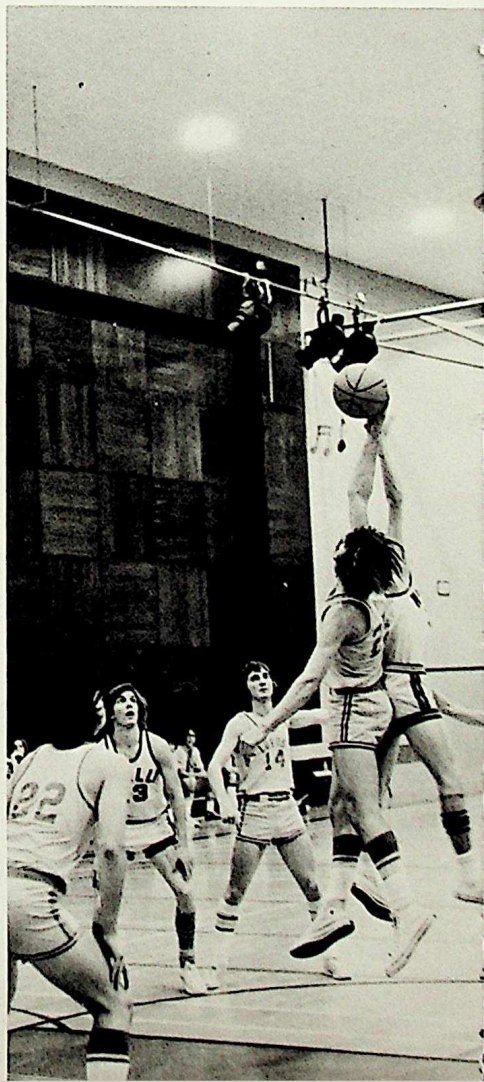
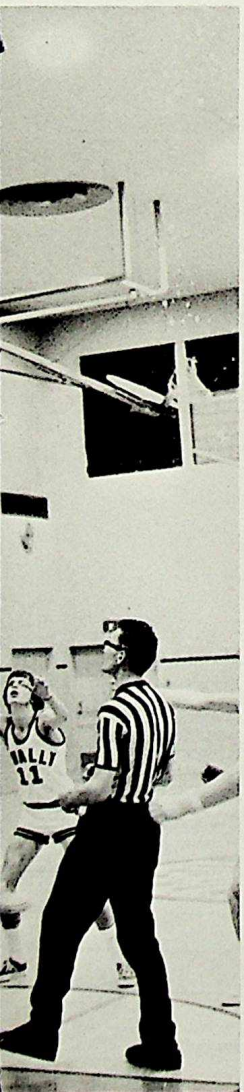
Girls' Senior Basketball

The girls played in a round robin competition and played well enough to be placed in the A division. In this division we placed seventh which was a high placing for a team composed mainly of grade elevens.





SENIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

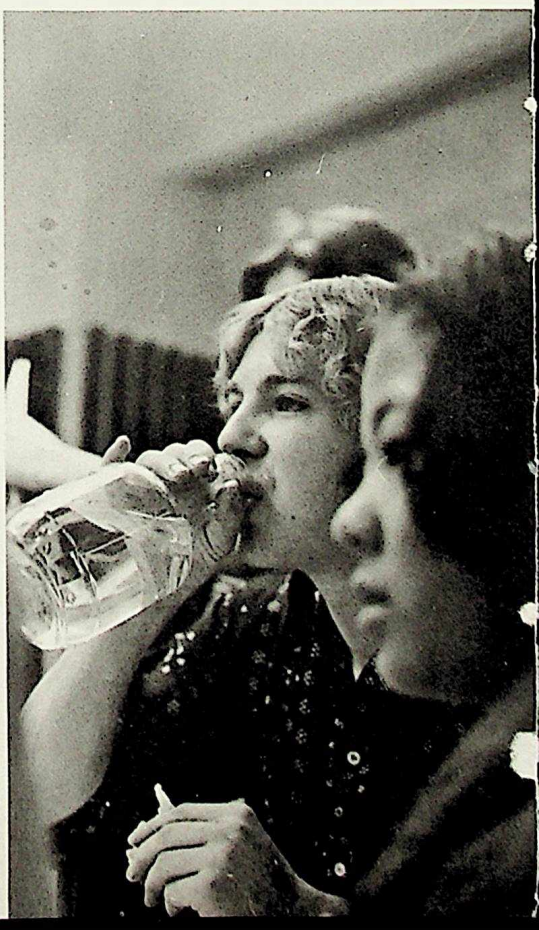
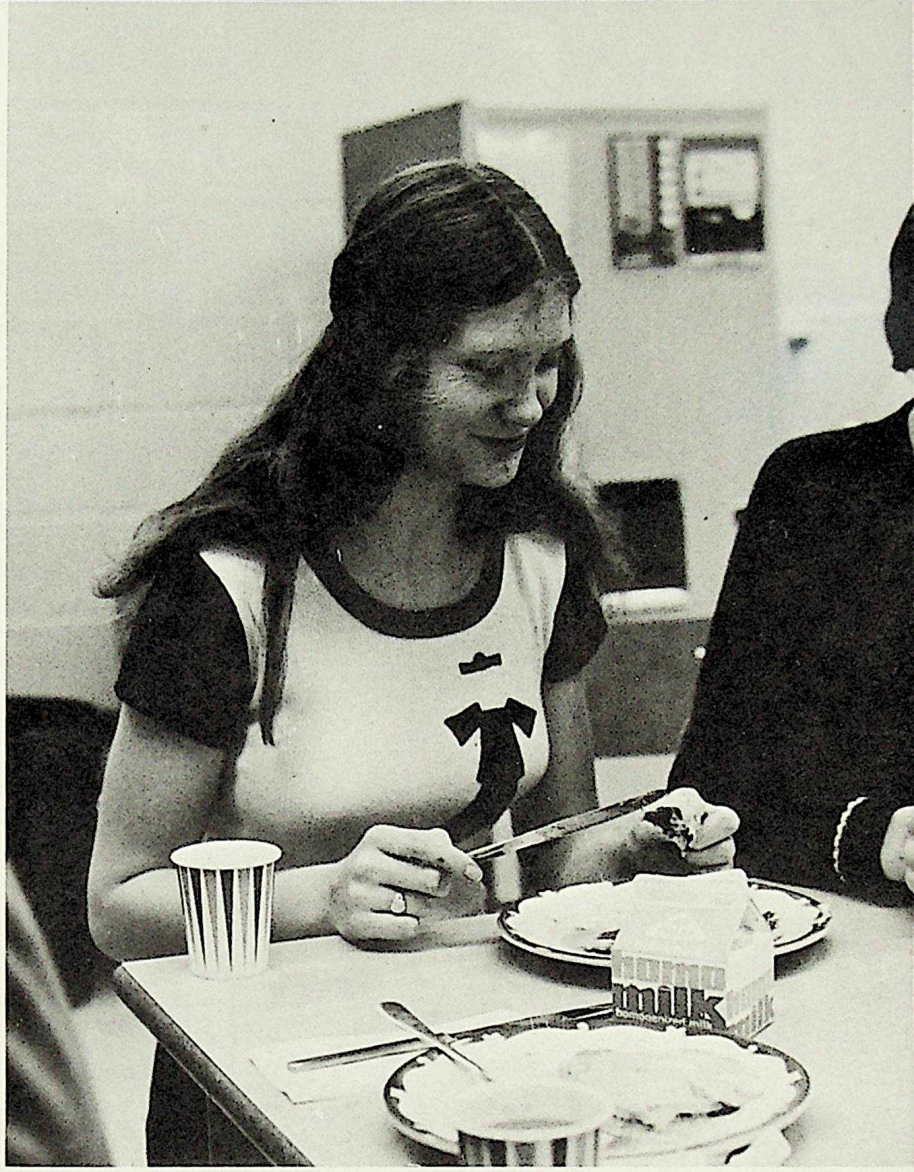
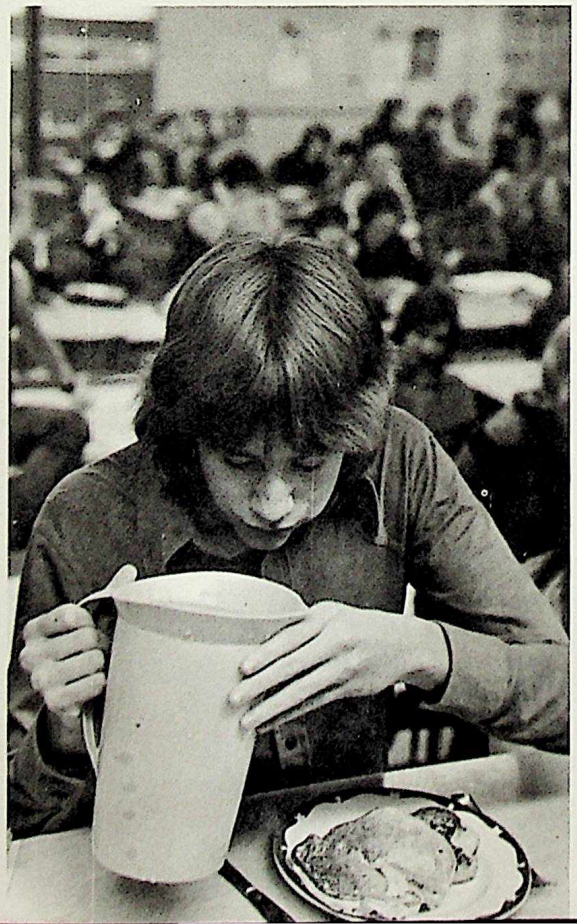
GIRLS' JUNIOR BASKETBALL
The junior girls' league was played in two halves. During the first half we had two outstanding wins and two hard-fought and narrow defeats. This record placed us second behind Oleary and in the "A" division.
The "A" division had high competition and the girls were kept to two wins and five losses. The girls lost the berth to the playoffs in a game against Vic. These girls were coached by two U of A students, Dianne Chisholm and Wendy Lefsrud, and are a fine start on a superb team next year.



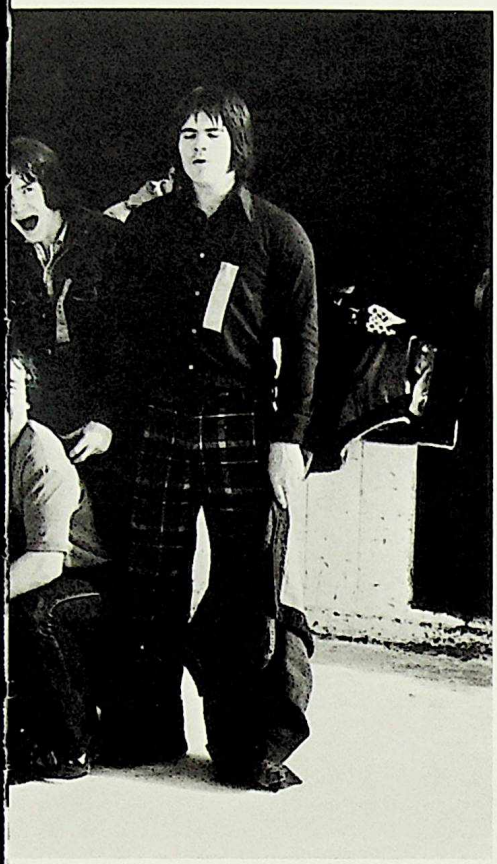


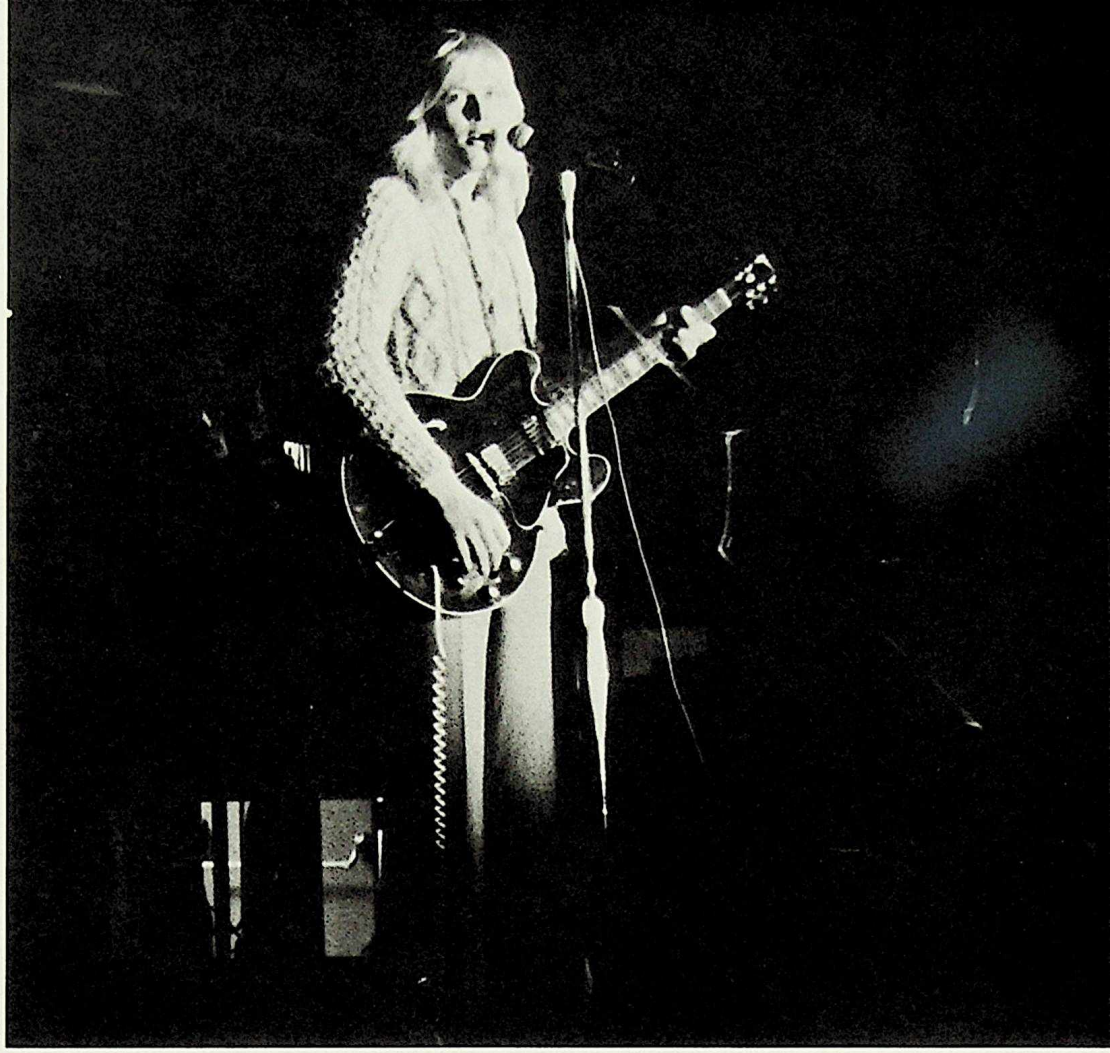


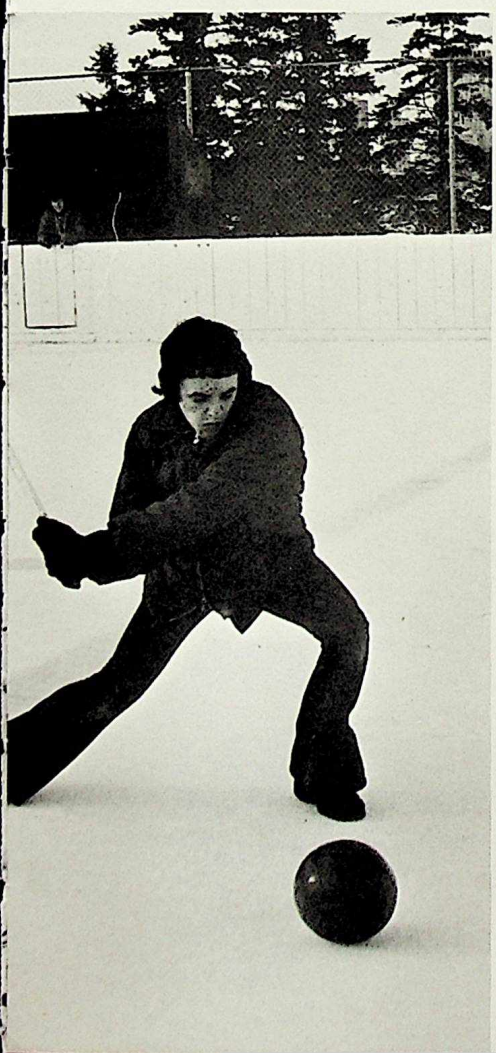
MUKI LUKI DAYS

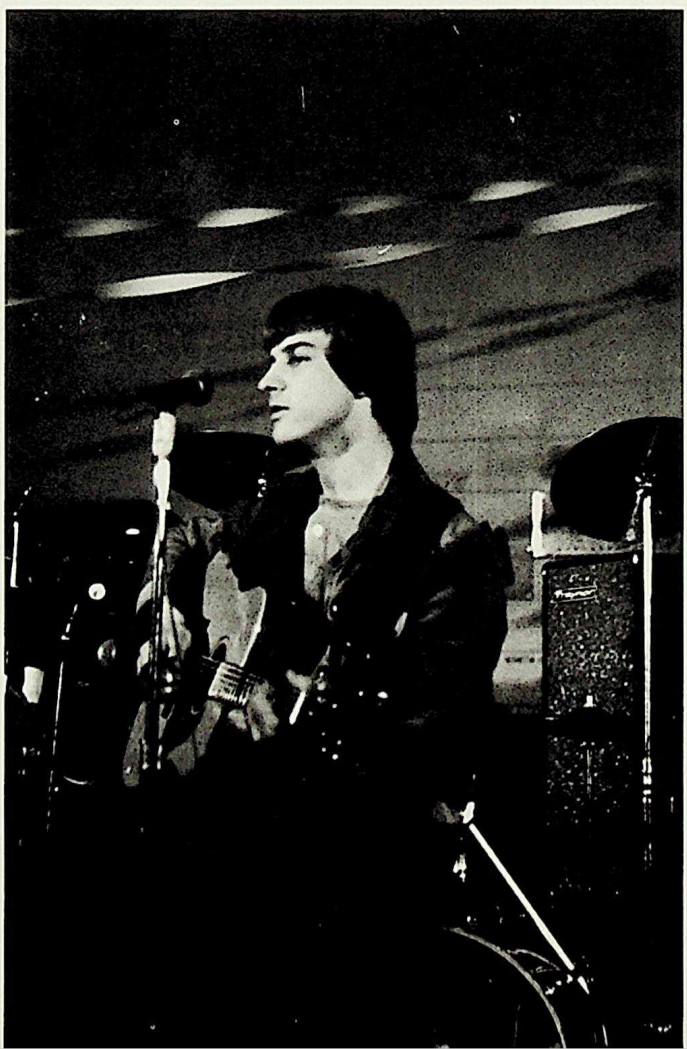
For a pleasant surprise this year's Muki Luki days were held in warm weather and featured water boiling, cross-country skiing, snow shoeing, broomball and hockey; tickets to the dance were offered as prizes to the winners.

The kickoff to the week's celebrations was the pancake breakfast prepared by the teachers. It was followed by the annual pancake-eating contest, the winners of which were Harry Katsantonis (he won two years ago as well) and Richard Aistrope. The finale of the week was the dance with Abraham's Children









JUNIOR BOYS' CURLING TEAM

CURLING TEAMS

McNally had four teams playing in the city school boys' league this year, the senior team receiving the "A" event trophy of its section. The seniors also came runners up in the School Boys' Christmas Bonspiels and a junior team skipped by Bruce Lewis won the "C" event of that spiel. The seniors also qualified with "A" Zone to compete in the Provincial Bonspiel.

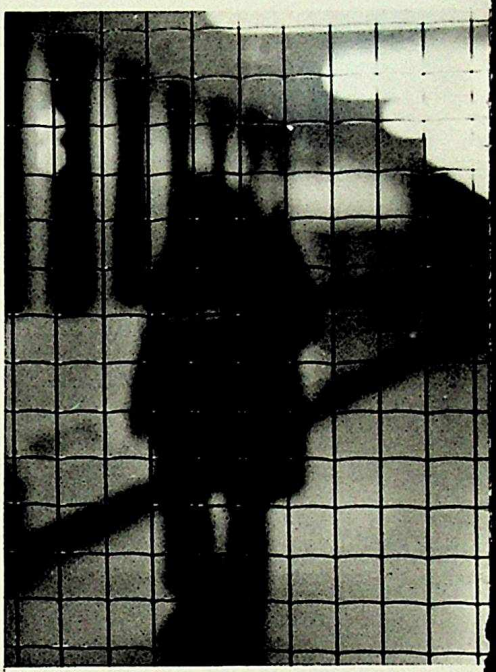
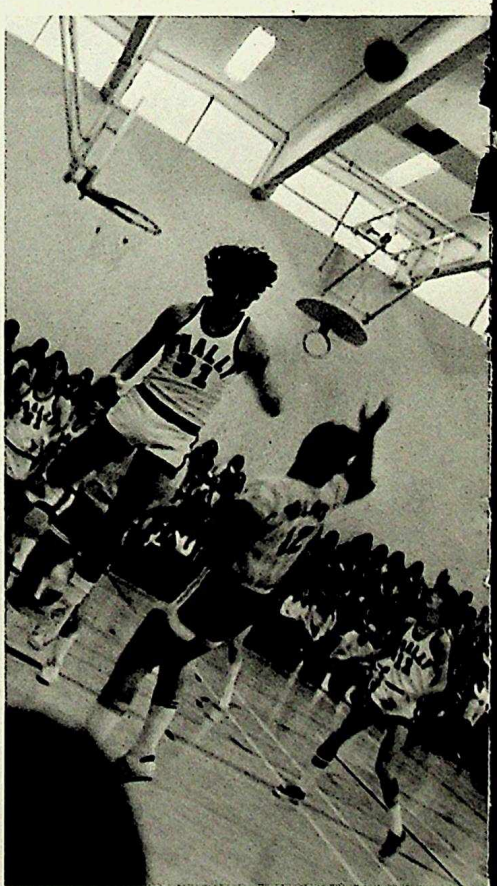
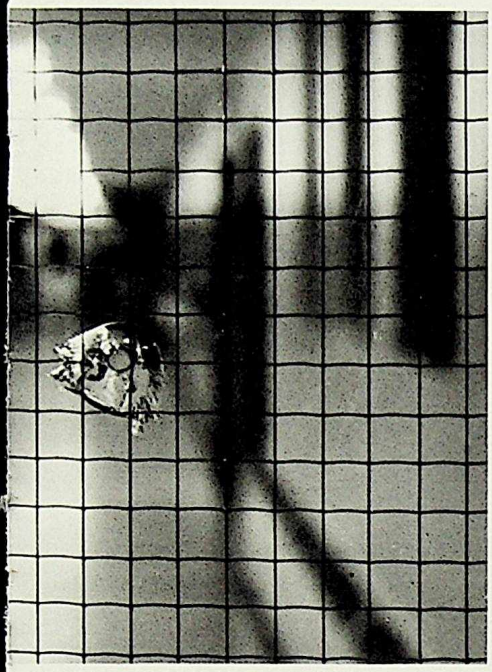
I think I feel something coming on!



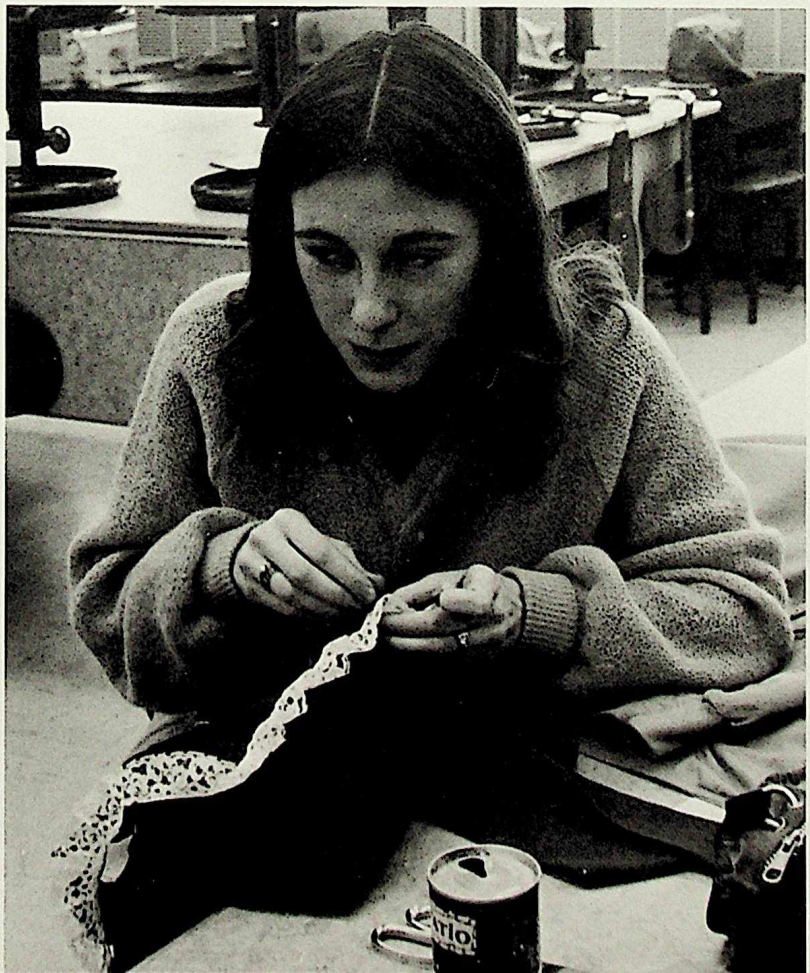


That Secret is our Secret.



Fort Saskatchewan Penitentiary? No, just another day at McNally.

The World's Greatest Athlete!

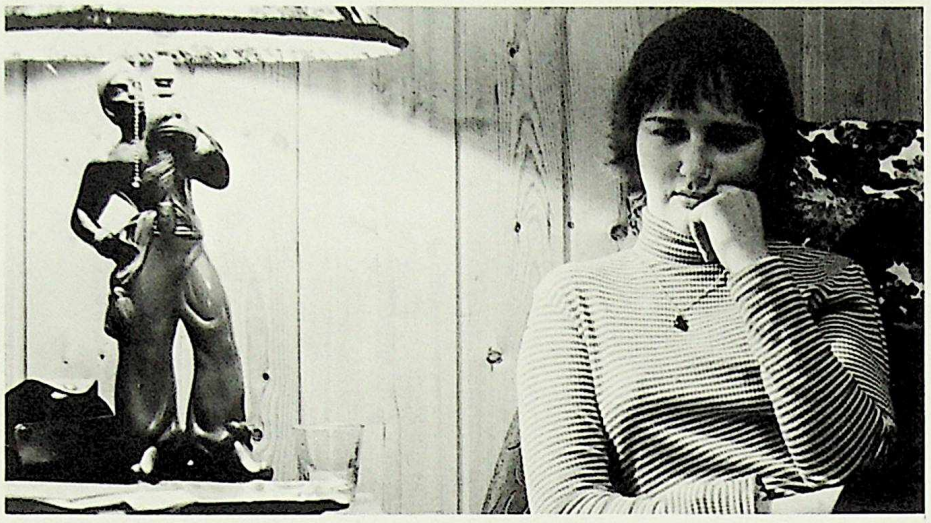


Sew, Sew, Sew, So What . . .

Our faithful cheerleaders playing ring around the tiger.

I never thought that a locker was so cold and indifferent!!

What goes up must come down; or must it?



If only he would phone . . .

There must be a better way to spend a Friday evening.

SILLY BOYS!!

the important things in life –

In today's fast moving world it's important for young people to stay informed. Your daily newspaper keeps you in the know on happenings at home and around the world!

Not just watching a year go by . . . but recording it on film and in thought. A special year, not only to me, to you; the memories held forever . . . within the pages of this book. With help and toil another year is captured, leaving itself open to be re-DISCOVERED.

Roger Patterson,
Editor.
